MORTGAGES.

NOTE.—The arrangement of this list is as follows: The first name is that of the mortgagor, the next that of the mortgagee. The description of the property then follows, then the date of the mortgage, the time for which it was given, and the amount. The general dates used as headings are the dates when the mortgage was handed into the Register's office to be recorded.

Whenever the letters "P. M." occur, preceded by the name of a street, in these lists of mortgages, they mean that it is a Purchase Money Mortgage, and for fuller particulars see the list of transfers under the corresponding date. Whenever the rate is not given, read as 6 per cent.

Editor RECORD AND GUIDE:

The mechanic's lien filed by me, as attorney, in favor of George McNamara, stair-builder, who recently disappeared, against Messrs. Bannon & Feehan, as owners of Nos. 93, 95, 97 and 99 East 106th street, for $425.00, on April 13, 1889, was filed for the purpose of forestalling a claim and attachment by G. Julius Hauser, turner, on the same work, against McNamara, which was compromised and paid to-day, and not because Messrs. Bannon & Feehan were unable or refused to pay. They paid me the face of the lien this day, and I have had the same discharged of record.

VOL. XLIII. APRIL 27, 1889. No. 1,102

Wiseacres of Wall street continue to give their reasons, at length, in the daily and financial press, why the price of securities does not advance, and why a bull speculation does not make its appearance; but the matter is a simple one. The business of the country is in a depressed condition, and there is no immediate prospect of its getting better. Coal and iron are slow of sale and their price is low, which shows that our manufacturing industries are in a bad way; nor is there any prospect of a revival, for, to all appearances, Congress will not meet until next December, and we will then be plunged into a tariff debate, which, while it lasts, will check industrial enterprises of all kinds. There is really only one promising factor, and that is the excellent crop prospects; but an abundance of agricultural products will not of themselves give us good times, if our manufacturing interests remain under a cloud until the tariff dispute is settled. It will take another year at least to effect this. The rapid accumulation of currency, at money centres, shows how indisposed capitalists are to invest until the tariff and fiscal policy of the country are finally determined.

If the new administration had taken our advice and called an extra session of Congress to meet on May 15th, how changed would have been the prospect. There would have been a hopeful feeling that something would come of the early session. It could very well have been given out that the first duty of the new Congress would be to appropriate the surplus money in the treasury productively, to rehabilitate our merchant marine for instance. A recess could have been taken during the hot months, and the tariff discussion taken up by October and closed by the holidays. But, apparently, President Harrison, with the instinct of his profession, wants to procrastinate, and his energy seems bent upon getting the Republican machines in the several States in good working order. But if the business of the country is kept disorganized through the tardy action of the party in power, there will be a Democratic House elected a year from next fall, and the administration will be a failure. "Go forth my son," said the Sage, "and see with how little wisdom the world is governed."

Facts and figures have recently been published to show that speculation on all the exchanges of the country is, and has for some time been, at a low ebb. The speculative dealings in railroad securities have fallen off more than one-half, although there are in existence twice and even three times the amount of stocks and bonds than there were eight or ten years ago. In 1880 and 1881 dealings in 800,000 and 900,000 shares per day were not uncommon. Recently 300,000 shares have been regarded as a good day's business. Cotton and grain tell the same story of a falling off in dealings, and petroleum sees no such fluctuations or trading as was common five years ago. The bucket shop doubtless explains in a part the falling off in the regular exchanges, but, undoubtedly, the betting on futures has resulted in equalizing prices and checking unnatural speculation. An excited market depends on wide fluctuation in prices, and these are discouraged by time sales.

But shrewd and experienced operators are looking for the development of speculation in some new field. The public, as years roll by, is afflicted with some pet lunacy. Sometimes it is land values, then railroad stocks of certain regions; and just at present the speculative fever is showing itself in trust stocks, some of which have great merit, but which are dangerous to deal in. The history of Tennessee coal and iron, of cotton seed oil, both excellent properties in themselves, is full of warning to conservative investors. No matter how intrinsically valuable the property may be, it seems fated to go through a baptism of fire. Cotton seed oil stock has run up from 30 to 70, then fell back to 25, and has since sold at about 60; yet there was no corresponding change in the intrinsic value of the certificates. Many of our readers will recall the petroleum excitement which broke out at about the close of the civil war—it created a downright popular frenzy. There are some who think that natural gas will some day be an object of similar popular favor. It is taking the place of coal in western Pennsylvania and in some of the Middle States. Both as a fuel and as an illuminant it is far preferable to any form of coal or coke. The profits on it have been enormous; the company that supplies Pittsburg has been paying 1 per cent. per month for over forty months. Yet the stock of this Philadelphia Company ran down from 130 to near 70. Since then new gas strikes in some of its fields have advanced the price of the stock to near 90. This natural gas is revolutionizing manufacture. The glass which is made by its use is the best in the world. It really looks as if the speculation of the future will turn more on industrial products, like cotton seed oil, sugar, gas (made from coal), natural gas, petroleum and the like. The speculative temper is only sleeping, not dead.

The principal denouncers of trusts and commercial combinations have been the newspapers and the politicians. Both have been blind to the real nature and meaning of the institutions they decried. Instead of seeing that they are the natural result of the conditions of modern trade they regarded them as merely the work of a few grasping monopolists. It is only the justice which events usually mete out to the fool that both newspapers and politicians have been compelled by the force of the very conditions which created the trusts to at last themselves turn for assistance to the principle underlying trusts.

In combining recently to increase the price of the Sunday edition to five cents the press of this city have done exactly what a score of organizations that they have roundly denounced as public robbers have done, and the New York Sun, the only paper in the city that has not been positively rabid on the trust question, has pointed out that the politicians are also "trusting" exactly as the oil men, sugar refiners, steel rail manufacturers and others did before them. The Republican interests in this city are now controlled by an independent board of seven persons. All power is delegated to them just as the trustees of the Standard Oil Company control the interests of all the refiners in the trust. The district delegates of the County Democracy place all authority in a Committee of Twenty-four. This committee controls the entire organization. In Tammany there is the same "trust." The power of the district leaders and the heads of the City Departments over patronage has been greatly curtailed of late, and all authority is being confered upon the Commissioners of the Sinking Fund—that is, the Mayor, Recorder, Comptroller, Chairman of the Finance Committee of the Board of Aldermen and the City Chamberlain. They form now the great political trust whose voice in party matters is supreme, and whose power in city affairs is almost predominant. There is nothing in these facts to be deplored or to cause good citizens the least anxiety. Just as the commercial trust results in greater economy, the political trust will secure more efficient government. The weak point in our municipal machinery hitherto has been the lack of a strong controlling responsible head. As the Sinking Fund Commissioners obtain a greater power over patronage, and exert a greater influence in city affairs, the people are sure to impose more and more upon them the responsibility for good government as well, and thus the "political trust" may bring about the great reform which has long been needed in municipal government—the repose of all power in a few hands directly responsible to the people. It is thus that the things we fear are often better than those we pray for.

There seems to be more popular interest in the civic parade of Wednesday than the military display of Tuesday. And very naturally so. We Americans have no real military, so have no material for an artistic display. In England or on the Continent there is not only a great deal of "show" about official life, which, however useless as it may be in the transaction of business, certainly lends color and brilliancy to a national parade of any kind; but there are the regiments, each with distinctive uniforms, great horses and brightly burnished arms. A citizens' committee working with militia men and inexperienced in the business cannot be expected to create a spectacle at all comparable to the spectacles which the experienced officials abroad can get up. This is something rather to be proud of rather than ashamed of. We are not a military nation; our officials do not carry swords and wear uniforms. We are not in the habit of massing troops into artistic lines and groups, for we have no troops to mass and no occasion to mass them. We are a commercial people, and the success of our jubilee will not be measured in terms of pomp and color, but in terms of the enthusiasm which is manifested for a government under which, whatever may be its faults, we have been prosperous and happy.

The power of corporations in our local politics is strikingly shown by the attitude of the city government and press of Baltimore to a horse-car company. Under a wise Maryland law the charters of horse-car companies expire in fifteen years' time. They are allowed two years' grace, and then, if no action is taken by the city government, the charter runs another fifteen years.

Some time since a charter expired by limitation, but the fact has been kept a profound secret. The entire Baltimore press have said nothing about it, nor has any mention been made of it in the Mayor's message, or in any municipal document. The company is powerful, politically, and controls many votes. It now pays 9 per cent. of its gross receipts in the city treasury. It is understood that it stands ready to pay 25 per cent. for the franchise, and the conspiracy of silence between the press and the city officials is to help the horse-car company at the expense of the city treasury. Surely an indignation meeting is in order in the "monumental city."

Municipal Control of Gas Works.

Our cities are now facing the same problem which confronted the local authorities of Great Britain, and was practically settled by them ten years ago, viz., the proper relations of municipalities to the gas supply. At that time all attempts to secure gas at a reasonable price through the competitive action of private companies, and, in fact, under any system of private management, was abandoned by leading cities throughout Great Britain as altogether out of the question, and the system of municipal ownership and control was substituted. The success which attended the municipalization of gas works in such cities as Belfast, Birmingham, Glasgow and others which took the initiative in this line of enterprise, led to the adoption of the same system by other cities throughout that country, until now, when a municipality is found which does not own its gas works, it is safe to conclude that the private companies in the place either refuse to sell their plants or attach such a high selling value to them that the city is unable to buy them up. In Germany over one-half of the gas works are in the possession of the municipal authorities, and the general tendency throughout the leading countries of all Europe is towards the assumption of the control of such undertakings by the local authorities. The question, then, may well be asked, shall we in this country totally disregard the experience of older European cities, and persist in attempting to apply principles in the management of our gas works which repeated trials have, without exception, declared unsound?

It is interesting to notice that the same objection which is now raised in this country against municipal ownership—that public corporations cannot manufacture gas so cheaply as can private companies—was one of the first arguments advanced against the proposal of the local authorities of Great Britain to assume control of their gas works. A few years of practical experiment, however, was sufficient to silence all opposition on this point in that country. It was soon found that cities, after complying with all conditions of transfers, were able to furnish gas to consumers even at a lower price than the private companies which they bought up had ever done, and at the same time realize a profit each year on the undertaking which went greatly to the relief of the rate payers. Birmingham assumed control of its works in 1875, and inside of four years the city was able, after paying the original company the annual interest on their investment according to the terms of the contract, and sinking fund charges for the redemption of the capital employed, to reduce the price of gas to the consumer over £30,000 ($150,000) annually, and relieve the taxes upon ratepayers to the amount of £25,000 ($125,000). The manufacture of gas has now become a prominent source of revenue to many European cities, the principle generally acted upon being to first reduce the price of gas to a reasonable rate and then place the remaining profits, if there are any, to the relief of taxation. Glasgow, in 1877—eight years after it had assumed control of its gas works—realized from them a net profit of nearly $90,000, and this after the price of gas per thousand feet had been reduced from 4s. 7d. ($1.10) to 4s. ($0.96). The net profits of the City of Belfast from her gas works at the expiration of the first year of municipal control amounted to over $55,000. When the city took charge of the works the price of gas was $1.20 per thousand, and under its management the price has been reduced to $0.66. These are only representative examples of hundreds of European cities which now derive large profits from such undertakings.

It is said that greater economy and efficiency are attained through the personal interest in an undertaking which comes from private ownership and management. This is unquestionably true in those lines of enterprise where the owner is able to look closely into the details of his business, but in undertakings like that of furnishing gas to large cities private companies must depend upon the faithfulness of paid agents as much as public corporations. But even if private companies could manufacture gas at a less cost than public corporations it by no means follows that the consumers would receive the benefit of this increased efficiency. Any advantage which companies under private control might possess in the production of gas is sure to go to the stockholders in the shape of increased profits. We hear constantly of discoveries of improved methods in the manufacture of gas, but seldom, if ever, hear of a fall in the price of this commodity following such discoveries. It is safe to say that in a majority of the cities in the United States consumers are paying prices for gas fixed years ago on the basis of older and more expensive processes of manufacture. According to the testimony and figures of an expert in the business gas can be produced and delivered to consumers at the present time in New York City at a profit for sixty-five cents per thousand feet. Have the consumers in this city received any benefit from improved methods in gas manufacture? Other cities are much more favorably situated for the manufacture of gas at a cheaper rate than New York. In Philadelphia, for instance, gas is even manufactured and delivered in the holders at a profit for less than forty cents a thousand. The exact cost of the manufacture of gas by private companies is difficult to obtain, so carefully is the secret guarded, but it can be approximated nearly enough to make it quite clear that under municipal control the present price charged could be greatly lowered, and then, after paying sinking fund charges and all costs of transfers, a handsome profit might still be secured to the city.

Under municipal control capital invested in gas works would be redeemed in a few years by laying aside a certain amount annually for a sinking fund; while, on the other hand, private companies demand profits in perpetuity, not only on the capital that has actually been put into the undertaking, but often on this investment capitalized for sometimes double its real value. Cities possess also other advantages over private corporations in the manufacture and supply of gas. Gas for street lighting would, for example, be furnished at the cost of manufacture, and this would also relieve the taxpayers who now pay, in addition to the cost of production, an extra sum which goes as profits to private stockholders. Still further, any extension in improvements in the plant could be carried forward by the city with capital borrowed at a much lower rate of interest than that at which it could be secured by private companies.

Our city fathers have been too easily persuaded in the belief that the question of furnishing gas to a city at the most reasonable rate was settled when other companies were allowed to enter the field in competition. This seeming failure of our city council to understand the true nature of the gas business, to perceive that a duplication or a multiplication of plants must always be at the expense of the consumer, and to observe that combination invariably follows the attempts of two or more companies to supply gas in the same city or district, must be attributed either to sheer ignorance on their part or—what is more probably true—to the direct influence brought to bear upon them by private companies. A councilman who feels that his official position is dependent upon votes controlled by wealthy gas corporations, or who perhaps burns free gas, as is commonly the case in cities throughout the country, is not at liberty to act as his better judgment might otherwise lead him. All attempts to regulate the prices of gas to consumers under systems of private control are and must be failures. The recent combination of all the gas companies of the City of Boston is only an example on a large scale of what is occuring almost weekly throughout the United States. Philadelphia, Richmond, Va., and Wheeling, W. Va., have for a number of years owned and operated their own gas works, and the results of municipal control in these cities will compare favorably, from every point of view, with those of any works in this country under private control.

Primary elections of the various city political parties have been a transparent humbug for the past forty years. The county and ward bosses have picked out the delegates, and the voting on their names was a mere form. The party machinery in every case was in the hands of an aristocracy of local leaders, influenced very often by a boss, such as John Kelly was for the Tammany men, and Arthur for the local Republicans. The County Democracy made the last endeavor to give some vitality to the primary election, but it has been a dismal failure. Recent developments show that the three local political organizations have given up all attempts at even pretending to have a popular basis. The Republican organization is in the hands of a committee of seven, who are all supreme. The County Democracy are ruled by an executive committee of twenty-four, one from each Ward, while the Tammany organization is substantially in the hands of Mayor Grant and City Chamberlain Richard Croker. In other words, a political "trust," has made its appearance in our local politics, closely imitating the industrial trusts. Our political organizations are no longer democracies; but are ruled by a supreme boss, assisted by an aristocracy of partisans. Like the chess-board, it is the queen, the castle, the knight and the bishop, which are to do the principle work, the average voter representing the pawns. Of course, these bosses must consult the wishes of the average voter, or else they would be displaced; but the change of leadership is profoundly significant. It is absurd to talk about the suppression of the negro vote of the South without keeping in mind that the white vote in all our large cities is practically dispensed with. The machinery of our local, State and federal politics, our great convention system by which candidates are selected, from Assemblymen and Aldermen up to President of United States, is practically without any popular voting basis. Everything is done by the politicians. This is why the Tom Platts and McQuades count for so much in our national politics. Either of these men in political contests counts for more than any million of voters, for in party management and in the conduct of elections the average voter has nothing to do but deposit the ballot put into his hands by the party boss or the local leaders.

Our Prophetic Department.

OLD NEW YORKER.—In view of the commemoration of a past event of note, suppose we have a chat about the past instead of the future. You are an old enough man to recall many phases in the past history of the city. What are your earlier recollections?

SIR ORACLE.—My first remembrance is of my father taking me over the ground covered by the fire of 1835, which had burned the older portion of the city below Wall street. I was then about six years old. That fire was a blessing in disguise for New York, and resulted in a great deal of improvement in the ultimate values of New York realty.

OLD N. Y.—Still it involved an immense loss of property, and must have helped to bring about the panic of 1837. Have you any recollection of that catastrophe?

SIR O.—I recall the flour riots vividly. My family then lived in "Little Green street," now known as "Liberty Court," upon which the Real Estate Exchange is situated. I recall the crowds of men and women who took the flour in sacks to their homes, until the streets were littered with the debris of the riot.

OLD N. Y.—At that time the city did not extend much above the Tombs. Maiden lane and John street were full of private residences, and Chamber street was the fashionable quarter of the city.

SIR O.—The Tombs was not yet constructed. Its original site was a small lake, or pond. Canal street was what its name implies—a canal—part swamp. As the city began to grow rapidly along the line of Broadway, Bleecker street became the fashionable quarter, where what the elder Bennett called the "codfish aristocracy" had their homes.

OLD N. Y.—What do you recall about theatres?

SIR O.—We had the old Park, on Park row, and a very good theatre it was. I remember a friend taking me to see Tyrone Power, who shortly after was drowned in the steamer President, which left this port for Guernsey, and was never heard of more. It was here Charlotte Cushman first won her fame. I recall Ellen Tree's Rosalind, and her husband, Charles Keene's, fine revival of "Richard III." The Bowery Theatre was next opened, the manager of which was Tom Hamblin, a fine actor, but who in my time had measurably lost his voice. His wife, Mrs. Shaw, was a very superior artist; but the early fame of the Bowery is associated with J. R. Scott and Kirby. "Wake me up when Kirby dies" has passed into a proverb. But the Bowery has graduated some good actors. Lester Wallack played quite a while there.

OLD N. Y.—You must recall the Chatham Theatre also?

SIR O.—Yes; it was made famous by the first long run in the theatrical history of this country—that of "Uncle Tom s Cabin."

OLD N. Y.—What else was there of interest down town that you recall?

SIR O.—The fact that Castle Garden was the Opera House of New York. It was here Jenny Lind appeared. I remember paying one dollar for standing room in the top gallery. It was here also that Julien gave his famous concerts. He was something of a humbug, but could excite enthusiasm. I recollect going to a ball in Castle Garden, given, I think, by the Seventy-first Regiment—Highlanders. A heavy snow storm came up, and people had to walk home. It was very uncomfortable to the ladies with low-neck dresses and the Highlanders without pantaloons. The Battery then was a beautiful place, and the chief breathing ground for New Yorkers.

OLD N. Y.—What special localities were you interested in when a small boy?

SIR O.—Well, Exchange place in winter time when the snow was on the ground. Crowds of boys used to run their sleds over that course from Broadway to Broad street. The practice went under the realistic name of "belly-gutters." My chief playground was in front of Grant Thorburns' seed store in Liberty street. One of my companions was Jimmy Casey, afterwards hung by a vigilance committee in San Francisco. He was a bold, bad fellow, and bullied the weaker boys. Speaking of criminals, I now recall the Bridewell in the Park alongside the City Hall. Pell's Museum was on Broadway, near by. It was, I believe, the basis of Barnum's more famous museum years afterwards. It was here I first heard the old joke: "This was the skull of Oliver Cromwell when a boy."

OLD N. Y.—The city did not then have many breathing spaces?

SIR O.—No; New Yorkers were neglectful of the future. But then there were farms and fields all above Canal street. On Sundays I often walked from my home to what is now 17th street, where two families named Dudley and Gaggin lived; it was a settlement in an open country. It seems so strange to me now to pass over the same ground covered with houses and densely populated. How wealthy I should have been had I put all my spare savings into real estate. At that time 5th avenue lots could be bought for $25 each. The general expectation was that 2d avenue would be the fashionable avenue, but destiny planned otherwise.

OLD N. Y.—You recollect something about our schools. There was a time when our public schools were under control of a private society, largely composed of Quakers.

SIR O.—Yes; I dimly remember the time when the transfer was made. There was violent opposition to the State assumption of educating the children of the community. The rich and childless people thought it unjust that they should be charged for the education of youngsters who did not belong to them. The first school I went to was kept by an old woman in Thames street. Afterwards I went to public school No. 1, situated on the present site of the Staats Zeitung building, on Tryon row. I remember a teacher there named Jacobus, who beat the boys unmercifully. The rod was an essential part of education in those days. I also recall a Mr. Belden, and a boys' rhyme about him lingers in my memory. "Good-bye! scholars; Good-bye! school; Good-bye! Belden; you are a darned old fool."

OLD N. Y.—From which distich I should judge that Belden did not spare the rod, but he did spoil the child.

SIR O.—I recall Henry Kittle, another teacher, a suave, pleasant gentleman. He was afterwards Superintendent of Schools, but lost his position through his rather pronounced advocacy of spiritualism.

OLD N. Y.—You recall the Volunteer Fire Department?

SIR O.—Yes; in my younger days every boy belonged to some engine company. There was a good deal of fighting at that time. The Volunteer Department did good work in its day; but many of the companies were composed of roughs, and the fights they became engaged in gave the thieves a chance to rob the burning buildings. Still, there was a great deal of heroism in the Fire Department, and they were the pets of the public; but the body degenerated into a political machine; the boys from the engine houses were organized to control the primary elections, and, indeed, from that day to this there have been no primary elections, as the delegates have been selected beforehand by the local politicians. It is a remarkable instance of popular illusion, that the average citizen who believed that the best way to reform our local politics was to get possession of the primary meeting, and hence the exhortations to the citizens to attend to their political duties in this respect. All the movements for improving the situation commenced just here, and all came to grief because the conditions that gave life to the primary election no longer existed. I remember a fine Volunteer's doggerel, to this effect:

No. One is full of fun;
No. Two is better;
No. Three is a bumble bee,
And No. Four is a cutter.
No. Five is a beehive;
No. Six picks up sticks;
No. Seven plays to Heaven,
While No. Eight he comes so late
He bumps his back against the gate.

It was supposed that the organization of a paid fire department would purify our local politics, but it was other and larger causes than fire department influences which were ruining primary elections as expressions of honest party opinion. Our present paid Fire Department is an immense improvement over the volunteers. The most humorous type of the old New York fireman was that presented by Frank Chanfrau in the character of Mose. The piece in which the character was portrayed was presented in Mitchell's Olympic Theatre, and was subsequently repeated all over the Union, but the actor is now dead and the part cannot be produced, as the type of fireman it portrayed is gone forever. I also recall the old "leather heads," the force of watchmen who preceded our present Police Department. They were the laughing-stock of the small boys. They had a star either on their helmet or their breast, for I recollect that one of them was outraged by a line, something to this effect, pinned on his back when he was asleep by one of the boys: "The stars do wink with over-watching."

OLD N. Y.—You spoke of the Olympic Theatre. Have we anything like it now?

SIR O.—No, and more is the pity. It is connected with the pleasantest recollections of my younger days. The house was a small one, the best seats being only 50 cents, and the pit or parquet was 12½ cents. The salaries must have been meagre, but what an admirable company it was. What pleasure I have had in witnessing the performances and hearing the singing of Mary Taylor, Mrs. Timm, Miss Clark, Mary Gannon, Charles Walcot, George Holland and Nickinson Stoddard, now of the Madison Square. I have seen "Fra Diavolo" very much better sung than at the Olympic, but never so well played. Mitchell himself made more out of Beppo than any subsequent actor I have seen in the same part. Walcot was the original Don Cæsar and was an actor of most delicious and refined humor, his line being high comedy. Miss Clark's Smike in "Nicholas Nickleby" was a wonderfully pathetic performance. George Holland's specialty was the broadest kind of farce. Mitchell was an admirable manager and believed in variety;

he never gave less than two pieces in one evening, and often four. I have wondered time and again why some of our modern managers did not reproduce a theatre like his; it could not fail to succeed.

OLD N. Y.—How about the churches of your younger days?

SIR O.—I went to Sunday-school in the old John Street Methodist Church. Most of the sermons were redolent of hell fire in those days. I dimly recall a trial of an abolitionist clergyman, the Rev. Charles K. True. He was censured by the Methodist bishops, whose judgment was presented by Bishop Bangs, a stern old gentleman, the ancestor of the auctioneers and lawyers of that name now living in the city. I first heard Dr. E. H. Chapin when he preached in Murray street. When a young man I went to hear Rev. Mr. Bush, a Swedenborgian; his congregation met in a hall near Lispenard street. I never could understand what he was driving at, but the attendance was of very intelligent people. I doubt if the Swedenborgians have increased in number during the past forty years. This allusion to the Swedenborgians recalls to my mind a scene in Stuyvesant Hall, on Broadway, opposite Bond street. Henry James, the father of the novelist, was the announced lecturer. He was a writer of very brilliant sentences and paragraphs; but for my part I could never make head or tail of his Swedenborgian metaphysis. Yet, when in in the University and subsequently, I was an earnest and I think intelligent reader of writers such as Sir William Hamilton, Auguste Comte, John Stuart Mill and Herbert Spencer, but Mr. James' writings gleamed with a light that blinded. I could make nothing of them. On attending his lecture I found a small audience; but when Mr. James entered upon the platform there was some trouble about the desk on which he laid his manuscript; it was too far from his eyes. The janitor finally brought a box; but, when it was placed in position and the lecturer began, in full sight of the audience on the box were the words "pure starch," there was a ripple of laughter, to the bewilderment of the lecturer. Turning around, I saw John Van Buren enjoying the situation. In this same hall every Sunday morning and afternoon Rev. T. M. Harris preached. Among the later attendants was Horace Greeley, who, to all appearances, slept through the morning services. I was present on the Sunday when Mr. Harris announced that he was a medium between Heaven and earth, and that God's holy angels daily ministered to him. He has had a curious and varied experience since then; for it was he who founded the Brockton community near Buffalo, and who has since removed to California. The late Mr. Oliphant, it will be remembered, was a disciple of Harris. But these yarns would spin out to all creation. To continue for a moment, however, I remember the Broadway Tabernacle, and heard many famous lecturers there, including Emerson. I recall the Hutchinson family, and remember hearing them announce, musically, that "Uncle Sam is rich enough to give us all a farm." There really was not a good singer in the whole quartet, but they were well drilled, were quaint in their remarks, and their songs were full of the reform-feeling and anti-slavery fervor of the times. Then I recall the abolition riots. I remember Fred. Douglas at his best, and heard him scold Capt. Rynders unmercifully for interrupting his meeting.

OLD N. Y.—Tell us of the amusements of your younger days—of the way the young New Yorker fifty years ago spent his leisure hours.

SIR O.—Well; the ball rooms I recall were Tammany Hall, and the Apollo Rooms on Broadway near Canal street. On the 8th of January, the anniversary of the Battle of New Orleans, there was always a great Democratic festivity, when the unterrified eulogized Gen. Jackson and afterwards "tripped the light fantastic toe." Tammany Hall, it will be remembered, occupied the present site of the Sun building. I recall many interesting scenes in old Tammany. A very remarkable individuality was Mike Walsh—a man who was both eloquent and humorous. He published a paper called the Subterranean and represented the radical Democracy, then nick-named the "Loco-focoes." This name was given them from a very inferior match which was used when matches were first discovered. These radicals had a contest with conservatives and were about to pass their resolutions when the conservatives turned the gas off. But the radicals were equal to the emergency, for they brought out their loco-foco matches and had the gas soon blazing again. For years this faction was known all over the Union by that name. It was Mike Walsh who said in the Assembly that it took as much genius to cross Broadway as it did to live in the rural districts all one's life, which shows that Broadway was almost as crowded then as now, and that was back in the forties. In making a speech at Tammany one night when a little "sprung," he frequently referred to the Democratic Virginia resolutions of '89 as containing the programme of the Democratic party. To embarrass him and counteract the effect of his speech a rival politician shouted out, "What were the resolutions of '89, anyway?" Mike did not know, but he was not going to be bluffed, and with an air of immense knowledge he pointed out his interrogator to the audience with the remark, "There's a damn fool who doesn't know the resolutions of '89, which, of course, every Democrat learned by heart when he entered politics." Naturally there was a roar of laughter, and the man was squelched.

OLD N. Y.—How about the holidays of your youth?

SIR O.—Holidays were few and far between. Young people in those days took little recreation. No out-door sports or baseball or lawn tennis. Billiards was almost unknown, though in time the six-pocket table with a chalkless cue came in play. An ingenious chap who first discovered the use of chalk made quite a pot of money in preparing it, as he led the billiard players to believe that it was only a certain kind of chalk prepared in a certain way that was of any value. Thalen and Dudley Cavanagh were the first great players, but their game would be considered very crude to-day. But you asked about holidays. We had Fourth of July, Thanksgiving and New Year's Day, but that was all. There was no Washington's Birthday, Easter holidays or observance of Christmas. The Puritan sentiment still prevailed. Many gifts were exchanged at Christmas, but the day itself was only partially kept. I confess I always liked New Year's Day. It was a kindly, hospitable anniversary; but the city finally got too large for it. The gentlemen could not make calls on all their lady friends. Fortunately it is still observed in the other cities throughout the country.

OLD N. Y.—Have you anything to say about the future?

SIR O.—On that point I could talk by the hour; but this conversation was to deal with the past. What a splendid metropolis we shall have some time. I have always believed in the consolidation of New York with Brooklyn and the surrounding country. What I have been talking and dreaming about all my life seems likely to be accomplished early in the next century. But I must quit.

Reminiscences of Old New York

ONE HUNDRED YEARS AGO.

Not quite a century ago, in December, 1789, an individual unknown to fame suggested, under the influence of the conviviality of a club dinner, that it would be a wise step to purchase the "Fresh Water Pond" and the rural lands surrounding it for a park, not indeed for the city of that day, for the spot was too far "out of town," but for the use of future generations.

The suggestion was ridiculed.

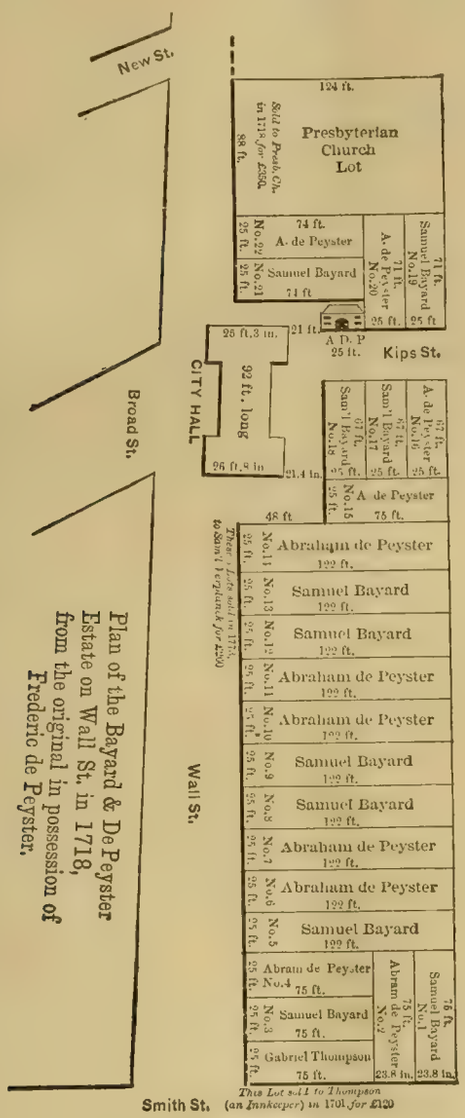
The idea that the city would ever extend as far northward as the present line of Leonard street was entirely too visionary to find a lodgment under the peruke of any sane citizen of the New York of the last days of the Revolution.

This fact exemplifies the marvelous growth of the metropolis during the century now closing, and goes to show that the average citizen of 1789 was as unimaginative a creature endowed with as little foresight as some of his descendants are to-day.

But the New Yorker of a century ago might well plead that there were reasons for his not recognizing the imperial destiny of the city.

In our illustrated supplement will be found a map of the great fire of 1776. The entire west side of the city had been devastated and the flames which had crossed Broadway consumed the lower part of the city in a northwesterly direction, between Whitehall Slip and old Trinity Church (see illustration). In 1789 the ruins of the conflagration were still visible. During the exciting years which had intervened more fighting than building had been done. Cattle grazed in the fields around Reade street (opened in 1794), which by the way was far enough from the populous parts of the city to permit the burial there of negroes. The population of New York numbered about 25,000, and the first directory, a little book of 82 pages with 900 names, had just been published. Chambers street was a place of rural felicities. Duane street had not been opened, and for some time to come pedestrians with athletic tendencies reached the termination of the sidewalk on the west side of Broadway at about Vesey street. Wall street was the centre of fashion, and Broadway, from the Battery to St. Paul's, was the great thoroughfare of the city and a favorite drive for the 400 of that day in their phaetons, one-horse chairs and other vehicles.

Beyond these narrow limits, Manhattan Island, traversed by two highways, gave as little token of the future city that was to cover it as it did when it was the site of a few wigwam villages of the Indians. Farms and homesteads dotted it here and there. The Apthorpe house (see illustration), at about 91st street and 9th avenue; the Hamilton house (see illustration), and the homes of the Joneses, Stuyvesants, Delanceys, Beekmans, Rutgers and other families whose names are still familiar.



One hundred years ago there was something like a building "boom" in the city—if so vigorous a term may be applied to any activity in those sleepy old-fashioned days. The streets on the lower east side of the town were being repaired, graded to carry the water into gutters, and supplied with brick sidewalks. Many houses were building on the site of the fire which had become known as "Canvas Town" from the tents which a rough class of citizens had pitched there during the war. The class of dwellings occupied by the well-to-do in those days is shown in our illustrations. They were principally of brick with tiled roofs and an architectual tendency towards a deformed Greek style. Most houses of pretension had a preposterous Ionic facade of three or four columns, surmounted often with a windowed pediment. Survivals of this architecture are still common in forgotten country places in several of the Eastern States. The Coster mansion given in our illustrations is an example. The dwellings were wider than in these days, perhaps not quite so deep, certainly not so high, three stories were the rule, four stories the exception, and in one of his letters Washington speaks of a five-story house which he inspected, but he had to abandon his investigations at the fourth story. Wall street was 50 feet wide, Hanover square a place of residence, and William street the seat of the retail dry-goods trade. The city was supplied with well water, carried from door to door in casks, and a famous pump stood at the head of Pearl street. There were no public schools in 1779, for the first one was not opened until 1806 in a house in Madison street, and the first school building was not built until later on Chatham street.

WALL STREET AND THE VALUE OF PROPERTY.

Below we give a map of Wall street in 1718, showing the value of certain lots at that period, the value of others as late as 1773 showing that prices had not greatly increased, if indeed they had increased at all. In 1718 the northwest corner of William and Wall streets, where the new Bank of America stands, sold for $600, and in 1773 three lots near the City Hall sold for $1,300.

To-day the property is some of the most valuable in the city.

In connection with the foregoing the following figures will be interesting historically and for comparison.

The list shows the transfers of property on Wall street during the past ten years. The casual reader will be interested by the astonishingly high figures which are paid for this gilt-edged properties once owned by the De Peysters, Bayards and others.

$7,469,169

From the foregoing it will be seen that over seven million dollars were involved in the transactions completed, excluding several deeds for nominal considerations. It will also be observed that in several instances handsome profits were realized on some of the pieces bought and resold. Chief among these may be mentioned the sale in May, 1881, of No. 35 Wall street and Nos. 13 and 15 Broad street, to D. O. Mills, at an advance of $115,000 on the sum of $510,000 paid for the same premises a year earlier. Among the sales was a lot on the southwest corner of Wall and Broad streets, containing 508 square feet, at $168,000, or $330.70 per square foot. This is the highest figure ever paid for city realty. Mr. Wilkes, having purchased adjoining property, has filed plans for a new building on the site as announced elsewhere. The premises, No. 15 Wall street, rose rapidly in value if the figures are trustworthy, but it may be added that at least one transfer was at what seems a fictitious price, and subsequently the property was sold for a lower figure. A piece showing a decline in values is No. 82, which the Marine Bank bought in 1884 at $65,000, and the receiver sold in 1885 at $52,500. Amongst the ancient structures sold was the "Tontine" building, known as Nos. 84, 86 and 88, the northwest corner of Water street, the consideration being $138,550. Nearly a million dollars was paid for Nos. 6 to 12 by the Astors, which represents the largest purchase made on the street. An item which will be missed from the list is the "Orient" building, Nos. 41 and 43, which was sold at auction in January, 1888, to Eugene Kelly for $450,000. The reason the item does not appear is that Mr. Kelly made some objections to the title, and refused to complete the sale.

REAL ESTATE ADVERTISEMENTS IN YE OLDEN TIME.

One hundred years ago there were newspapers in the good City of New York, and consequently there were advertisements. Real estate was bought and sold—much of it in the coffee houses and taverns which in the past took the place of the present Exchange. In the following copies of old advertisements it will be noticed how little the phraseology of the profession has changed:

THE CITY GOVERNMENT.

The government of the city when New York was the political capital of the country has been described too often to bear repetition here. The present City Hall was not built until 1810. The corner stone was laid by Edward Livingston in 1803. It cost more than half a million of dollars. The marble came from Stockbridge, Mass., and the building was considered the handsomest structure in the United States. Of course the memory of none of officials goes back to that day, but there are some who can speak of the days when the building was still "new."

Thomas Boese, Clerk of the Superior Court, is one of the oldest of our officials. He is in his sixty-third year, and has occupied the post he now holds, with that of Clerk of the Board of Education, alternately, since 1847. While in the last office he published a "History of Public Education in New York," which is a most valuable book, owing to the hitherto unpublished information which it contains. He was in official harness about nine years before Clerk Cady, who is generally supposed to be the oldest official in the city. During his forty-two years of office Mr. Boese has met with most of the public men of the last half century. He said: "I was born in New York, and used to play around the Court House when I was eight years old. At that time we had very few policemen; not more, I think, than a dozen. There were, besides, several Sunday officers and Ward constables. The latter were elected by the people and were attached to the courts. They had no uniform in those days. The city watchmen used to wear a leather hat, somewhat in the style of the present firemen's headgear. I was appointed a Clerk of the Court of Common Pleas in 1847. I recollect well many of the old lawyers who used to haunt the chambers then. The great political meetings in those days used to take place in front of the City Hall. They were generally held in the afternoon, so as to give an opportunity to the business and working people to come and listen on their way home. These meetings would sometimes be attended by five and six thousand people. The meetings during the Presidential contest in 1848, when Cass, Van Buren and Gen. Taylor were the candidates, created intense excitement. In those days the Democratic speakers compared more than favorably with those of the present day, and there was an abundance of them. John Van Buren, Chauncey Shaffer and John Cochrane were the great speakers in the Van Buren interest, the two former being especially noted for their wit. The Van Buren party were called 'Barnburners;' why, I forget. [It was a term of reproach. This section of the Democratic party was supposed to sympathize with the anti-renters.—ED.] The Democrats used to hold their meetings at Tammany Hall. The nominations made at committees had to be actually ratified at a mass meeting of the party held in Tammany Hall, and there sometimes used to be a great struggle between the opposing factions in the convention to get in their particular nominees. Some old stagers will recollect the term 'loco-foco.' It became attached to the name of the Democratic party somewhere between 1835 and 1840. A faction of the party, headed by Alexander Ming and Wilson Small, who held their meetings at Military Hall on the Bowery, had learned that the Tammany Hall wing of the party had threatened that if they found the Military Hall faction were going to be strong enough to defeat the ratification of certain of their candidates at a mass meeting to be held, that the parties in control of Tammany Hall would put out the gas. The Military Hall faction therefore decided to come prepared for such an emergency, and they brought with them candles and loco-foco matches, which were then just invented. The gas was actually turned off at the meeting, and they lighted a number of candles with the matches and continued the meeting. They were for that reason called 'loco-focoes.' Subsequently their platform of principles was adopted substantially by the Tammany Hall section, and after that the Whigs dubbed the entire Democratic party 'loco-focoes,' a term which was applied to them for years afterwards. The City Hall Park was, in my early days, the rendezvous for all the politicians. David T. Valentine, for many years Clerk of the Board of Aldermen, and author of "Valentine's Manual," had an office in the City Hall. The Chambers of the Court of Common Pleas, after the Court had risen, was the meeting place for many eminent lawyers and politicians, who used to come there to have a talk. Few people at that time lived above 8th street, and they seldom went out of town, except to Hoboken or Staten Island, and that was considered a good trip. On summer afternoons it was quite a usual sight to see men like James T. Brady, John Van Buren, James R. Whiting ('Little Bitters'), Ambrose L. Jordan ('Old Phosphorus') and other prominent lawyers promenading Broadway. The two last-named were frequently pitted against each other in legal contests, and their characters are described in their nicknames. Many of these genial fellows would in the afternoon frequent the basement of the Windust restaurant, which was located on Park row, near Ann street, just south of the present Mail and Express building. There they would drink good old brandy and smoke Spanish cigars, telling stories and cracking jokes till dusk, when they would disperse to their homes, which were nearby. Van Buren and Brady were the great wits on these occasions, and it was always enjoyable to be in their company. The great processions in those days used to start from lower Broadway and go northwards to 14th street, then turning into the Bowery, through Chatham street and down past the City Hall, where was the reviewing stand. About this time 'the 7th Ward aristocracy,' as they were called, left East Broadway and neighborhood and moved further north. Bond street then became the favorite and fashionable part of the line of march; just as 5th avenue now is. I recollect the Whig headquarters at the Broadway House, on the northeast corner of Broadway and Grand street. It had a bar-room down stairs and a meeting and dancing hall up stairs, after the fashion of all such assembly places then. Silas Wright used to hold forth at Tammany Hall, where the Sun building now is, and Daniel Webster at the Broadway House. I remember how Webster came to remove here. He had allied himself with the unpopular Tyler party in Massachusetts, and this resulted in his deciding to leave that State. He moved to Bergen, N. J, and practiced law in New York, having his office together with Luther R. Marsh and Oscar Sturtevant."

"Do you recollect Samuel J. Tilden?" asked the writer.

"Yes," said Mr. Boese, "very well. He was never a good speaker, but he was a man of remarkable ability from the beginning of his career. He first became prominent in connection with the political law suit between Azariah C. Flagg—formerly one of the leaders of the Albany regency, of whom Tilden was a disciple—and John S. Giles. Flagg and Giles had been candidates for the Comptrollership, and it was charged that the latter had been counted in in the 19th Ward. Tilden was counsel for Flagg and won the case, the latter becoming Comptroller. Tilden at that time had his office in Jauncey Court, on Wall street, and Andrew H. Green was associated with him. His first business venture, as I recollect, was in connection with the dry dock at the foot of Pike and Market streets, of which he was one of the promoters. In appearance, even as a young man, he looked thin and cadaverous. He was quiet in manner, a good listener and a first rate lawyer. He also had an excellent knowledge of men. It is not generally known by the present generation that Tilden once ran for Corporation Counsel on the same ticket with Havemeyer, who was a candidate for the Mayoralty. Andrew H. Green managed the campaign. This was in 1859, and Tilden's opponent for the office was Greene C. Bronson. Bronson was elected on the same ticket with Fernando Wood, who became Mayor."

"What was the condition of the streets in your early days?"

"With the exception of Broadway, and a few other of the principal streets and thoroughfares, it was rather bad," said Mr. Boese. "The city was mostly lighted by oil lamps, and it was not unusual for the oil to be frozen in winter and many of the streets left in the dark. The sewerage was little attended to, and the gutters and street crossings were often flooded and frozen over. The back streets after a snow storm were almost impassable. The fire engines were heavy and cumbersome, and the water supply was inadequate. It was not unusual for the firemen to break through fence after fence to get at cisterns for water. Previous to the introduction of Croton water there were large cisterns in front of every church and other large building, and these caught the rain as it ran off the roof. The city depended upon pumps for drinking water and upon the cisterns for water for washing purposes. The Manhattan Water Works also supplied a number of wealthy residents with water which they obtained from springs. The church bells used to give the fire alarm in those days, and the sextons were paid a small sum for the service. Afterwards the great bell on the City Hall was used. This was located right behind the cupola on that building, and a man could use a telescope there and look all over the city. Every genteel household used to get in large supplies of wood for the winter then, as coal had not yet been introduced to any extent. We had storehouses in the rear of our dwellings, for twenty or thirty loads of wood had to be put somewhere. Some old residents will recollect when they had to split wood on Saturdays to supply the household for the ensuing week. I recollect John Jacob Astor living on Broadway, opposite Niblo's. There was also an Astor who lived on the Bowery, near Hester street. The Marine Court in those days held its sessions in the basement rooms of the City Hall, now occupied as the Third Police Precinct offices. The New York College, then the free academy, was established as a college about half a century ago by a vote of the citizens. Many of the wealthy classes opposed this step, on the ground that the State should not give any education beyond the elementary branches to the children of the working people."

THE OLD CITY DEPARTMENTS.

Artemas S. Cady, Collector of Assessments and Clerk of Arrears, enjoys the distinction of having faithfully served the city for over thirty-six years, having been in office longer than any other official except "Tom" Boese. In a talk with the reporter he said: "I was appointed on January 1, 1853. Our bureau was not then organized. We were then, with other departments, located in the present Register's office. We remained there till 1876, when we moved to the Court House building, and in 1884 came over to the Stewart building. When I came into office the sales of property for taxes in arrears were conducted very similarly to the way they are now; only there were fewer of them. I have no figures at hand showing how many there were, but they are now at least ten times as numerous. We had no idea in those days that New York was going to be what it is. All the public offices were so unimportant that now, looking back, they seem to me to have been pocket bureaus, compared with what they have since become. The city's taxes then were less then $4,000,000, now they are over $37,000,000. The tax rate in 1853 was $1.23 per cent., and before that less than 1 per cent.; now it is $2.22. The management of the public departments is fully as good now as it was then, while in many cases there has been a decided improvement. I recollect being told when the present City Hall was built that it was considered so far out of town that only the front was built of marble. The northern side was built of brown stone, the idea being that that side of the building would never be noticed, as no one lived on the other side of the City Hall Park, and it would be a waste of money to put a marble front where it would never be seen. The City Hall was commenced in 1803 and finished in 1812, its cost being $538,000. When I came into office the 'City Fathers' were composed of twenty Aldermen and twenty Assistant Aldermen. A few years after, the latter were abolished and replaced by a Board of Councilmen. Later on, at about the close of the War, that body was reformed and an Alderman elected from each ward, as at present. In my early days they used to call the City Fathers 'the Forty Thieves.' They were, on the whole, men of standing in the community, but the nickname applied to them shows that they were not publicly believed to be all honest men. They were then almost purely American, of the old stock. There were no Irish Aldermen in those days. I recollect, as a boy, some sixty years ago, seeing people in Knickerbocker costume, but only now and then. It was a rare thing, and only worn by some of the old residents and country folk. Our post-office was then in the old brown stone building in the City Hall Park. It was later on removed to the corner of Nassau and Liberty streets, where the Mutual Life Insurance Company's building now stands. The early pavement of New York used to be of cobblestones, and the condition of our streets is much superior in every way to what it was then. I recollect stages running from the City Hall along 7th avenue, the fare, I think, being six cents. Burton's Theatre, on Chambers street, between Broadway and Centre streets, and the Park Theatre, on Park Row, were the two great amusement places then. The Tribune, Sun, Courier and Enquirer and Evening Express were the principal papers, and they were single sheets for many years."

Some of the illustrations which we give in this number are derived from Mrs. Lamb's "History of New York," published by A. S. Barnes & Co. It is due to the courtesy of that firm that we are enabled to reproduce them.

The Washington Building.

The remarkable progress made by New York City during the past century could not be better illustrated than in the contrast between the old mansion which stood on the site of the present Washington building and the superb structure which now graces the spot. When the Kennedy mansion was built its inmates little dreamed of the wonderful twelve-story building, which the enterprise of Mr. Cyrus W. Field has added to the architectural features of the city, and if they could return to Mother Earth to-day the metamorphosis would appear to them like the work of an Aladdin's lamp. Contrast the two buildings in the illustrations which we publish, the one an unpretentious two-story dwelling; the other an enormous office building, with a dome reaching to 258 feet above the ground, with about 860 windows and 358 rooms, every one of which is perfectly ventilated and lighted by the rays of the sunshine, making them unsurpassable for office purposes. It occupied a day to compute the number of bricks in the structure, which was found to total about 7,000,000. The Washington building, or the Field building, as it is more often called, is undoubtedly one of the handsomest office structures in the world. It has a total frontage of over 375 feet, of which 171.9 feet is on Battery place, 100 feet on Broadway and 104 feet on Greenwich street. All its foundations are on solid rock. It is one of the most perfectly fireproof buildings in the city, and it has four elevators and will soon have two more, making six in all. It has an artesian well. It has electric light throughout, supplied by special dynamos in the basement. It stands not only on an historic spot, but on one of the most valuable pieces of ground down town. The location is certainly unsurpassed, for it has a superb and unobstructed view of the Bay, the Narrows, the North River, and the Staten Island, New Jersey and Long Island shores, as well as the Brooklyn Bridge, the Statue of Liberty and other prominent objects. It is probably the first building to attract the foreigner who comes to our shores, and it stands out prominently, both on land and water, as one of the noblest buildings at the extreme southern boundary of Manhattan Island. The Washington building, and the land on which it stands, are valued at $3,000,000.

The Adrian Apartment House.

It does not require the memory of the oldest inhabitant to recollect the time when the west side of this city was almost a barren stretch of territory from 59th street northwards. It is scarcely ten years since that the first improvement that started the building movement on that side of the city was conceived by the late Mr. Clark. At that time there was scarcely a building of a modern character west of the Central Park. What a metamorphosis has taken place since is seen in the thousands of structures which have been reared in the past five or six years where nothing was to be seen before but grass and hedge.

In the improvement of the west side no street has received greater attention than 72d street. It has had the advantage of having been nurtured by the wealthy property-owners along its route. These gentlemen have been possessed of that peculiar local pride which makes men feel that they want their street to be perfection, no matter what other street is not. And they have been a class of men who are not by any means wanting in the particular ability to carry through the necessary measures to improve and beautify their street. Not satisfied with having it placed under the jurisdiction of the Park Department, they have had it repaved and otherwise put in fine condition, and have obtained an appropriation with which elm trees, surrounded by grass plots, have been planted along both sides of the curb. The streets and avenues in New York City which have had this particular care taken of them can be counted on one's fingers. It not only enhances the value of the property along their line, but it makes it pleasant to walk and drive on them. Indeed, 72d street has become the principal driving thoroughfare to connect the east and west parts of the city, and it is the great highway leading to and from the Riverside Park, with its bracing water breezes and its fine view of the Palisades.

West 72d street is, almost along its entire distance, lined with private residences. The exceptions are the avenue corners, some of which have been improved with handsome apartment houses. It is one of these—"The Adrian," which has recently been completed—to which I wish to refer. It is a very handsome building, and occupies the southeast corner of 9th avenue. It has two entrances, one on the avenue and one on the street. The latter is the main entrance and leads to the apartments on the upper floors. It has a portico with granite columns. The vestibule walls and ceiling are covered entirely in solid oak, while the flooring is in marble tiling. The hall, which is entered through a handsome oak door, is about 45 feet in length. It is lighted by means of a stained-glass ceiling, looking out on a courtyard, which runs to the top of the building, and which also gives light to all the rear windows of the various suites of apartments above. These are eight in number, and contain nine rooms each. They have reception, music, dining and drawing rooms, all communicating with each other. This is a feature which cannot be too frequently referred to in terms of commendation, for our modern social life makes such an arrangement all the more desirable, and is very much appreciated by those who wish to live something better than a humdrum life. Each suite also contains three bedrooms, a bathroom with all the conveniences, and a kitchen, with all the domestic arrangements, including porcelain washtubs, etc. The reception rooms are handsomely fitted up with mantels of special design, with mirrors and fireplaces, andirons, etc. The walls are covered with cartridge paper and the ceilings are decorated. There is no attempt to be gaudy, nor is there anything to offend good taste. There is a private hall to each suite, from which entrance and exit is obtained from every room. There are three bedrooms, exclusive of a servant's bedroom adjoining the kitchen, which is separated from the remainder of the apartment. The elevator is quite a handsome piece of workmanship and has the air-brake and air-cushion safety attachments.

The two first floors of the building are devoted to business purposes. The first floor has four large stores, the corner being occupied by the well-known druggist, H. A. Cassebeer, and two others by a decorator and a real estate broker, while the fourth has been leased to the Western Union Telegraph Company. The second floor, which is reached from the avenue entrance, contains six offices, a suite of bachelors' apartments and janitor's apartments. All are occupied. There is an elaborate toilet room on this floor, with a 5-foot marble wainscoting.

The main feature of the building is that every window has direct light. Another feature is that there are no boilers in any part of the structure. All the house machinery is under the sidewalk, including the boilers, and hot water is obtained from these to run to every floor during day and night. The building is partly fire-proof and is well planned and well constructed throughout.

The property is one of the most valuable on the west side. It was commenced and nearly finished by the late Terence Farley, who during his life was one of the most active builders in this city, both on the east and west sides. The Adrian is now managed by his sons, who have resolved to hold the property as an investment for the estate. OBSERVER.

Important Special Notices.

E. A. CRUIKSHANK & CO.

Some five years hence this firm, by a long way the senior real estate house in this city and probably the oldest in the country, will celebrate the centenary of its existence. It has seen many vicissitudes in New York—real estate panics, booms and extraordinary increases in values. The father of the present head of the firm is still active, and in his early days had charge of the estates of some of our oldest families. He has lived to see his son twice elected president of the Real Estate Exchange, an institution undreamt of in his time. The firm has a very large number of properties under its management, and its rentals and sales of realty of every description are considerable.

H. H. CAMMANN & CO.

It is characteristic of the position held by the real estate broker and agent of this day that he is now in many cases given important positions of trust to fill in the community. Mr. Cammann, who was for three years president of the Real Estate Exchange, is also a trustee of Trinity Church Corporation, and a prominent member of a number of charitable institutions. He has in safe keeping the propertied interests of some of the wealthiest and best of our citizens, and has an able co-worker in Mr. Newbold T. Lawrence, his partner. The main business of this firm is the management of estates.

GEO. R. READ.

Some men achieve distinction in the particular walk of life they have chosen to follow more rapidly than others. With many it is a tedious journey; with a few success comes quickly. Geo. R. Read is to be placed in the latter category. He had a long experience under the able generalship of such a veteran as the late Edward H. Ludlow, and when he entered the field on his own account he at once, naturally as it were, took his place in the front rank, a strong evidence of the estimation in which he was held. He has transacted business for the Astor and other wealthy estates and has charge of a number of first-class office properties, as well as other classes of real estate. His office is in the Astor building, No. 9 Pine street, of which he has the management. Mr. Read is treasurer of the Real Estate Exchange.

S. F. JAYNE & CO.

The high standing of this firm, and its increasing business, is an evidence of the character of the members of which it is composed. They are both gentlemen of refinement, and they are as untiring in their industry as they are capable and successful in the management of the properties intrusted to their care. Their handsome and well-appointed office at No. 254 West 23d street, is an improvement, both in size and appearance, over the office which they occupied for many years opposite, and is a reflex of the volume of business now transacted by them, as compared with the earlier years of their existence. They also have a down-town office in the Real Estate Exchange building. They make fire insurance, as well as the collection of rents, a specialty.

PORTER & CO.

When Mr. David F. Porter, the head of this firm, commenced business in Harlem the population of that section of the city was only about one-quarter what it is at the present day. As Harlem has grown in inhabitants and habitations so has his business increased, until now it is the largest up his way. His firm does a very large up-town renting and collecting business, and have the entire charge of a great many properties. Mr. Porter is a director of the Real Estate Exchange, and was one of the Presidential Electors of this State selected to cast the vote for President Harrison. The firm's offices are at No. 77 East 125th street.

LEONARD J. CARPENTER.

If to have earned the respect and confidence of all with whom one comes in contact in business is one of the necessary stepping-stones to success in life, then has success been achieved by Leonard J. Carpenter. But equally successful has been the business which, as a young man, he started in a modest way. His office is now one of the best managed and best equipped in the city, and has a large number of properties in charge. He does a considerable business in selling, exchanging, renting and appraising real estate, as well as collecting rents, interest, dividends, etc. Mr. Carpenter is one of the most prominent members of the Real Estate Exchange, and until recently held the position of treasurer to that institution. His office is at No. 41 Liberty street, and he has a branch at No. 1181 3d avenue, between 68th and 69th streets.

HOFFMAN BROS.

Many of the younger among our real estate firms have acquired considerable prominence during the last three or four years. They seem to have captured many of the largest sales, and have somewhat surprised the older heads by the brilliant feats they have accomplished in consummating important transactions. Among these is the firm of Hoffman Bros., who hold the laurels for making a number of sales to some Boston capitalists amounting to $1,170,000. Their business is an increasing one, and they have a large amount of trust funds to loan, as well as money on bond and mortgage. They take entire charge of estates. The firm is comprised of Messrs. C. F. Hoffman, Jr., and W. M. V. Hoffman, and their offices are at Nos. 4 and 6 Warren street.

JANES & KIRTLAND.

This firm, so well known as the manufacturers of the widely-reputed Beebe Furnaces and Ranges, will, in a few days, remove their business from 1346 Broadway to No. 242 Water street, between Peck Slip and Beekman street, which they will make their office and shipping department, and to Nos. 110, 112, 114 and 116 Beekman street, which will hereafter be their showrooms and sales department. They advertise that orders for repairs will be promptly attended to by them, and request that all communications addressed to them shall be mailed to No. 242 Water street.

J. EDGAR LEAYCRAFT.

The west side, below 59th street, contains many real estate offices, but none is better known and respected than that of J. Edgar Leaycraft. He has conducted business as a real estate broker, agent and appraiser for many years, and he has in charge numerous properties in all parts of the city. His main office is at No. 1544 Broadway, near 46th street, and his branch office at No. 1524 3d avenue. He gives special attention to renting and collecting and the management of estates.

JAMES R. WATERLOW.

Mr. Waterlow has for many years been known as a real estate broker and agent on 6th avenue. He commenced business in Nassau street some twenty years ago, and has been quite successful during his long business career. He has just removed his office to No. 81 West 50th street, on the northeast corner of 6th avenue. He does a general real estate business, renting, collecting and managing property. He also makes a specialty of insurance, and represents the Continental (Fire) Insurance Company of New York, and the Metropolitan Plate Glass Insurance Company, his office being a branch of both companies.

GEORGE T. CROMBIE.

The lumber trade has now become one of the most important in New York City. Among the dealers in lumber and timber George T. Crombie is one of the oldest and best known. Builders, contractors, carpenters and others will find a large stock of various kinds at his yard at the foot of 92d and 93d streets, East River. His firm was established thirty-five years ago as Carrington & Silliman. It then became Crombie & Silliman, subsequently Hugh Crombie, later Thos. J. Crombie and then Hanson & Crombie who preceded the present Mr. Crombie. He has also a dock frontage on 93d and 94th streets, with a yard extending almost to 1st avenue, thus giving him excellent facilities. Telephone, 49 Harlem.

F. E. BARNES.

For eleven years this well-known broker has had his office at No. 344 4th avenue, and he makes a specialty of property between 23d and 42d streets, 5th avenue and the East River, though he has properties on his books located in all parts of the city. Those desirous of leasing, purchasing or disposing of real estate within the boundaries named, will find it profitable to call at his office. His facilities are extensive, his experience has been large and his judgment is reliable and conservative. Mr. Barnes is a member of the Real Estate Exchange.

STEWART & CO.

To have manufactured and supplied building material for a generation past with general satisfaction to one's customers is a recommendation of no mean character. This Messrs. Stewart & Co. have done. They are the proprietors of the well-known Manhattan Pottery, Drain Pipe and Terra Cotta Works at the foot of West 18th and 19th streets, their office being at No. 312 Pearl street, at the corner of Peck Slip. A fac-simile of their card, which appeared in this paper in 1868, is reproduced elsewhere. From this it will be noticed that the head of this firm, Mr. W. D. Stewart, was in business twenty-one years ago at No. 541 West 18th street, and was manufacturing the same articles as his firm does now.

JOHN R. FOLEY & SON.

Industry and activity are the characteristics of this firm, both in father and son. They are members of the Real Estate Exchange, and transact a real estate business in all its branches, including renting and collecting, insurance, the management of estates and the negotiation of loans. They offer, in our advertising columns, a list of properties at reasonable figures, and in a foot-note they call the particular attention of builders and others to a number of properties which can be profitably improved, situated on Wooster, Watts, Spring, Broome, Front, Stanton, Pearl, Morton and other streets below 14th street. They offer to arrange building loans for those desiring to improve immediately who may be short of the ready cash. They report having sold over $1,500,000 of property at private sale during the last four months. Their office is at No. 153 Broadway, and they have an out-of-town branch at No. 1008 F street, Washington, D. C.

DUFF & CONGER.

Among the real estate brokers and agents on the upper part of 3d avenue, the firm of Duff & Conger is very well known. They have been established for many years and the head of the firm is peculiarly capable of handling and managing property, having built considerably on his own account. Both members of the firm are able men and they do considerable renting, collecting, insurance, etc. Their office is at No. 1474 3d avenue, near the 84th street elevated road station.

HENRY STEEGER.

The artistic card of Mr. Steeger in another column is worth glancing at by those who wish to see how an attractive advertisement can be made of prosaic objects. This manufacturer turns out the following materials in copper: boilers, showers, bath tubs, closet pans, pantry sinks, foot and seat tubs. He is a dealer in all kinds of tinned and planished copper, his works being at Nos. 143 and 145 East 31st street. He makes his bath tubs all weights, 10, 12, 14, 16, 18 and 20 oz. and upward, guaranteed, each being stamped and warranted.

A. K. MURPHY.

The young lady who does business under the above title is the daughter of the late Capt. Wm. Jay Murphy, for many years well and honorably known in the upper wards. Miss Murphy transacts a real estate business in all its branches, and is one of the very few ladies who have been created a notary public. Her father conducted business on the spot where her office now is for twenty years. She took complete management of the business during his long illness, and succeeded him on his death, about a year ago. She has gained the respect and confidence of some of our wealthiest citizens by her courage, industry and tact, and one of her recent sales was that of a parcel of up-town property to Banker Kountze for $108,000. Miss Murphy makes a specialty of 24th Ward property, and her quarters are on the corner of 3d avenue and 177th street.

C. H. SOUTHARD.

This enterprising building material dealer has received considerable notoriety this week by purchasing the Rockaway Hotel, which is said to have cost $1,000,000, for $29,000. He is one of the most pushing among our second-hand building material men, and his machine for lowering brick in taking down buildings has enabled him to remove them quickly and safely. By its aid he lowered 1,250,000 brick in taking down "Holbrook Hall" and 800,000 in demolishing French's Hotel, lowering over 100,000 in ten hours, besides the better portion of the debris in the building. This machine, to which he has secured the exclusive right, enables dirt and rubbish to be lowered in baskets, thus avoiding complaints about dust. He will use it in all buildings which he will tear down this season. He makes a specialty of purchasing and removing old structures. His yards and office are at 9th avenue, between 14th and 15th streets.

THOMAS & ECKERSON.

This firm of able and experienced brokers are so well known to the many property owners of this city, especially those along the line of Broadway from 14th to 59th streets, that their merits call for no emphasis. The estates under their care are numerous, and they have the reputation of being at once careful of the interests of the owners and of the rights of the tenants. They have a handsome suite of offices, situated in the same building with Palmer's Theatre, on the northeast corner of Broadway and 30th street.

JACOB APPELL.

For the past twenty years Mr. Appell has conducted a real estate business in all its branches. During this time he has made a vast number of sales, and the properties placed under his management have increased from year to year. He is one of the best-known agents on the west side, between 14th and 50th streets, and his office continues at his old and well-known quarters at No. 277 West 23d street, near the northeast corner of 8th avenue.

FRED'K SOUTHACK.

Among the old-time brokers and agents Mr. Southack takes a prominent place. He has not made a great display of his work, but has quietly added to his business year by year, until it has assumed goodly proportions. His specialty is the renting and selling of property in the dry goods, importing and adjoining wholesale business districts. His main office is at No. 401 Broadway, between Walker and Lispenard streets, and his branch office in the well-known Trinity Building, No. 111 Broadway, of which property he has the full management.

J. P. DUFFY & CO.

The business of this firm is daily increasing. They manufacture salt-glazed, vitrified sewer and drain pipe, as well as wall coping, flue linings, fire brick, etc. They estimate very reasonably upon all classes of this work, and those desiring to see the character of their material should take a run up to their office and yards at 138th street and 4th avenue, where a large assortment of their manufactures can be seen.

P. J. CUSKLEY.

The real estate business of this agent and broker has very much increased of late. He has on his books a large number of properties for rent and sale on the various streets on the line of 6th, 5th, Madison, 4th and Lexington avenues, including private houses, stores, offices, etc. He does a general real estate business, and loans money on bond and mortgage. His office is on the first floor of the Madison Square Bank Building at Nos. 1 and 3 West 25th street, on the corner of Broadway.

Real Estate Department.

The week has been one of comparative unimportance in real estate circles. In the brokers' offices very little has been done, either in renting or selling. On 'Change the parcels offered have been numerous, but with the exception of a few pieces of property they do not call for special comment. Next week will largely be given over to the Centennial celebrations, and the sales at auction will be few and far between, while in the brokers' and agents' offices little business is expected to be done. The conveyances and mortgages this week, both in number and amount, largely exceed those for the corresponding period last year. The projected buildings, while much smaller in number, are nearly as large in their estimated cost, as will be seen from the tables below.

With but two exceptions the sales on Monday were all held pursuant to court orders. There was a small attendance, and the plaintiffs secured a large share of the parcels offered. The five-story brick factory No. 116 Nassau street, 18.9x80.1x16.2x82.1, was sold for $58,000 to John Pettit. Two houses on 5th avenue, corner of 132d street, were sold for less than the first mortgages thereon; and a single lot on the same avenue, north of 65th street, went for $15,000. The sale of the Bijou Opera House was again postponed.

There were comparatively few sales at the Exchange on Tuesday, although the offerings were numerous and the attendance fair. With the exception of the Winans' estate sale, which brought a total of $209,225, there were few offerings which attracted much attention. Lots in the 23d Ward were withdrawn, owing to the absence of bidders, and other parcels were secured by interested persons. The five-story brick and iron building No. 72 Grand street, northeast corner of Wooster street, size 25x100, belonging to the Winans estate, was started at $60,000, and sold to Thos. Lewis for $76,000. The property is rented until May 1, 1890, at $5,400 per annum. Another parcel, forming part of the same estate, viz.: No. 23 Bowery, was sold for $29,500. It is whispered about that something over $2,000 less would have secured the property at private sale. A plot of seven lots with two frame buildings, on the southwest corner of 2d avenue and 121st street, were sold together for $61,750. The first bid thereon was $50,000. Five Brooklyn houses belonging to the Winans estate were bid in or withdrawn, owing to satisfactory bids not being made. One of the court sales embraced No. 156 Washington street, corner of Liberty street. It brought $49,100, and Ferdinand Fish was the buyer. At a sale held on March 26th, the same corner was knocked down to R. B. Guion at $51,000, but he failed to complete the purchase.

On Wednesday the sales were quite numerous. The bulk of the properties offered were improved. What was one of the most important sales of the day turned out to be unsuccessful. It was that of the residence at No. 1 East 62d street, adjoining the southeast corner of 5th avenue, and was bid in by John F. Doyle at $50,000. A plot of about seven city lots, with a dwelling, on the northwest corner of St. Nicholas avenue and 155th street, brought $53,150, John H. Caryl and others being the purchasers. Four lots on the southeast corner of Madison avenue and 112th street brought $25,100, the corner $8,250, and the inside parcels $5,600 and $2,625 each, A. D. Weekes being the buyer. R. Cameron bought the house at No. 18 West 40th street for $38,000. The stable properties on West 43d and West 44th streets were withdrawn. One of the sensations on 'Change this day was the purchase, by C. H. Southard, the dealer in secondhand building material, of the mammoth Rockaway Hotel, which is said to have cost over $1,000,000. It was knocked down to Mr. Southard at $29,000, the first bid being $10,000. The purchaser is given one year in which to remove the structure.

On Thursday quite a large crowd gathered at the Exchange, and no less than eleven auctioneers were on their stands offering properties. The largest single sale of the day was that of the Englewood apartment house, on the southeast corner of Lexington avenue and 81st street, of which L. A. de Peyster became the purchaser at $183,000. The Ferris estate sale attracted a big crowd. Among the parcels belonging to this estate was No. 716 Broadway, between East 4th street and Astor place. The bidding started at $70,000, and the property was knocked down to Thomas C. Smith for Scholle Bros., the brokers, at $75,500. It comprises a three-story stone house, on a lot 25x137.6, with a party wall. A small, irregular lot on the southeast corner of New Bowery and Madison street was started at $14,000, and knocked down to Jarvis Hussey at $20,000. The southwest corner of Water and Dover streets, 27.2x28x34.8x36.1, with a frame building on the site, brought out considerable bidding, and was secured at $13,400 by J. Cronin, the first bid having been $7,000. There was also a contest for the adjoining property on Dover street, a five-story brick building on a lot 24.5x26.8 and 27.2. The first bid was $3,000, and the property was obtained by the same party at $8,000. Mahoney Brothers bought the southeast corner of Cherry and Roosevelt streets for $9,500, John L. Sullivan the southwest corner at $24,500, and J. K. Oakley the northwest corner of Water and Roosevelt streets at $17,750. The southwest corner of Roosevelt and Water streets, which rents for $1,400, was knocked down to G. Clapham for $13,100. It is a four-story and attic brick house, on a lot 21.6¾ and 22x48.4 and 50.8. Several properties were withdrawn, while the sale of others was adjourned. A vacant lot on the west side of 6th avenue, 100.5 feet north of 54th street, was withdrawn at a bid of $25,000. Two 8th avenue flats, Nos. 2367 and 2369, brought $53,750 and $27,800 respectively, the former being a corner, and being purchased by B. Gallagher, the latter being knocked down to T. F. Ryan.

On Thursday, May 2d, Richard V. Harnett & Co. will sell, by order of the executor of the estate of the late Oliver Charlick, the two four-story dwellings and lots at Nos. 1106 and 1108 Park avenue, south of 65th street; also the six three-story, high stoop, stone front dwellings at Nos. 35 to 45 West 94th street, containing all the improvements.

On Tuesday, May 7th, Richard V. Harnett & Co. will sell the two flats at Nos. 102 and 104 East 120th street; the five-story tenement and two stores at No. 2493 3d avenue, near 136th street, and the three-story and attic house at No. 333 West 22d street, 37.1 feet in frontage, with mirrors, chandeliers, etc.

On Thursday, May 9th, Richard V. Harnett & Co. will offer the five-story tenement at No. 165 Mott street; the six-story double tenement, with stores, at No. 152 Forsyth street, and the two five-story double tenements and stores at Nos. 1358 and 1387 Avenue A, near 74th street.

Gossip of the Week.

SOUTH OF 59TH STREET.

We hear that Robert Bonner's Sons have sold the southeast corner of 57th street and 5th avenue, 75 feet on the avenue and 150 on the street, to Collis P. Huntington for $600,000 or $650,000. We have been unable to verify this report before going to press.

L. Tanenbaum has sold for ex-Tax Commissioner John N. Hayward the iron front building No. 714 Broadway, 25x137.6, to Messrs. M. Kahn & Meyer Finn for about $100,000.

Daniel Birdsall & Co. have sold No. 423 Broadway, 25x100, to Samuel Inslee for $81,400; and No. 495 Broadway, 25x200, for $130,000.

The report that the Plaza Hotel has been sold for $1,600,000 is incorrect. We learn from the New York Life Insurance Company, which owns the property, that negotiations for a lease of the hotel are under way, and that the contract will probably be closed next week. It is said that the parties who are trying to secure the lease are the same who manage the Murray Hill Hotel.

Title was passed on Thursday to the northwest corner of Madison avenue and 34th street, which was sold recently by Henry R. A. Carey. At the time of sale the name of the purchasers was not known, but it now transpires that White, Howard & Co., dressmakers, of No. 25 West 16th street, were the buyers. The price was $191,000, and Broker Howard MacNutt negotiated a loan of $140,000 at 5 per cent. for five years from the Peabody Education Fund. In the division of the Carey estate this property was appraised and deeded to Henry R. A. Carey at $200,000. This purchase by White, Howard & Co. represents the first foothold taken by business in that locality, and it has given rise to much complaint by adjoining owners.

The New York Homeseekers' Building and Loan Association has been incorporated by T. Foley, president; Edward O'M. Condon, vice-president; J. L. Ryan, secretary; David Healy, treasurer. The object of the association is to create a fund to be loaned to members for the purchase of real estate, laying out such real estate into lots, erection of buildings thereon, and paying off encumbrances.

The Commissioners of Estimate, in the matter of acquiring title to certain lands on the northerly side of 41st street, between 7th and 8th avenues, give notice that objections to their completed estimate may be filed at the office, and that the report will be presented to the Supreme Court on the 7th of June.

Schilo the five-story front and four-story rear building No. 442 West 45th street to George Walker for $25,500.

L. J. Rosendorff informs us that he paid $20,000, not $26,000 as erroneously reported by him last week, for the tenement No. 59 Canal street.

Lespinasse & Co. have sold for the estate of Leopold Friedman four lots on the southwest corner of 109th street and 8th avenue, 100x100, to Mr. Cheeseborough for what would seem to be a rather low price, $40,000.

Only the basement will be finished at present and it will be entirely of stone. The style will be Gothic. The cost has not yet been estimated.

Martin J. Barron intends to build a five-story flat, 25x89, on the north side of 99th street, between 8th and 9th avenues. It will have a stone front and bay windows, and will accommodate two families per floor. The cost is estimated at $20,000. Geo. B. Pelham is preparing the plans. The same architect has drawings for a five-story tenement, which Michael Duffy will build on the north side of 47th street, 125 feet west of 8th avenue, at a cost of about $15,000.

G. A. Schellenger is the architect for four handsome five-story flats which Simon Haberman will build on the northeast corner of Manhattan avenue and 116th street. Their sizes will be 38x85, 27.1x78, 36.3x54 and 36.9x54 respectively, and they will have all the modern improvements.

How to Draw a Contract.

An invaluable work for all dealers in realty is found in "The Guide to Buyers and Sellers of Real Estate," by Counsellor Geo. W. Van Siclen. This pamphlet, of only fifty-six pages, offers a complete solution of all the complicated questions that arise in drawing contracts. It discusses questions of titles, liens, curtesy and dower rights, deeds, searches, etc., and contains forms of contracts and judicial decisions which, with other general information, will go far towards making every man his own lawyer. It tells all about fixtures, assumption of mortgages, apportionment of rents, description of property, terms of payment, damages for failure to carry out contracts, information on setting aside contracts for mistake or fraud, and forms of deeds. Published by THE RECORD AND GUIDE, 191 Broadway. Price 50 cents.

BUILDING MATERIAL MARKET.

BRICKS.—For Common Hards the general verdict seems to be that it was a pretty fair sort of week. Values again failed to stiffen, indeed if anything there was here and there a little easing up when custom became difficult to handle, but receivers have managed supplies so as to prevent any direct pressure and keep the average run of prices about as before. On a comparison of views for the purpose of revising quotations we find former extreme figures too exceptional for further retention and consider $8.25 quite as full as can consistently be named, while in the great majority of cases $8 is the ruling top basis for trading, and not many Up Rivers exceed $7.75 per M. Arrivals appear to have again run up somewhat fuller than anticipated, and buyers rarely found it necessary to wait for an offering when they were ready to negotiate, but the fair proportion of consumption prevented the accumulation of a surplus in first hands. Current receipts commence to show signs of the end of old stock, as, in addition to last loads reported from many points, there is a falling away in quality to some extent, with now and then some pretty full bunches of "lammies," etc., as though the yards were cleaning up. Against that, however, it may be noted that the first of new-make Jerseys have appeared this week, and it is expected that by the end of next week some of this season's product from the Hudson will be on sale. It is, however, again claimed that new brick cannot become plenty enough to act as a serious factor upon the market until well into May or the first of June. Pales have also remained about steady, and while some operators think former extreme quotations a little full, we allow them to stand as representing occasional business in very fine quality.

LATH.—It has been a moderately active market, owing, it is claimed, to the meagre supply rather than to any absence of interest among buyers. The selling side has certainly retained the advantage without apparent difficulty, and at the present writing full former rates, or say $2.25 per M, quoted as the regular figure on slab stock. Some few round wood lots have been offered and secured attention at $2.10@2.15 per M, but so far as known about all this class of stock is now forward, and further arrivals will only be of a desultory character. Actual consumption is very good.

LIME.—The market remains steady for all kinds, and the offering as it comes to hand sells without much delay. Buyers, however, are not over anxious or free in their movements, and the probabilities are that the supply has been full enough for all necessary purposes of the moment. It is understood that the association of manufacturers at the Eastward have received their compact for the ensuing season, and will continue to exercise control over the output and shipment, and maintain a uniform range on values.

LUMBER.—The general distribution of supplies has been about up to former average on all regular outlets and there appears to be no positive fault to find with the yard trade. A great deal of stuff has been handled of late in one way or another preparatory to the Centennial celebration, but only a small proportion will probably go into active consumption, as most of the stands, etc., erected can be taken apart without detriment to the stuff, and the latter go back into second-hand stock at least. Dealers in many cases have received an increased number of calls within the past two or three days from representatives of manufacturers and interior operators, and this is another result of the approaching jubilee, the visits being so timed as to combine business with pleasure. The offerings made from the sources mentioned presented no specially new attractions and sellers themselves claim to feel very confident and firm, yet now and then the indications seem to show that interior points are competing closely, and shrewd buyers profiting thereby. It is likely that unsold arrivals of all kinds during the next three or four days will find no immediate custom.

Eastern Spruce is still looked upon as occupying too favorable a position to be assailed with any degree of success, and some of the trade insist that no further arrival of stock is possible from the old crop of logs under which the line of value would suffer any serious depression. Even yards which came into spring with pretty good accumulations on hand are now said to be feeling the necessity for fresh stock, and as other points of consumption are calling for their share of the cut, the production is considered as practically provided for already. In regard to the new cut there is also much apparent faith as the evidences of a short supply of logs do not abate, and in pretty much all cases manufacturers manifest an indifference about contracting ahead except upon a pretty full line of valuation.

Piling has been quoted a little irregular in one or two instances, but buyers as a rule admit that it was impossible to find any really attractive stock upon better terms than for some time past, and that holders make no special effort to realize. Of average run there is a fair supply available, but large sticks are not plenty and it is claimed very few can come forward.

Hemlock retains very much the former general features, the bulk of the supply remaining under control and the offering careful and moderate. There is probably no actual scarcity at primary points as yet, but stocks have run down somewhat, and as most of the holding is well seasoned and in generally good condition there is no hesitation about carrying it. Operators say that they have already spread the area of distribution somewhat this season, and while new custom is a little cautious, the weekly addition to the orders, some of them tentative and some duplicates, indicates a growing appreciation of this wood.

White Pine is commented upon in various ways, as it may suit the interest of operators, and in some instances it is difficult to fairly reconcile the st te ments made. In the matter of distribution, however, there has probably been a movement quite equal to the ordinary proportion as compared with other descriptions of lumber, and at fair rates, indeed at pretty full figures on the best of the shipping and box stock. There is also reason to believe that a great deal of stuff has, in one way or another, been taken by dealers for delivery, sooner or later, upon contract, as there was, and indeed continues, a close canvass of the situation on behalf of the interior holder of stock, and trade journals at the West have for some little time been speaking of the receipt of orders from this locality.

Yellow Pine remains firm, and while business is evidently a little irregular, most showings develop a market greatly improved over last year. Prices in the first place are $1.00@1.50 per M higher, and, secondly, the attempt to control and regulate the offerings and neutralize tendencies to suicidal competition has been so successful that even on some of the most desirable orders the bidding has shown only ordinary fractional differences, and buyers heretofore accustomed to meeting some pretty sharp efforts to secure their trade with attending liberality of terms, now find the margin between bids very narrow, and manufacturers in rather an indifferent humor. Flooring is probably the most uncertian, but it is said that care will be taken not to flood the market with it at any time this season.

Carolina Pine has not changed in any important particular, the reports generally running in favorable form. So far as the kiln dried stock is concerned, sellers not only expect to hold all the former local trade, but to expand it somewhat, and are making a great deal of calculation upon extending the line of custom to other points, and as the output is practically under control, sellers see nothing to prevent the preservation of a healthy, profitable market.

Hardwoods, in some cases, are reported less active; in others an increase of business is claimed, though this contradictory form of statement is no greater, probably, than could be found at almost any period, as the trade of the various dealers comes from numerous sources, and is apt to vary in intensity from time to time. On the general average, however, the movement probably is equal to, if not in excess of, last year, and embraces about an ordinary selection. The most pronounced contradictions in the matter of prices are on poplar, yet reliable operators have for some little time insisted that any claims for business at less than $32.00 for desirable parcels of boards are open to the suspicion of concealing some portion of the terms of contract that would show in reality a cost laid down quite equal to the figure named. The general export trade is keeping up very well and at steady rates.

METALS.—Copper—Ingot has been rather slow and uncertain and the market without many, if any, really new points. It is asserted that the mining companies are compelled to keep their prices to consumers at a very full line in order to protect certain contracts with the syndicate, but a change is expected at no distant day in which the advantage will go largely to the buyer. Indeed, it is asserted that some of the producers, not seriously involved in speculative deals, are making contracts for future delivery with the understanding that prices will be fixed later on at a lower level. For the present about 15@15½c. for Lake is quoted. Manufactured Copper is not moving to any extent beyond the ordinary limits, but remains fairly under control and quite steadily held at former rates. We quote as follows: Sheets, not above 30x72 in., 16 oz. and over, 25c.; do, 14 to 16 oz, 26c.; do, 12 to 14 oz, 27c.; do, 10 to 12 oz, 28c.; do, 8 to 10 oz, 38c.; do, under 8 oz, 28@33c. Sheets longer than 72 inches add 1c. for 12@14 oz, 2c. for 10@12 oz, and 3c. for 8@10 oz. Sheets, not above 36x96 in., 16 oz and over, 25c.; do, 16 to 32 oz, 25c.; do, 14 to 16 oz, 27c.; do, 12 to 14 oz, 29c.; do, 10 to 12 oz, 33c.; do, 8 to 10 oz, 36c. Sheets longer than 96 inches add 1c. for under 16 oz; and 2c. for 8 to 10 oz. Sheets, not above 48x96, 32 to 64 oz, 25c.; do, 16 to 32 oz, 28c.; do, 14 to 16 oz, 30c.; do, 12 to 14 oz, 32c. Sheets 60x96 and over, 25@30c., for 32 to 64 oz. and over, and 31c. for 16 to 32 oz. All bath tub sheets, per lb., 16 oz, 28c.; 4 oz, 30c.; 12 oz, 32c.; and 10 oz, 35c. Bolt copper, ⅝ inch diameter and over, 25c. Circles, 60 diameter and less, 3c. above price of sheets of same thickness; circles, 60 to 96 do do, 5c. do; circles, 96 do and over, 6c. do. Segment and pattern sheets, 3c. above price of sheets required to cut them from. Cold or hard rolled copper, 1@2c. per lb. above the foregoing prices. Copper bottom, 28@31c. per lb. Iron—Scotch Pig meets with only a limited sort of demand and most of the supply comes forward on actual orders. As there is practically no accumulation here rates are pretty well sustained on all brands, but occasionally there is a hint of a weakening tendency abroad. We quote at $19.00@21.50, according to brand, delivery, etc. American Pig has been somewhat irregular in value and movement. From some sources a very good demand now and then developed; but as a rule there was an absence of anxiety among customers, and outside the favorite brands more or less inclination to shade cost a trifle. The latter more curtailed trade rather than expanded it, as buyers held off in hopes of greater weakness. We quote at $17.00@18.00 per ton for No. 1 X foundry; $16.00@16.50 for No. 2 X do.; and $15.00@15.25 for Gray Forge. Old material not particularly active. There has been some business, especially in old rails, and more or less bidding continues, but buyers' ideas of value are too low for any important movement. We quote at about $22.00@23.00 for old rails; $19.50@20.00 for No. 1 wrought scrap; $14.50@16.00 for cast scrap, and $18.00@18.50 for car wheels. Steel rails have been fairly active since our last, but the general market without much encouragement. Values are a little uncertain, but look tame, as the Western manufacturers recently shaded somewhat in competition with offerings from the East. We quote at $27.00 per ton at the mills, and $28.00@28.50 do. at tide water. Manufactured Iron has shown about an average movement, with nothing new of special interest on the general market and pretty much former rates ruling all around. We quote Common Merchant Bar-ordinary sizes, at 1.90@2.10c. from store, and refined at 2.00@2.30c.; Rods, round and square 2.10@2.20c.; Bands, 2.20@2.30c.; Norway Nail Rods, 4@5c., and domestic sheet on the basis of 2.75@2.80c. for common Nos. 10@16. Other descriptions at corresponding prices, with 1-10c. less on large lots from cars. Lead — Domestic Pig moves along fairly as wanted by the trade at steady rates, but no large amounts are required and the speculative element still appears rather passive. We quote at 3.62½@3.70c., as to quality. The manufactures of lead are quoted: Bar, 5c.; pipe, 6c.; sheet, 6¾c., less the usual discount to the trade; and tin-lined pipe, 15c.; block tin pipe, 45c., on same terms. Tin—Pig not very active on consumptive account, and seems to possess no speculative attractions. Prices vary with the foreign market, but the average cost of small lots runs about the same. We quote at about 20¾@20⅞c. for round lots and 21@21½c. for jobbing parcels. Tin plates have some demand from canners, etc., but otherwise are rather slow and supply seems to be very well in hand and not forced for sale. We quote prices as follows: I. C. Charcoal, ½ cross assortment, Melyn grades, $5.45@5.50, each additional X add $1.50; I. C. Charcoal, ½ cross assortment, Allaway grade, $4.75@4.80, each additional X add $1; Charcoal terne, M. F. grade, 14x20, $6.60@6.65; M. F. grade, 20x28, $13.20@13.25; Worcester, 14x20, $4.60@4.62½; Worcester, 20x28, $9.25@9.30; Deane grade, 14x20, $4.20@4.30; Dean grade, 20x28, $8.37½@8.50; Allaway grade, 14x20, $4.05@4.07½; Allaway grade, 20x28, $8.10@8.20; I. C. Coke, B. V. grade, $4.30@4.32½; J. B. grade, 14x20, $4.35@4.37½; I. C. Bessemer steel, squares, $4.70 basis; I. C. Siemens steel, squares, $4.75. Spelter meeting with a moderate demand and principally from galvanizers, the consumption by brass manufacturers not running full. We quote at $4.65@4.90, according to quality.

NAILS.—Business has been fairly active, with rather a gain in volume if anything. Against the outlet, however, offerings are ample both in quantity and assortment, and with material low manufacturers generally seem to think it desirable to accept about former rates, and on that plane of negotiations they are fairly met by buyers. We quote at $1.80@1.85 for car lots, and $1.90@2.00 per keg for parcels from store.

PAINTS AND OILS.—Buyers are still found to be pretty closely bound to the idea that it is best to allow the bulk of stock to be carried in first hands and draw thereon as necessity may arise. They are, however, making some very full calls at present, and altogether the business shows as good form as could reasonably be expected and ranges well up to the average for the season. A pretty nice general selection is also being made, and with prices sustained for most leading articles there is not much to complain of. Linseed Oil moves somewhat irregularly, but the market is kept well in hand at 57@57½c. for Western, and 58@58½ for City. Spirits Turpentine has found a fairly active demand on usual outlet, closing about steady at 46@47c per gallon, according to quantity, delivery, etc.

TAR AND PITCH.—The general movement is not very free or extending beyond ordinary limits, and as a whole the market lacks new features. Prices rule about steady all around. We quote Pitch $1.35@1.50 per bbl.; Tar at $2.10@2.20, according to quantity, quality and delivery.

MORTGAGES.

NOTE.—The arrangement of this list is as follows: The first name is that of the mortgagor, the next that of the mortgagee. The description of the property then follows, then the date of the mortgage, the time for which it was given, and the amount. The general dates used as headings are the dates when the mortgage was handed into the Register's office to be recorded.

Whenever the letters "P. M." occur, preceded by the name of a street, in these lists of mortgages, they mean that it is a Purchase Money Mortgage, and for fuller particulars see the list of transfers under the corresponding date. Whenever the rate is not given, read as 6 per cent.

VOL. XLIII. MAY 4, 1889. No. 1,103

David Goodman Croly.

"Man that is born of woman is of few days and full of trouble. He cometh forth like a flower, and is cut down; he fleeth also as a shadow and continueth not."

So was it written more than two thousand years ago, and as it was then so is it to-day. The name at the head of this article now belongs to the Past. The bearer of it lies buried at the top of a sandy hill in the beautiful cemetery at Lakewood, N. J., his body resting with his face towards the distant sea, at which he never wearied gazing. The spirit of loneliness pervades the spot. Around the grave the melancholy pines keep watch, and the wind in the dark boughs whisper the low, sad music which he loved to listen to when living.

A little more than twenty-one years ago this man said to a friend: "Here you are doing nothing just now; why don't you start a weekly paper in the real estate interest? I am sure it will pay, as there is no organ published devoted to this and building, and there are transactions involving millions on millions which ought to be printed and the proper comments made upon them. Further than this, I will join you; and, although I cannot at present give any particular time to it; yet later I may be able to." This conversation practically was the beginning of THE RECORD AND GUIDE. Within two weeks the first number of THE RECORD was issued under the joint management of Mr. Croly and the present proprietor, and with the exception of the years intervening between 1873 and 1880 has so continued until Mr. Croly was within the past week stricken with death.

Mr. Croly died at his residence, No. 148 East 46th street, on Monday morning last at half-past six o'clock. In 1873 he parted with his interest in the paper, and in 1880 resumed his editorial connection with it. From this date, until within the week preceding his decease, he was the chief editorial writer of this journal. Last fall, on account of physical ailments, he was compelled to absent himself from the office and was the greater part of the time confined to a sick room, from whence he continued his contributions to this paper until within a few days of his death. His last efforts appeared in THE RECORD AND GUIDE on Saturday a week ago, and his interesting reminiscences of New York during the past half century, which appeared in "Our Prophetic Department," showed that his mind was clear and vigorous to the end. His nature was such that even in severe sickness he could not brook mental idleness, and it was only the hand of death that could force him to stop. He literally died in harness.

Mr. Croly was born at Cloghnakilty, County Cork, Ireland, on November 3, 1829. He came to this country at a very early age, and during the first years of his boyhood lived below the City Hall, in what was then called Little Green street, now Liberty court, on which the Real Estate Exchange stands. Mr. Croly, as a youth, was apprenticed to a silversmith, and learned the trade, but he acknowledged that he was but a poor mechanic. His taste ran to books. He very early joined a debating society, which helped to interest him in questions affecting the larger policy of the day. After he became of age, conscious that he was out of place as a mechanic, he resolved to enter the New York University, where he took a year's course. He studied shorthand, teaching himself. Soon after leaving the university he was offered a position as reporter on the Evening Post, which he accepted. Here he came under the observation of William Bartlett, who subsequently made his reputation as a newspaper man on the New York Sun. At this time William Cullen Bryant was the editor and chief owner of the Evening Post, and John Bigelow the chief editorial writer. The salaries of the writers then were very small. During the four months he was on the paper Mr. Croly received $8 per week for his services. He next joined the Herald staff, where his salary was $14, and he had charge of the city intelligence department. Here he was under the orders of Frederick Hudson, whom he always regarded as the most suggestive and intelligent editor ever developed on the American press. Mr. Croly used to say that, in his judgment, the success of the Herald was far more due to Mr. Hudson than to the elder Bennett, and that the former never received the salary due to his merits, for he was as modest as he was able.

In 1857 Mr. Croly married Miss Jennie Cunningham, the daughter of an English minister. This lady is now known as a writer all over the United States under the nom de plume of "Jennie June." In 1858 Mr. and Mrs. Croly went West and started the Rockford (Ill.) Daily News. They lost money by the enterprise, but gained a good deal of local fame by the vigor and ability with which they conducted the paper. Mr. Croly always felt that it was the mistake of his life not to have started his journal in Chicago, for the newspapers then published in that city were wretched affairs, and his training in New York would have given him a clear start of them. The people of Rockford offered to contribute money to keep the Daily News going, but Mr. and Mrs. Croly both felt that they had made a mistake in leaving a large city for a smaller one.

About this time, just before the Civil War, Mr. Croly returned to the metropolis, where he became city editor of the World, just then started. Here he found himself in the midst of a group of able journalistic writers. James R. Spaulding, Richard Grant White, Ivory Chamberlain and Manton Marble were then on the paper, and while these men were all better writers than Mr. Croly his technical experience surpassed theirs. The World became bankrupt, but when Manton Marble got possession of the paper, as a Democratic organ in 1862, Mr. Croly became the managing editor. This position he retained until the defeat of Horace Greeley, by the election to a second Presidential term of General Grant. During these years Mr. Croly did some very good work, but while he loyally served Mr. Marble he rarely agreed with his political action. Mr. Marble was a free trader, a believer in the theories of Herbert Spencer, John Stuart Mill, Bastiat and the school of English political economists, while Mr. Croly, though never a protectionist or high tariff advocate in the ordinary sense of the term, thought that each side only saw half the truth. When the Franco-Prussian war broke out, General McClellan told Mr. Marble that the French would undoubtedly be the victors. Mr. Croly was not of this opinion. He gave his views through St. Clair McKelway, now editor of the Brooklyn Eagle, who wrote an article under Mr. Croly's inspiration. But Mr. Marble killed it and allowed Mr. Henry Hurlbert to give false impressions of the campaign by belittling the German victories and constantly throwing out hopes of success for the French. As there were a very few French residents of New York and a great many German, most of whom were good Democrats, the course of the paper was doubly unwise. Again, when the Times commenced the fight against the Tweed Ring, Mr. Croly begged Mr. Marble either not to take part in the discussion or to be on the side of common honesty. He warned him that the paper would be ruined if he defended the Ring rascals. But Mr. Chamberlain and Mr. Hurlbert, influenced by Mayor A. Oakey Hall, persuaded Mr. Marble that there was nothing in the Times' charges. And so, during that dismal year, the World did what it could for Tweed and his associate scoundrels. Mr. Croly was also opposed to the paper's support of Greeley. The World had bitterly antagonized Greeley's tariff views, and it seemed absurd to support a man for President whom it had so violently assailed. After the re-election of Gen. Grant to the Presidency, Mr. Croly resigned the position of managing editor of the World, for it seemed to him that the policy of the paper was perverse to inanity, and that it could not succeed when it was invariably on the wrong side of every great question.

In 1873 Mr. Croly became editor-in-chief of the new illustrated paper, the Daily Graphic. This publication was successful from a literary and artistic standpoint, but the times were against it. There probably never was a paper more applauded and commended than was the Graphic between 1873 and 1878. In the latter year Mr. Croly resigned his position on account of the interference by the owners of the paper with his editorial management, which he held should be entirely in his hands, as the responsibility lay upon him. As an editor his strong point was suggestiveness. He could keep a great staff of people employed writing articles and reportorial matter suggested by his brain. He had a remarkable memory, and his mind was a storehouse of facts and incidents. He was fearless and independent, with his sympathies invariably on the side of the right. He claimed to have been the first to recognize the ability of many able writers in journalism, among them George Alfred Townsend, Jerome B. Stillson, A. C. Wheeler ("Nym Crinkle"), George Wakeman, Clinton Stuart, Henry E. Sweetser, Montgomery Schuyler, St. Clair McKelway, Capt. Rowland Coffin, the nautical writer, H. G. Crickmore, the sporting editor, and many others less known.

Mr. Croly did some miscellaneous literary work. He published the Modern Thinker, a bizarre-looking periodical, intended to call attention to the inadvisability of our literature being printed in black and white. The sheets and inks were of different colors. The work was never intended for regular publication and only two numbers of it were issued. He also published a "Positivist Primer" and a "Life of Horatio Seymour." He was a contributor to Appleton's Journal during its existence. Among his miscellaneous magazine articles was one on "Journalism" in Putnam's Magazine, which attracted considerable attention. He also claimed to be one of the first to bring before the American people prominently the matter of minority representation. Impressed with the works of Hare and John Stuart Mill on the subject, he wrote an article in the Galaxy, so far as he knew the first one written on the question in this country. He collected a number of statistics and facts on minority representation which David Dudley Field availed himself of in some of his public addresses. The last work published by Mr. Croly was a collection of articles which appeared in THE RECORD AND GUIDE under "Our Prophetic Department." The work is entitled, "Glimpses of the Future."

Mr. Croly will be remembered by many members of the Real Estate Exchange as one of the founders of that institution. When the Exchange was organized, he spent many hours, both in the day and night, thinking out and writing up rules and by-laws to be submitted to the directors. Many of these were adopted and now form part of the laws of the Exchange. He also originated the idea of a Legislative Committee being attached to that institution, feeling that its influence upon legislation, if honestly and wisely directed, would be of great service to property-owners and the people. He was a director of the Exchange and a member of the Committee on Legislation until within about eighteen months ago, when the impossibility of attending to his duties, owing to sickness, caused him to resign. He was also one of the oldest members of the Lotos and Twilight clubs, and it is only a few months ago that the members of the latter organization sent him an address, sympathizing with him in his protracted illness.

Mr. Croly leaves a wife and three children. The funeral service was held at his residence on Wednesday evening, the Rev. Dr. Robert Collyer officiating. The interment took place on Thursday at Lakewood, N. J., in accordance with the wishes of the deceased. The burial spot was on a site purchased by him some time since on Cemetery Hill, in the midst of the ruggedly picturesque pine region which he loved so well and where many of the pleasantest days of his declining years were spent.

The Real Estate Exchange on Thursday displayed its flag at half mast in memory of the deceased, who was a member at the time of his death.

The Centennial celebration put a stop to practically all business in this city. Throughout the country, too, very little was done, so that there is no change in the situation since last week worth recording. The agricultural outlook has improved, and the common opinion is that it is many years since it was so favorable. The winter grain crop is in excellent condition, and the exports of corn continue to be unusually heavy, while the home demand, especially for live stock purposes, is above the average. The improvement abroad in the iron and steel market is not reflected here, although there is little doubt that the consumption will be heavier than last year, due to the increase in railroad construction. The dullness in both the iron and coal trades, however, is more relative than absolute, and the complaints heard are due more to reckless production during the last twelve months than to any serious falling off in the demand. The legitimate business of the country is probably larger to-day than it has ever been, as the Clearing House returns and the railroad statistics plainly show. While this is the case—while labor is well employed, and with a promising agricultural outlook—the commercial condition of the country must be pronounced at least satisfactory.

The Centennial celebration was a remarkable success, in so far as a big crowd and plenty of enthusiasm constitute success. Probably there has never been anything to equal it in this country; but, apart from the crowd and the enthusiasm, it was something of a failure. It was not impressive in the best sense of the word. It lacked the solemnity, dignity and "distinction" which belonged to the event of a hundred years ago, and which should not have been entirely missing from a national celebration of one of the supremest circumstances of a great people's history. It was too much of the nature of a huge junketing, not quite as free from the bacchanalian element as it might have been. Even in the oratory of the three days the right tone was only most faintly audible for a moment in the remarks of one or two speakers. The speeches, indeed, consisted principally of scraps of history, platitudes and rhetoric of the popular kind. It is remarkable that so much was said by so many clever men so little worth remembering. In the pages which the speeches fill in the daily papers there are not a dozen lines that merit preserving. Yet, what an occasion was presented for eloquence. How much a Webster or a Clay would have made of it. The inspiring circumstances, the wide field of retrospect and prospect were all there for the orator. But the fact is we have no orators in the proper sense of the word. We have merely a number of fluent talkers of different degrees of cleverness. The absorption of the national life in party politics and the resulting frame of mind which to so great an extent removes public questions from the sphere of serious moral conviction is principally to blame for this.

Unbounded self-satisfaction is perhaps the most dangerous mental attitude that an individual or a nation can fall into. Wherever it exists it is usually due to moral or intellectual short-sightedness. Yet every speaker, on Tuesday, with the exception of Bishop Potter and Mr. Lowell, labelled everything touched upon—the constitution, schools, judiciary, political methods, social condition, the whole past—"perfect; good in present condition for another hundred years." The marvelous material progress of the last century is perhaps sufficient to overcome all but those who are intellectually strong, and who recognize the wisdom of the proverb: "It is not good to eat much honey; so for men to search their own glory is not glory."

As we have so often pointed out in these columns, the constitution is not the perfect instrument of popular superstition. To our credit we have outgrown it, quite naturally, in many respects. It needs revision, and an orator on Tuesday could have treated the document with all the respect it deserves and the occasion called for, and yet thrown out suggestions which might have turned the popular mind towards profitable reflection. There is, moreover, no just ground for unbounded satisfaction over our public schools. The world has moved in the last fifty years, and they are undoubtedly behind the age to-day. Our political machinery is not of the kind that makes invariably for either pure or efficient government, and there are many facts and tendencies in our social life that are not altogether satisfactory. In literature—the representation of the broad features of the intellectual life of a people—the last hundred years with us have have been peculiarly barren, and the fact shows better than anything else the one-sided, inadequate, materialistic development of civilization in this country. Even to-day there is less of the higher intellectual life amongst us than amongst any other considerable people. On these and other matters the Centennial celebration might have left us a mass of wise observations and suggestions instead of so much post-prandial platitude.

Four Months of Real Estate.

The tables of conveyances and mortgages for the first four months of this year show a general increase over the corresponding periods of 1888 and 1887. The number of deeds recorded was 5,699, against 4,449 last year, while the total amount of the properties transferred was $105,096,725, against $79,039,797. In 1887, a year of the greatest activity in real estate, the transfers in the same four months only numbered 5,241, and amounted to $99,550,107, so that 1889, so far, may be said to stand ahead of any other year in our local annals of real estate sold. North New York also makes a better showing, but the amount of the parcels conveyed in that section is not quite as large as it was in 1887, though it exceeds 1888 considerably. The mortgage deeds recorded number 5,117, against 4,445 last year, and amount to $65,182,504 as compared with $47,900,721. The projected buildings are very much ahead of 1888, being 1,379 in number and $25,260,630 in amount, while last year they were only 1,004 in number and $14,702,375 in amount. The first four months of 1887, however, stand high and dry above even this great building year, numbering, as they did, plans filed for 2,091 new buildings, at an estimated cost of $33,587,565.

During the month of April the conveyances recorded numbered 1,889 as against 1,362 last April; the mortgage deeds 1,587 as against 1,286, and the projected buildings 434 as compared with 373. In amount the conveyances were $36,612,318 as contrasted with $21,846,802 in April, 1888; the mortgages $19,620,823 as compared with $13,093,863, and the estimated cost of the buildings projected $8,988,790 as against $5,311,976.

Between thirty and forty parcels were conveyed during April at figures ranging from $100,000 to $400,000. Quite a number of these were made by the Jones estate, and although included in April's figures, the sales really belong to a date more than a month previous and cannot be said to be part of the April business transacted. Seven of these alone total over $1,300,000. Two other important transfers included in the month's figures are those of Nos. 4 and 6 Pine street at $267,500, and Nos. 8 and 10 Pine street at $400,000, and as these were purchased in the spring of 1884, by the Equitable Life Assurance Society, they do not represent business transacted last month. This may also be said of the transfer of the ten lots on the 5th avenue front, between 88th and 89th streets, due to a family arrangement, the deed bearing date December 8, 1873, and the price named being $150,000. These lots were recently sold at auction. Another conveyance, dated February 20, was of a parcel of vacant property on 88th street, west of 10th avenue, transferred to W. E. D. Stokes for $135,000, and another, dated January 11, comprised four flats and two dwellings on the northeast corner of 10th avenue and 93d street, conveyed to Simon Feist at $160,000. Among the other parcels conveyed during the month was that of four tenements and stores on the northeast corner of 3d avenue and 95th street, at $145,000, to Edward Rafter, the grocer, who nearly always buys corner properties, out of which he has made considerable profit. Robert Hoe bought the property of the Clinton Hall Association, on the southeast corner of Broadway and 37th street, for $306,250. Among the valuable private houses which changed hands was the Stebbins residence, at No. 20 East 37th street, which was conveyed to Edward C. Moore for $112,000. The principal transfers of unimproved property were the McComb plot, on 58th and 59th streets, to the Deutsche Verein for $150,000; a plot on St. Nicholas avenue, 118th and 119th streets, to G. E. and A. Beaudet at $150,000; six lots on the northwest corner of Central Park West and 83d street, to Jacob M. Newman, at $107,500, and four and two-fifth lots on 7th avenue, 56th and 57th streets, to Morris Reno at $130,000. The most important exchange of the month was that of the Princeton flats, on 57th street, for fifty-six lots on 11th avenue, 63d and 64th streets, the consideration in both cases being $300,000, and the contracting owners being ladies, the one Elizabeth W. Aldrich and the other Elizabeth Contes.

The Bank of America.

This solid and comparatively simple structure is the latest addition to the architecture of Wall street, and is in several respects worthy of notice, for the edification and partly for the reproof of the designers to whom the rebuilding of that thoroughfare has been entrusted. The new building, which occupies the northwest corner of William and Wall is of respectable area, being not far from 65 feet on Wall street by 75 on William, and of moderate height as new commercial buildings go, having nine stories; though, of course, the architectural result would have been better if the area had been increased, or, failing that, the height diminished. As the latter is quite out of the question, it behooves us only to consider what the designer has done with the conditions imposed upon him.

The building is divided horizontally into three parts—the granite basement of two stories, the main building of six, and an arcaded attic above the cornice. This latter, however, scarcely counts as an architectural division, as the main cornice below it is of considerable projection, and by reason of the height of the building hides most of it from any near point of view. The six stories of the central division are therefore subdivided, so as to give another attic under the cornice and to make a complete composition without the half-seen upper attic, which thus becomes an architecturally superfluous appendage, which the building would be better without. This arrangement of an attic under and another over the cornice has become rather frequent in New York as a means of disposing of stories which the designer finds too many for him. Examples of it are to be seen in the Post building, in the Produce Exchange, and in the Mutual Life building. But the effect of it is in every case bad, inasmuch as the uppermost story always proclaims itself a superfluity, and betrays that the architect has gone on building after he had finished designing. The Palladian architects added a story above the cornice, thereby reducing that feature from its function of protecting as well as crowning a wall to that of a merely decorative member. But the upper story was at least the third term of the composition, and they did not commit the solecism of one attic just over the cornice and another just under it. The duplication seems to be quite unneessary in the present case, since no reason appears why the designer should not have interpolated the story which in his actual design is "left over" as the third of his building, that is, as the base of the upper division, of which the attic under the cornice is the crowning member.

This, however, is about our only quarrel with the manner in which the designer has dealt with his problem. His granite basement is the simplest possible construction of piers and lintels, running through two stories, the intermediate floor line being marked by an iron transom. There are five bays on the long side and four on the short, the inner corner being given to the main entrance, which runs through both stories. This is properly treated with more elaboration than the rest, though even this is plain for a modern Wall street building. The entrance is slightly projected from the plane of the front, and consists of a round arch turned between low piers, of which the capitals are flat, decorated with disks and carrying an ovolo with an egg and dart moulding. The hood mould of the arch bears a classic decoration, and the spandrils are filled with carving. The remainder of the basement is severely plain, the only decoration being an egg and dart moulding at the top of the piers. Both piers and lintels are very satisfactory specimens of solid masonry, the granite being rough-faced, the piers having alternate headers and stretchers, and the lintels being notably massive.

The superstructure is of light limestone. The openings are arranged over those below, and are continuous through five stories, except for the interruption above the second story (the fourth of the building) of a heavy rough-faced architrave, for the support of which the piers below are surmounted with a plain capping, and are somewhat distinguished in treatment from those above by the differences in relative thickness of the alternate bands of smooth and rough stone of which they are composed. The floor lines elsewhere are marked by heavy transoms of stone withdrawn from the plane of the piers. Above the seventh story the openings are closed by round arches that make a mezzanine of the upper floor.

The spandrils of the arches are left rough, as with a view to future decoration by carving. The piers are again simply capped at the impost of the arches, with an egg and dart moulding. The eighth story, the attic proper, consists of perfectly plain rectangular openings, eight on the shorter front and ten on the longer, and above this is the cornice of considerable projection and rather rich treatment, showing three rows of classic mouldings. Over this again is the attic improper, a continuous arcade, arranged, without reference to the openings below, of twelve plain round-headed openings on one side and fifteen on the other.

It will be seen that this is a much plainer building than we would expect in Wall street. To us the plainness constitutes a distinct advantage. The notion of a "commercial palace" is essentially vulgar and inartistic. Mr. Ruskin has fallen into discredit, in great part deserved, as an architectural critic; but he said a wise thing when he said that wherever rest was forbidden so was ornament. A business building will be architecturally best when it is most appropriate to its purpose; that is to say, when its architecture is most strictly business-like. In old times, when bankers lived over their banks, and shopkeepers over their shops, the ornament appropriate to places of rest and pleasure might properly be given to these buildings. Now they are merely business buildings, and as such they should be merely well constructed, with their construction plainly but not elaborately expressed in their architecture, and with only so much ornament as to emphasize this expression. Why should a bank or an insurance building be "palatial," except for the essentially vulgar purpose of advertisement. The trouble with the practice of making them so is that our architects exhaust their capacity of decoration upon commercial buildings, and have nothing left to mark the distinction between these essentially business buildings and public buildings or private palaces to which this ornamentation would be suitable. If the recent architecture of Wall street had the simplicity of the Bank of America, its character as a business street would be much more evident and much more gratifying than it is. We have to thank the designer of the new building, or his clients, for setting an example of severity and of good taste. In another respect he is entitled to gratitude, and that is in having recognized the existence of an adjoining building, a "commercial palace," to which he has conformed the lines of his own work. This is a proceeding quite as uncommon in Wall street as the erection of a business building instead of a commercial palace.

Having refused to grant the Manhattan Company the use of a small part of the Battery Park for the construction of a loop, partly on the plea that every foot of the existing park lands of the city is too precious to be put to other uses, even for the benefit of half a million travelers daily, our city authorities can scarcely claim to be consistent in their intention to curtail the area of the City Hall Park by the erection of a large municipal building on the site of the Register's office. If there is any park in the city which will not bear curtailment, it is the City Hall Park. It is now not much more than a court between numerous buildings, and the erection of a huge structure along the east side will practically render it valueless as a "breathing space." If we are to have any policy respecting our parks, let it be consistent. To raise the cry of "Preserve the Parks" when the Manhattan Company asks for space for its loop and to afterward construct an eight or nine-story building almost adjoining the City Hall, is very like straining at the gnat and swallowing the camel.

Whether there has or has not been a "deal" between Tammany and the Republicans over the Mayor's rapid transit scheme, the "double-headed" Police Board bill and other bills is, after all, not a matter of such great importance to the public so long as both measures are likely to be of benefit to the city. From the first we have supported Mayor Grant's Rapid Transit bill, just as we have supported every other scheme—Arcade Road, Cable Road, and extension of the existing elevated system—that is likely to increase the transportation facilities of the city. There is need and room both for them all, and a pressing necessity, which has long got beyond the possibility of exaggeration, exists for something to immediately improve the condition we are in to-day. Deal or no deal, the Mayor's bill should have been passed without delay, though, as we pointed out when the measure was first proposed, without a "deal" or political "pressure" of some sort, its enactment was a matter of much time and considerable doubt. As to the "double-headed" Police Board bill it is a good measure, whatever the immediate object of its promoters may be. It will not only save the city expense, but in the long run it will result in better government. We are learning the lesson that whatever wisdom there may be in a multitude of counsellors there is not much efficiency; and just as in the Middle Ages the multitude of petty chiefs and the divided power of the feudal system gave place in time to the monarch and centralized power, so to-day in our political system the divided authority of many-membered boards and commissions is being replaced by the centralized authority of a single responsible individual. In all probability the centralizing movement will continue until all authority and all responsibility in municipal affairs will be vested in the Mayor.

There is no hope now that an early extra session of Congress will be called. The President is said to have informed Senators preparing to visit Europe that their presence would not be needed in Washington until early in October, when in all probability a special session will be called. Mr. Harrison is said to fully recognize the urgent necessity that exists for a special session, and there can be only one explanation of why he postpones it until fall—viz., his time is now too occupied in distributing the offices. Indeed, he acknowledged as much on Tuesday morning on the steps of the Sub-treasury, when he said he had been too busy since he went to Washington to prepare a speech for the occasion. It would have been much better for the country if the distribution of offices had been postponed until the fall, and Congress and the President had turned their attention to matters of national rather than of party importance. The surplus in the Treasury continues to increase to the detriment of business interests, the tariff remains in doubt, the banks still hold government money on uncertain tenure, and the Republican party who were put into power to reverse the policy of the Cleveland administration are practically continuing the Cleveland policy so far as it was ever carried out by Mr. Harrison's predecessor.

The present Lord High Chancellor is fathering a measure which will extirpate the last vestige of primogeniture in England, and do much to put real and personal property on the same footing as regards rapidity and simplicity of transfer. The reform is founded on the admirable system of laws which prevail in Australia and New Zealand. It puts an end to the creation of estates in tail; it abolishes tenancy by courtesy and the right of dower, and it "invests the personal representatives of a deceased person with the same powers as regard to real estate as they now possess in respect to personal property." Curiously enough in the work of land transfer reform in this State we are beginning with a change which they have not as yet reached. One of the greatest difficulties in both countries has been to discover a system of indexing instruments affecting real property, so as to give permanent notice thereof to all future owners of the property. In England they have long been discussing the question, as yet to no purpose. We, however, have a bill at present before our State Legislature which, it is claimed, has solved the problem. As the bill will probably pass, we shall have a good opportunity to see how far the solution is a good one.

Reminiscences of Old New Yorkers.

The ranks of old New Yorkers are thinning almost week by week. Their recollections of our city in their earlier days are all precious, for with them they die. Stories about the early life of the Metropolis are very dear to New Yorkers. They like to read of the quaint condition of things half a century ago and they peruse with interest anything which tells of the time when their fathers and grandfathers used to play about the City Hall and the Battery. A number of these reminiscences have appeared in THE RECORD AND GUIDE from time to time, and it is curious that every old New Yorker has something different to tell from his contemporary. The reminiscences of the Clerk of the Superior Court, Thomas Boese, and of the Clerk of Arrears, E. S. Cady, as well as those of "Sir Oracle," the last he was ever to write, made last week's RECORD AND GUIDE an unusually interesting number to old New Yorkers. The following talks with the aged presidents of two of our best known fire insurance companies will be read with equal interest:

A REMINISCENCE OF LAFAYETTE.

Wm. H. Ribblet, President of the Peter Cooper Fire Insurance Company, is one of the oldest of our National Guard veterans. Although seventy-three years old he looks as hale and hearty as a young man. He was appointed a first-lieutenant of his company in November, 1838, when William H. Seward was Governor, and received his commission as captain under Governor Silas Wright, in April, 1845. In 1864 he was breveted colonel. He said: "When I joined 'The Seventh' it was called 'The Twenty-seventh Regiment of Artillery.' At that time there were eight companies, I think, in the regiment, each having from forty to forty-five men, including officers. We wore the same costume as the Seventh now wears—that is, the color of our coats and pants was the same. Our caps were, however, different. They were of leather, with a brass visor, and brass scales which came over the chin. We had flint-lock muskets. The State did nothing for us. We paid our own rent, we clothed ourselves, and otherwise stood the regimental expenses. The only contribution made by the State was ten rounds of blank cartridge, half of which would not burn. This was for State occasions, one of these being on July 4, when it was customary for us to fire a feu de joi in the City Hall Park. The Park used to have railings around it at that time, and on these occasions refreshment booths would be planted all around it, which were used by the men after parade. The officers were usually invited into the City Hall to take a drink of punch with the Mayor. Our regimental parade ground was in the City Hall Park, opposite Murray street, and our brigade and division lines were formed at the Battery. Our line of march used to be up Broadway and through Chatham street to East Broadway, thence to Grand street, then down Broadway and back to the Park, where we would be dismissed. Our principal parade days were on November 25th, February 22d and July 4th. My father was an officer in the old Eleventh Regiment. The origin of the National Guard, as far as I could glean from him and my brother officers, was as follows: There were several regiments here, remnants of the war of 1812, of which the Eleventh Regiment was one. A reorganization of these regiments took place about 1822 to 1824. In 1824 four companies were taken from them and formed into a battalion. This was about the time Lafayette arrived here, I think in 1824. The officers had a discussion as to what name should be given to the new battalion. The National Guard had recently been created in Paris, and out of compliment to Lafayette they decided to call it by the same name. In a year or two the strength was brought up to eight companies and it was called 'The Twenty-seventh Regiment of National Guard.' It was organized as an artillery regiment and continues so till this day, though it acts as infantry. In 1848 another reorganization took place and the Twenty-seventh was called the Seventh National Guard, and subsequently the entire militia of the State were called National Guardsmen, so that the present Seventh was the first regiment of National Guards, and from it the others derived their name. I became a private of Company 4, under Capt. Charles Roome, now General Roome, and I resigned in 1868, after thirty-two years of service. I have a vivid recollection of the city in my boyhood. I was born in 1816, on the corner of Grand and Norfolk streets. I remember my father taking me over to Williamsburgh in the horse boats which then plied between the New York and New Jersey shores. I shall never forget the curious boats worked by horse power in the flesh. I recollect Vauxhall Garden, which used to be a great pleasure resort. It was on the west side of the Bowery, near 7th street, and ran nearly through to Broadway. I used to go there over sixty years ago. Subsequently Niblo's was the great place to go to. It was originally a large plot of ground laid out as a garden, where music was played about twice a week, and where fireworks were set off from time to time. I remember the Battle of Navarino in fireworks. The best people used to stroll into Niblo's and eat ice cream. John Contoit's garden on Broadway, near Franklin street, was also frequented by many nice people. The house I lived in was sold by my father in 1829 for $7,800. It was a frame dwelling with a brick front, and stood on about two city lots. The house stands there still, and the corner lot alone would now bring $20,000 or more. My father bought the property about 1813 for a very small sum. A house of that kind in those days would rent for about $300 to $350 per annum. I remember the old Hussar House, which belonged to a royalist, and was occupied by English officers during the Revolutionary War. It was a square house, on a hill on Grand street, near where Willett street now is. There were a number of hills down town in those days, but they have all been leveled. Houston street was then called North street, and from it you could see vacant ground as far as the eye could reach northwards and eastwards, the only buildings being a few rookeries with vegetable gardens adjoining. There used to be a windmill on 14th and 15th streets, about where Second avenue now is. That avenue was not then laid out. Third avenue was not then cut through, and the Bowery road ran northwards to where Lexington avenue now commences. The Bowery was the principal east side drive to Harlem then. Between 9th and 10th streets, near the windmill, there was a hill, on which stood three or four large trees. On one of these I saw a man named Johnson hanged; he was executed for the murder of a sailor."

"Do you recollect Lafayette, Webster or Clay?" asked the writer.

"Yes," said Mr. Ribblet. "I remember when Lafayette came here sixty-five years ago. He was driven up to the City Hall Park. His carriage entered at the lower gate where the Post-office now stands. The crowd was so great that he could not proceed and the carriage had to come to a stand. At that moment my father hoisted me on to the front wheel of the carriage, and Lafayette, who had been raising his hat and bowing to the cheering crowd, turned to me and patted me on the head, accompanying the action with a few kindly words in French. I often heard Daniel Webster and Henry Clay speak. Webster was a large man, rather dark complexioned, with coarse hair and an immense brow. When you heard him speak it was like thunder rolling in the near distance. I more than once heard him talk from the steps in front of the old Exchange on Wall street. Henry Clay was a more dashing speaker. He seemed to make up his mind quickly and spoke effectively and eloquently, and carried the people with him like a whirlwind. Webster, on the contrary, was not so good at off-hand speaking. He used to prepare himself beforehand, and when he spoke he was oratorical and ponderous; and, although he spoke deliberately, he seemed to smash every obstacle before him. If a comparison might be made, I should say that Webster's speeches were like the progress of heavy artillery, while Clay's deliveries were like the dash of light hussars. One of my later recollections is of the day when the foundation-stone of the Cooper Institute was laid. I took Nathan C. Ely, the president of our company, to the spot, and introduced him to Peter Cooper. I remember well the satisfaction expressed by the workmen on the building, everyone of whom the philanthropist had presented with a silver dollar as a memento of the occasion."

A REMINISCENCE OF WASHINGTON.

Edward B. Fellows, President of the Rutgers Fire Insurance Company, was born in 1811, but does not look more than seventy. He had an interesting reminiscence to tell of Washington. He said: "My father's uncle, Moses Fellows, was an old soldier under Washington. I recollect him telling that after the battle of Monmouth he was sent out with a file of soldiers to bring in any Britisher who had straggled away from the defeated army. When they were a little distance out he espied a British officer on horseback. He shouted to him and saluted. The officer saw that there was no escape and he surrendered, getting off his horse and handing my great-uncle his sword. The latter returned the weapon to him, whereupon he presented my relative with a rifle, saying: 'I hope you will always keep it, for it's worth a dozen of your French rifles.' The words are given as nearly as I recollect them. My great-uncle brought the officer into camp and the next morning Washington sent for him and commended him for his capture. As a sort of reward, Washington told him he could have the officer's horse. This animal my great-uncle said he afterwards sold for $40. He used to speak of Washington as a man of a very benevolent disposition. He was very kind to the soldiers and seemed to take a very deep and personal sympathy with them in their hardships. The men almost worshipped him. My relative used to tell of his being at the Battle of Bunker Hill. He also went to Quebec, under General Arnold, in the expedition that went to capture that city. He used to tell of the hardships they endured crossing the mountains, how the roads were covered with snow knee-deep, and how the men had to carry flour and other necessities on their backs. He spoke of the defeat and of their going to meet General Montgomery, who was coming down from Montreal. He was also at the Battle of Bennington."

"Do you recollect anything about the value of city property many years ago?" asked the writer.

"Something," answered Mr. Fellows. "In 1850 I bought eight lots on 79th street, with a frame homestead, for $3,600. The property was between Lexington and 4th avenues. I sold them in 1852 at an advance of $1,000. The four lots on which Dr. Eaton's (then Dr. Chapin's) church now stands, on the southwest corner of 5th avenue and 45th street, sold for $50,000 between 1865 and 1866. The owner of the lot adjoining on the street wanted $8,000, which the church refused to give him. Lots on the Bowery forty years ago were worth from $14,000 to $15,000. A plot, I think 75x75 in size, on which Dr. Chapin's old church used to stand before it moved to 5th avenue—on the northeast corner of College place and Murray street—was bought by the church in 1848 for $17,500. It was sold by them three years later for $46,000. A lot on Broadway, running through, 25x200, was worth $60,000 forty years ago. I recollect Mayor Cornelius W. Lawrence in 1834. At that time the Aldermen served without pay. John Ewing was Superintendent of Streets (now Public Works), and Alfred A. Smith was Comptroller at a salary of $1,500, a very big sum in those days. I remember the Comptroller keeping small bills in his pocket to pay accounts with. He did this 'to save the city interest,' he said, with a feeling of pride. When we wanted to see the Aldermen about anything then we had to wait the whole evening at the City Hall, until they had finished business. The only charge they were on the city was the cost of the suppers they used to get after they were through with their work. I lived on Grand street, on the corner of Ludlow street in 1835, with a merchant for whom I was clerk. The house was two stories and attic high, and belonged to John Jacob Astor. The store was on the first floor and the living rooms above. Mr. Astor wanted to raise the rent from $400 to $450, but my employer refused to stand the advance and moved elsewhere. About $450 was considered a good rent for a brick dwelling on Grand street then, and $600 was a big price on most streets for an ordinary three-story house, with a store on the first floor."

Obituary.

GEORGE B. PELHAM.

We regret to announce the death of this well-known architect, which took place suddenly, of apoplexy, on the elevated road station at 6th avenue and 33d street, on Thursday, at about 1 P. M. Mr. Pelham was born in London, England, in 1831, and graduated early at an English university. In 1859 he was sent by the British government to superintend the erection of the present government buildings at Ottawa. He settled in this city in 1871, and his practice has been very extensive. He was for several years architect for the Park Department, during which time he designed the Belvedere and Terrace in the Central Park. The funeral service will take place at the Church of the Epiphany on Monday, and the interment will be at Woodlawn. Mr. George F. Pelham, who was associated with his father, will continue the business at the present offices at No. 1481 Broadway.

Real Estate Exchange Matters.

The knockdown fees during April amounted to $3,085, against $1,639 in 1888, $1,394 in 1887 and $1,448 in 1886.

The receipts of the Real Estate Exchange for the first five months and a-half of the fiscal year amounted to $15,800. During the entire previous year the receipts were only $14,700.

The new rule under which the Exchange will be open to members only, immediately after the auction sales, went into operation on May 1st. Persons who have been in the habit of attending the Exchange should take note of this rule. Where candidates are posted for election, the Auction Room Committee will extend the privileges of the floor pending election.

New Members.

William P. Mangam and Alexander Guthman have been proposed for annual membership in the Real Estate Exchange.

Real Estate Department.

Very little in the way of business has been accomplished this week. The Washington Inauguration Centennial has occupied the attention of the people to the exclusion of almost everything else. The Real Estate Exchange was open on Monday, but no property was sold. On Thursday, of the fifteen parcels of real estate announced to be offered six were re-advertised, four adjourned, four bought in by plaintiffs and one withdrawn. Yesterday several sales were announced, but none were of importance. Some of the parcels were bid in by the plaintiffs and others were withdrawn or adjourned.

On Monday, May 6th, Richard V. Harnett & Co. will sell a three-story, brick basement, Queen Anne cottage, on Cottage place, near Ocean avenue, Long Branch, near the West End, with two-story stable. On Tuesday, Mr. Harnett will offer the four-story tenement No. 605 West 45th street, and the handsome three-story residence No. 333 West 22d street, having a frontage of over 37 feet, and containing a conservatory and other valuable improvements; two-thirds of the purchase money will be allowed to remain at 4½ per cent. Also the residence, stables and lots, comprising corners on De Kalb avenue and Waverley avenue, with a frontage on Clinton avenue, Brooklyn, by order of the estate of Chas. B. Tatham; two lots on 75th street, near Avenue A; the four-story flats at Nos. 102 and 104 East 120th street, and the five-story tenement with two stores at No. 2493 3d avenue, near 136th street. On Wednesday, May 8th, Mr. Harnett will sell the three story English basement house at No. 325 East 62d street.

On Wednesday, May 8th, Adrian H. Muller & Son will sell the following valuable properties, being part of the estate of the late Walter Bowne: No. 184 Water street; Nos. 39, 41, 43 and 45 Madison street, on the northeast corner of James street; Nos. 2000 and 2002 3d avenue, and Nos. 176 and 178 East 110th street, the southwest corner of 3d avenue and 110th street. The corner parcels will no doubt receive some attention from investors.

On Wednesday, May 8th, Wm. Kennelly & Brother will sell, by order of the Supreme Court, in partition, thirty-nine desirable lots in the 12th Ward, situated on 10th and Vermilyea avenues, 209th, 210th, Academy, Emerson and Isham streets. These lots are on and near the cable car road, and on the line of the Harlem River improvements.

On Thursday, May 9th, Richard V. Harnett & Co. will offer the six three-story modern dwellings, with all the improvements, situated at Nos. 35 to 45 West 94th street; the five-story improved tenement at No. 165 Mott street; the six-story double tenement with stores at No. 152 Forsyth street, and the five-story double tenements at Nos. 1385 and 1387 Avenue A.

The Corporation sale of real estate in the 12th Ward, which takes place on Tuesday, May 7th, comprises ten lots on the line of the old Croton Water Aqueduct, each being 25x100.11 in size, and located on 99th, 101st and 102d streets.

Gossip of the Week.

The Washington Inauguration Centennial has practically brought business to a standstill this week, hence the few news items under this column.

SOUTH OF 59TH STREET.

L. J. Carpenter has sold for Messrs. Ottinger & Brother and M. Kahn the property at No. 24 Whitehall street, about 23x57 in size, for $28,280; for M. Lienau the five-story warehouse at No. 2 Jones lane, for $21,000; and the lot, 22x96 in size, with the old building thereon, at No. 79 Grand street for M. Kahn on private terms.

Alden & Sterne have leased, for the owners, the four-story brick building on the southwest corner of 6th avenue and 15th street, known as the West Side Hotel, 50x120 in size, to Messrs. Coogan Bros., for twenty-one years, at $12,000 per annum and taxes.

Howell and George V. Chapin are the incorporators and trustees. The object of the company is the purchase, etc., of real estate, and reclaiming, filling in, improving, etc., of land adjacent to the waters of the Harbor or Bay, and dredging and excavating channels, docks, basins, etc.

Out Among the Builders.

There has been practically little or nothing done in architects' and builders' offices this week, due to the Centennial celebration.

A. B. Ogden & Son are the architects for seven five-story flats to be built on the northwest corner of 10th avenue and 95th street by Andrew J. Doyle. The corner will be 25x83, three others 25x72 each, and three fronting on the street 25x87 each.

John H. Parker will build at once four five-story brick and stone flats on the northeast corner of Madison avenue and 115th street. The architect has not as yet been selected.

Andrew Spence has the plans on the boards for three five-story tenements, 25x84 each, to be built by John A. Walker on the west side of 10th avenue, 24.11 feet north of 145th street.

Chas. Baxter & Co. have plans for a five-story tenement, 27x85, to be built by Adam Gebhardt on the south side of 137th street, 98 feet east of Willis avenue.

The plans, specifications and estimates for the new building to be erected for Criminal Courts and other purposes are creating considerable interest among architects. The last day for sending in designs is June 20, 1889.

Brooklyn.

Montrose W. Morris is preparing plans for an eight-story brick and stone apartment house, 100x140, with stores on the ground floor, to be built on Fulton street, Bedford avenue and Brevoort place. The building will contain fifty suites, besides being thoroughly fire-proof, and will have passenger and freight elevators and incandescent electric lights. There will be two round towers, one at each corner, 160 feet high. The owners are Messrs. Charles Cooper and Edgar Holliday, and the cost is estimated at about $200,000.

Out of Town.

BENSONHURST, L. I.—Edwd. Chestre Smith has plans for ten cottages, 35 x35 feet, to be erected for J. B. Squier, manager of the New York and Suburban Building Co. They are to be of frame, in the Queen Anne style, with towers at the corners, verandas on the first floor and balconies on the second story. The interior fittings will be of hardwood. Two are now building and work on the others will shortly commence. Cost, from $4,500 to $6,000 each.

Special Notices.

One or a few prominent real estate men wanted, to take an interest in a new business closely connected with the real estate market. Will fill a great want, cheapen and improve to a very great extent the advertising of localities for rent. No speculation. Of special importance to managers of large estates. For particulars please address B. G., P. O. box 2411, New York City.

The Cortright Metal Roofing Company have removed their factory from Broad and Race streets, Philadelphia, Pa., to larger and more capacious quarters on the southeast corner of Broad and Hamilton streets, in that city, where they will continue to manufacture their excellent roofing.

James Norris has removed from No. 2114 Madison avenue to No. 449 Lenox avenue.

BUILDING MATERIAL MARKET.

The Exchange was closed during the first three days of the week, and so thoroughly did all hands engage in celebrating the National Centenary that business came practically to a standstill. Our review, therefore, covers only the dealings of about a day and a-half, but brings final valuations down to about usual time.

For the benefit of those who may like to know what the foreign demand for building material, wood products, etc., was 100 years ago we give the following statement copied from official figures, showing the e ports from the United States for the fiscal year 1789-1790:

	Quantity.	Value.
Bricks	870,550	$2,617
LUMBER—
Staves and headings	36,402,301	463,229
Shingles	67,331,115	120,151
Hogshead shooks	52,558	32,002
Hoops	1,908,310	19,598
Boards	47,747,730	260,213
Handspikes, doz	2,361	1,505
Casks, doz	2,423	3,699
Scantling, feet	8,719,638	95,308
Lumber of different kinds, feet		128,503
Timber of different kinds, feet		139,328
Lignumvitae, tons	176	1,760
Mahogany		18,531
Stones, sawed	170	550

To the above might be added as representing a forest product 7,050 tons potash, value $861,634; and 1,548 tons pearlash, value $177,459. We have no data at hand from which to give the total exports from United States of material wood products the corresponding to the above, at the present time, but as a straw to indicate the increase during the century may be noted the shipment from the port of New York alone during 1888 amounting to the value of $3,288,000.

BRICKS.—Up to the present writng the market has been almost at a standstill, and, indeed, we are still somewhat doubtful regarding the exact line of valuation, owing to the absence of sufficient business to give matters a really fair test. During the first three days of the week actual consumption fell off to the narrowest limit of imperative necessity, and required no other stock than that already in hand, but the arrivals did not cease, and on the resumption of trading on Thursday there was an immense accumulation awaiting sale, including a few loads of the first new stock from the River, but apparently no one particularly anxious to purchase. Negotiations in consequence were slow and dragging, with operators quite reticent regarding valuation, though the tendency seemed to be rather downward, and it looked very much as if $8 was about all that could be depended upon for the bulk of supply, at least anything in excess of that certainly requiring a grade of extra attractive quality. The present offering of old stock is commencing to "run poor," and allowances for that must be made when cost is graded down. The market, however, as a whole, is not showing at the moment very promising features, even allowing for the probabilities of only a temporary check to demand through the influence of the celebration. Dealers have thus far managed to develop their wants without the exhibition of any special excitement, and have rarely had to wait for a supply, with the majority still taking such a conservative view of the situation as to carry the impression that they cannot be hurried, while receivers have manifested no inclination to stand off for a strengthening effort, many, as we have before noted, feeling surprise over the quantity of old stock that continually come to hand. The recent storms delayed production somewhat, and will probably make a great many washed brick, yet with new stock already on the market and advices indicating larger quantities soon to follow, it would require an unexpectedly full demand to infuse a positively firm feeling. Pales follow the same general course as hards and are nominally unchanged at about former rates. It is expected that some Croton Point fronts will be ready about the 25th inst.

LATH.—To all intents and purposes it has remained a dull and nominally unchanged market throughout the week. No spot stock was available, while the offering to arrive also proved limited, with receivers quite indifferent about offering, and calling $2.25 about the lowest limit upon which they would care to open negotiations, and some even reporting orders to withdraw to await still higher rates. There seems to be an impression that many dealers are quite anxious to get hold of more stock both here and out of town, and that, placed in contrast with supposed moderate quantities to come, forms the line of strength, though it is admitted that both have a habit of turning up suddenly in unexpected quantity.

LIME.—Moderate arrivals have led to a quiet market, and there is nothing really new to report on the local situation. At the Eastward production is running about as before, though not without some little friction, as there is said to be more or less jealousy among manufacturers lest one should get the better of another in the quantity of the production marketed. Supplies in second hands here are fair, with consumption not so full as anticipated.

LUMBER.—This has been a sort of week that does not count fairly in the business record. Indeed, with buyers and sellers, employers and employees all engaged in celebrating in one way or another the great Centennial jubilee during the first three days of the week, and most of them still engaged in recuperating from the fatigue and talking matters over, up to the present writing pretty much all deals have been those of necessity only, and very little of a really new or significant character has come to light. There is, however, one point upon which there is an agreement without a dissenting voice, and that is to the effect that the lumber business of this city, even for the broken week, has probably been as full, taking the wholesale and retail deals together, as would be reached in an entire year a century ago when the immortal George took up the reins of the new government, and the present location of the principal yards was in many cases far above the line of country residences, with our now dependent suburbs little better than a wilderness from which no doubt something of a supply of saw logs could be drawn. And the enthusiasts go a step further in predicting that the scribe whose duty it may be to furnish THE RECORD AND GUIDE with market reports a hundred years hence will be enabled to chronicle a still greater growth in the lumber trade of the vast municipality to which the City of New York shall by that time have grown. This of course, on the supposition that "the total destruction of the American forests," to which the prophets sometimes refer, has not by that time become an accomplished fact.

From a volume edited by Tench Coxe, of Philadelphia, "Commissioner of the Revenue," and covering a series of papers written between the years 1787 and 1794, we are enabled to make some extracts that afford interesting and quaint reading at this Centennial period. In suggesting methods for clearing lands the writer proposes measures in startling contrast with what is now taking place in the matter of arbor days set aside by many States for the purpose of planting trees and preserving even a scattered growth of wood He rays the clearing of lands may be effected in two ways: "Either first by setting up pot ash works at their mills or country stores or other central places and buying wood ashes of the settlers of new fertile lands and making them lhto pearl ashes or pot ashes, and then selling them for exportation; or, secondly, by employing wood-cutters and other laborers to fell the trees, and oxen or horses with chains to bring the wood together for burning, then collecting the heaps of ashes and making pearl ashes, which is a simple and easy operation. It is said to be a fact and is highly worthy of notice that the expense of clearing an acre of land is fully and clearly reimbursed by the neat sales of the pot ashes or pearl ashes which can be made from the wood ashes collected after thus burning the trees." The writer then adds in italics: "This operation, when considered upon a scale of 100,000 acres, appears like a new creation of property." We should think so. And how was that for "denuding" the forests? In another paper, written about 1793-94, the same author says: "The United States have been brought by slow degrees to their present knowledge of their wood and timber. It is said to be not more than twenty-five years since the Southern live oak or evergreen oak has been used in ship building. The importance of pot ash is by no means duly understood at this time in several of the best wooded of these States. The value of the maple sugar tree is not yet universally known It is said that the hemlock is capable of being made into shingles fit for home consumption or exportation in a degree which is not understood; and the white pine is more valuable than is supposed, for the same purpose. The Southern pitch pine, and even the yellow pine, have been supposed of late years to be more suitable than white oak for beams, car lines, sills and other straight timbers for ships and houses, in places liable to rapid decay. It is little known that it is as easy in America to procure a beam for a ship of war of white oak or pitch pine, in one entire piece, as it is difficult in Great Britain. The actual and progressive scarcity of all the most valuable kinds of timber in Europe has been hitherto noticed in as small a degree as the diversified and unequal resources of the United States in that particular. The demand for wood and timber throughout the world has been greatly extended in the present century by the increase of the aggregate tonnage of the fleets of public and private ships, by manufactures in wood, by those carried on by means of fire, and by the wonderful increase in the number and extent of the commercial and manufacturing towns of Europe and America. The tonnage of the British navy, for example, in 1694, bears no comparison to that of 1794, and the private ships of Britain have undergone a similar augmentation. The whole mass of the tonnage of the world is now immense. A defalcation of timber is perceived in most countries; and in the manner of what has been said concerning grain, it may be safely affirmed that the unavoidable deficiencies of European wood and timber can be supplied only from America. We shall therefore rapidly arrive at the use of our new lands through the consumption of our forests by the countries and colonies of the Old World, and the proceeds of our wood and timber in the meantime will be in lieu of the sales of grain and cattle

"The political importance of these great natural productions, wood and timber, is manifest and striking, in this age of manufacturing and mercantile competition, and of naval rivalship and ambition. The value of our forests to the seekers of the carrying trade and of naval power, is greatly increased by their yielding their possessors prodigious quantities of tar, turpentine and pitch. It would be unwise, however, in the United States, to neglect the due preservation of their timber; and considering how obviously important it is that we maintain an abundant stock, it is a comfortable reflection that the present redundance and cheapness of American lands enables us to effect the preservation and reproduction of our forests with less inconvenience and expense than any other civilized nation."

All italics in the above quotation are simply as we found them in the original.

Eastern Spruce manufacturers, it is reported, remain very firm and confident and their views are reflected in the general line of reports made by receivers at this point. There is sufficiently conservative feeling to admit of a variable line of cost of moderate character as both natural and probable according to volume and character of offering, but nothing has as yet been discovered apparently to modify the belief that local consumption will be large this season, and the quantity of stock available for the outlet no more than can be conveniently handled, with a chance of something like a shortage should other localities make a liberal and anxious call.

Piling is still commented upon in somewhat irregular form, but the effort to secure desirable stock and prompt delivery is rarely successful unless at least some former rates are bid. The principal operators, in fact, claim quite good control of the situation and act as though they possessed it, especially on choice heavy sticks of which the offering has been moderate.

Hemlock in a general way is firm. Now and then comes a report of business doing at somewhat easier rates, and possibly there may be a few sales below the general asking figure, now that the season is sufficiently open, to admid of greater competition, but the principal operators insist that there is no real good reason for shading, and claim that outside of special contracts, where very close figuring is necessary, they do not entertain reduced bids.

White Pine does not show much variation in comparison with the previous position. Operators contradict each other somewhat on minor points, but generally seem to agree that from the distribution already made, and the counter-trading done by dealers to replace stocks, the season is quite as propitious as for other descriptions of stock. As before pretty much all kinds of shipping grades, as well as box boards, are in the front line of the movement, but there is a very good showing for siding and a chance for uppers sufficiently promising to induce a repetition of the belief that they will do better this season. Thus far the offering of supplies from primary sources has been very fair, and with more or less of a competitive spirit.

Yellow Pine has a healthy position still, and there is not much complaint from the principal operators, wholesale or retail. Now and then comes a suggestion from what is denominated as "outside" sources intended to insinuate that the cheerful appearance of the market is somewhat galvanized, but so far as can be discovered the manufacturers' combination works well in regulating supply and sustaining cost, and is ably seconded by the local association of dealers, etc. Export orders are said to be a little smaller and less regular in their development, and still full enough to work out quite a liberal amount of stock.

Carolina Pine, it is claimed, will be held steadily throughout the season, and supplies so managed as to come upon the market only in sufficient quantity to meet the demand. That, of course, if accomplished, will be the result of the combination of manufacturers proving itself to have the strength necessary to control the major portion of the output, as well as to accomplish the avowed intention of opening up considerable new consuming territory.

Hardwoods may still be credited with only about a fairly active demand, as no one on the market appears particularly anxious to hurry. Many consumers are reasonably well supplied with such stock as they may require for their respective wants, and the call upon the yards is therefore erratic; but dealers and some of the larger manufacturers are not adverse to negotiating upon tenders that appear to show value, and for that matter some of them have been in the interior hunting up certain special selections they particularly require. Sellers' ideas on prices remain much the same as for a week or two past, and it is with some emphasis that poplar is set down as retaining the sound position intended as the outcome of the combination of manufacturers.

Shingles are in better demand on home account, and without losing much in the line of foreign calls the general market has altogether a pretty good business. The supplies are kept under control, and prices seem to be maintained without difficulty.

GENERAL LUMBER NOTES.

THE WEST.

The Northwestern Lumberman as follows:

Nothwithstanding there is a great deal of talk about firm and advancing prices on account of the dubious driving outlook, nine out of ten of the price lists which come to hand, the figures of which have been changed, are mute witnesses to the fact that the tendency of prices of white pine lumber is downward instead of upward.

The lumbermen of the Northwest may well be concerned regarding the present low water and droughth, as they are menaced by a danger other than delayed drives. In many localities in Wisconsin and Michigan such an excessively dry spell is not known to have occurred so early in the season for many years, and the conditions are highly favorable to forest fires, as recent occurrences have demonstrated. Fires were reported a few days ago in the Saginaw district of Michigan, and as everything was as dry as tinder and large quantities of logs were on skids or banks, it was expected that great damage would result unless rain should intervene, At West Depere, last Sunday, a fire started in the yards of the Meiswinkle woodenware factory, which made a clean sweep, including a lot of residences; and other serious fires have been reported. Great care should be exercised in all woods regions to prevent the starting of fires which are likely to go on unchecked until forests and towns have been destroyed. A protracted droughth would keep the logs back, and probably result in fires that would destroy many of them before they could be taken care of. Just now logs are better in the stream than anywhere else. Rain in sufficient quantity would obviate both dilemmas, but nature cannot be hurried.

The best thing for lumbermen to do is to care for their logs as well as possible, use every caution to prevent fires and take advantage of all the opportunities that are presented for getting the logs down.

While there is the degree of uncertainty and dissatisfaction indicated, there appears to be no reason to think that there will be any lack of consumption throughout the country this season. Certainly building in the cities has started out well. Hence the hesitancy of the present may be followed later by a renewal of activity merely as a reaction from dullness.

No doubt dealers have delayed about going into the market to buy freely on account of the talk and prospects that the logs would be late in coming down to the mills. Late rains in some portions of Michigan and Wisconsin inspire the hope that the dry spell may now be followed by a season of copious rains that will swell the streams to a driving stage. The manufacturers are using the hung-up drives as an argument for strengthening the market for lumber, but as yet it has had very little influence on buyers.

The inch lumber trade is in a peculiar situation. Commission men are inclined to keep shady about prices. The range, however, as far as ascertainable, is $12 to $13 for straight No. 2, $14 for medium, and $16 and up for No. 1. In offering prices the yard men are particular about sorts and shades of quality, and prices are made to correspond. There has not been a large proportion of inch lumber sold on the market as yet. The prices indicated are for dry lumber, or that out of cross piles.

The Timberman as follows:

The positive assertion of a shrewd veteran in the trade, in our hearing a few days since, that "nature always adjusts matters satisfactorily, and evens up weather inequalities, and hence the assumption is warranted that the tied-up logs will yet reach the mills," may be within the scope of a reasonable possibility, the outlook in that direction is anything but assuring at present, to say the least; and we believe it is a safe assumption that our former estimate of a log shortage will be fully verified, if indeed the predicted shortage is not considerably exceeded. There has been an unparalleled drought during April and May, the like of which the memory of even "the oldest inhabitant" runneth not back to, and an ordinarily heavy rain storm will be required to saturate the surface of the earth before the logging streams will experience any perceptible rise. Present conditions do not warrant any very sanguine anticipations of a successful log drive, to say nothing of the shortage in the winter's crop.

A perplexing question in this connection is: "What will be the outcome of the preparation for summer logging?" Reports from local papers at the important manufacturing centres are to the effect that log cutting will be more extensive the present season than ever before. Arthur Hill, of Saginaw, Mich., report says, is preparing for summer work near Gilchrist, and also Messrs. Alexander and Ready, who will cut 12,000,000 feet. These are samples of rumors at other points, both in Wisconsin and Michigan, and if many of them should materialize the result is reasonably apparent; but the whole question is involved in doubt, and both buyers and sellers are experiencing the extreme of perplexity. The extremely mild weather during the winter, and especially during March and April, has induced extensive building operations and other improvements, thereby creating good demand for the pine product and increased rail shipments from initial points, which reasonably warrants the anticipation that prices must be advanced if the predictions concerning the shortage of the log crop are not exceedingly overdrawn.

Nearly everybody is looking East and wondering what will happen next. A half dozen firms claim to be selling everything, from cull boards to clear and select, to Eastern dealers. No. 1 boards at $14, No. 2 boards at $12.50, and soft pine piece stuff, $13, f. o. b. cars here, is being shipped to Eastern Pennsylvania in quantities large enough to make the trade worth looking after. Wholesalers expect that the Eastern demand will eat up any surplus that may accumulate, or take a large share of the stock on hand at advanced prices, if by any chance logs are "hung up" and lumber becomes scarce.

SOUTH AMERICA.

The latest mail from Rio Janeiro bring the Rio News, from which we extract the following:

Pitch Pine—Receipts, nil. The market is nominally unchanged at 33$0.0@34$000 per doz., but is still flat. Receipts in March were 967,781 feet, against nil for the same month in 1888. White Pine—Receipts are 144,719 feet per "Alberta" from New York, which were sold at 95 rs. the shipment per "Marsters" was sold at 93 rs, that per "Akbar" was retailed at p. t., and that per "Angara" fetched 97 rs. The market is flat, and we may quote at 90@95 rs per foot. In March our receipts were 721,219 feet, against 366,682 for the same month last year. Spruce Pine—Nothing new. Swedish Pine—Receipts, nil, and the market is firm at 34$000@36$000 for red and 33$000@35$000 per doz for white deals. March receipts were 1,569 doz against nil in March, 1888.

NAILS.—A very fair movement is reported, rather fuller than before if anything, and the general run of reports carries an impression of a healthy sort of market, with neither buyer nor seller expecting or striving for much advantage. Supplies appear ample but well managed and few outside lots come into notice to interfere with the regular offering. We quote at $1.80 @1.85 for car lots, and $1.90@2.00 per keg for parcels from store.

PAINTS AND OILS.—Demand has no new form nor does it change in volume to any important extent, but the market appears to be satisfactory to most operators. Calculations upon active full calls or any special investments against the future have long ago been abandoned, but the consumption of staple goods is just about as full as ever and the steady hand-to-mouth method of buying by jobbers has become part and parcel of the situation. Linseed Oil finding proportionate attention at 56½@57½c. for Western, and 58@58½c. for City. Spirits Turpentine shows a slightly easier range in value, but sells fairly on regular trade orders. We quote at 45@46c. per gallon, according to quantity, delivery, etc.

TAR AND PITCH.—Business has been somewhat irregular in development, yet on the whole about equal to average expectations and conducted on a basis of former rates. We quote Pitch $1.35@1.50 per bbl.; Tar at $2.10@2.20, according to quantity, quality and delivery.

For tables of Building Material prices see pages v., x., xi. and xii.

MORTGAGES.

NOTE.—The arrangement of this list is as follows: The first name is that of the mortgagor, the next that of the mortgagee. The description of the property then follows, then the date of the mortgage, the time for which it was given, and the amount. The general dates used as headings are the dates when the mortgage was handed into the Register's office to be recorded.

Whenever the letters "P. M." occur, preceded by the name of a street, in these lists of mortgages, they mean that it is a Purchase Money Mortgage, and for fuller particulars see the list of transfers under the corresponding date. Whenever the rate is not given, read as 6 per cent.

VOL. XLIII. MAY 11, 1889. No. 1,104

It will be noticed that the records of the conveyances, mortgages, new buildings and other filings are unusually heavy this week, being perhaps heavier than ever before in the history of this journal. This is due partly to the activity, which is usual about the first of May, and partly to the fact that the Centennial celebration delayed the filing of documents at the city offices here and in Kings, Westchester, Essex and Hudson counties and elsewhere. Our readers will appreciate the extra effort which this extraordinary pressure on our columns necessitates.

We publish elsewhere the resolutions passed by the Press Club and the Real Estate Exchange upon the death of Mr. Croly. To his family and friends their value will be something more than conventional, for they are the expression not only of the real affection and admiration of men who knew him intimately, but of the two professions in connection with which the greater part of his life's work was done. The loss of Mr. Croly has been most widely and deeply recognized, and the tributes to his memory by his friends, associates and the Press of the country have been of such a character that we have deemed it appropriate to collect a few, which we will publish next week.

The stock market, after enjoying a Centennial spurt, has again lapsed into the same characteristic dullness which has afflicted it for so many months. The only business coming to brokers is from that class of hopeful people who are always looking or trying to look ahead, on the principle that the future is to be read only by the lessons of the past. They argue that things must have a turn; that the worst of everything has come out, and that no more need be said about old crops, but new ones are the pivot on which things must turn. Consequently the splendid prospect of the growing grains leads to the taking of chances by the sanguine, which, backed up by fine weather and additions to their ranks, is likel y culminate in a moderate bull movement. The great general conditions are not so much against this class of reasoners. While business is not good, it cannot be called bad, and when it is said that the volume of business is about the same as last year we get at very near the facts. If we are even holding our own in comparison with the previous season it may be called a hopeful sign, for it was just about this time last year when shoes began to pinch. The great Burlington strike was at its height, all labor was more or less disorganized, employés on the New York Central Road and on some of the other great systems were uneasy, threatening a general stoppage of railroad communication, and the general government itself was doubtful as to the outcome of it all. To-day labor, while not as profitably employed as a year ago, realizes the changed conditions and goes to work for smaller pay, accepting the terms with but little grumbling. Had the government at Washington called Congress together and kept the legislators in session until the two vexing questions of tariff and surplus had been settled there is no doubt but that the fall business would be a good one. As it is the speculator is likely to have the best of it, and the slow mover will be his prey.

Did it not strike some of the observers of the recent Centennial parade that there was an element of the ridiculous in making a procession, which was intended to commemorate the success of a constitution and the progress of a great people, pass under two arches in Madison square constructed of wood and canvas, that resembled more than anything a castle scene in a theatre? Apart from the inappropriateness of the masonry which the arches were intended to sham, did it not seem that the Centennial celebration of a nation of 60,000,000 people ought to call for something architecturally better and more permanent than that flimsy combination of the mere mechanical work of a joiner and a painter? Was there not something poor and petty about it, suggesting patriotism with a thousand dollar limit? The arch on the junction of 5th avenue with Washington square, being far more appropriate in design, should have occupied the most conspicuous position, and it should in addition have been begun long ago and been built of solid masonry, so that when the troops marched under it, they could have felt that it symbolized the prominence of that which is best in our constitution rather than the pettiness of a patriotism measured in dollars.

But it is not too late yet. They are going to erect a permanent monument across 5th avenue, just where it runs into Washington square. Good! By all means let us have a permanent monument. Let it be begun at once and finished in time for the celebration of 1892. But the junction of Washington place and 5th avenue is not the spot for it. An arch of that kind should be put in some central situation, where everybody, stranger or New Yorker, could not help seeing it. The nearest approximation to such a position in New York City is at the junction of 5th avenue, Broadway and 23d street. Let the permanent arch stretch across Broadway, just as the temporary one did, overlooking the whole of Madison square, and visible to every one who visits a large store or takes a stroll to see the sights of the metropolis. Of course there are objections to this. The undertaking will be expensive, more so than if it was placed in a less conspicuous spot, and during the course of its construction traffic may be impeded. All this allowed; but these objections cannot justify the concealment of a monument, national in its significance, in a residential and purely local part of the city. It is not a question of trouble or money, it is a question of effect.

The public feeling shown by the proposition to erect the Washington square arch in permanent material is gratifying and hopeful. This municipality has never within the memory of its oldest inhabitant been so much interested and excited by any subject of municipal concern as by the Centennial celebration. Everybody was positively anxious that the city should make a good showing and do itself credit. This state of feeling is so rare in the commercial metropolis of what Emerson called this "great, intelligent, sensual, avaricious America," that everything ought to be done that can be done to encourage it and to keep it alive. It is not merely or mainly as a municipal ornament that we need the Centennial arch, but as a reminder both of the Centennial commemoration and of the thing commemorated. Meanwhile, it is rather melancholy that the old and slow method of passing round the hat should be adopted in order to secure this result. The monument should belong to the city, and should be reared and paid for by the city. If an appeal could be made for a subscription to every New Yorker individually, the response would be almost universal. Everybody would be willing to contribute according to his means. This being the case, there seems to be no reason why the city should not assess the cost of the erection upon the taxpayers directly.

It seems strange that the people should be continually compelled to fight more or less plausible schemes for the spoliation of Central Park. If there is one thing that New Yorkers are agreed about it is that the park is an honor and an ornament to the city. Nevertheless, whenever anybody is in want of a place to play baseball, or to hold an exposition, or to race horses, his first thought is to get a few acres of the park for his purpose. The latest attempt at spoliation is not even plausible. This is the attempt which has now been authorized by law to remove the menagerie from the arsenal to some other part of the park. Its excuse is the dissatisfaction of the owners and occupants of property on the other side of the avenue. This feeling is entitled to be consulted. The menagerie ought to be removed, only it ought not to be removed to another site in the park. There is no other site where the park itself would be less defaced and injured by the menagerie than by maintaining it on the present site, while the change would involve the construction of new buildings and the demolition of the old in order to restore the present site to the park-like condition it is proposed to destroy somewhere else. The spot selected is understood to be on the North Meadow, one of the most beautiful and rural parts of the park. A former commissioner gave the measure of his fitness for his place by recommending this site for this purpose on the ground that "there was nothing there," as if a park were wasted unless it were built up. The Board of Estimate should refuse to make any appropriation for the transfer. The menagerie should be banished from the park altogether, and if the property-owners concerned would insist upon this they would receive general support. Meanwhile, it must be remembered that the menagerie antedates all the dwellings the owners of which are the complainants, and in reason as well as in law it makes a difference in the case of a complainant against a nuisance whether the nuisance comes to him or he goes to the nuisance.

Perhaps the daily press of this city now sees that if the progress Mayor Grant's rapid transit scheme has hitherto made is maintained it will give New York the transportation facilities it needs fifteen or twenty years from to-day. No other measure is likely to move any faster than it will, for none has stronger backing, and as in the meantime the welfare of the city is suffering severely, not to speak of the increasing discomfort to which the community is being put, we would like to know from Mayor Grant and the rapid transit experts of the daily papers what they propose should be done. It is hardly probable that they think things should remain as they are; that people should continue to wedge themselves into unhealthy, packed cars, or, if they are tired of doing so, get out of the city and join the thousands of New Yorkers who have already gone to Brooklyn, Staten Island and scores of towns along the lines of the railroads leaving Jersey City. Yet, between this and some perfect system of transportation yet to be devised and carried out in the course of several years, what is there? Nothing! absolutely nothing, but to improve the facilities we have; that is, grant the Manhattan Road permission to construct the loop at the Battery and the third track to Harlem. On April 30th, during the Centennial celebration, the elevated railroads carried 780,000 passengers, and no one who has given the subject any serious attention doubts that with the loop and the third track the capacity of the roads could be increased to a million. This would certainly be an improvement. The growing population of the city could be accommodated, for a time at least, better than to-day. Trains could be run faster and without the delay as at present, so that the upper part of the island beyond the Harlem could really be "annexed" to the city by making it sufficiently accessible to be inhabited by the thousands of people of moderate means who to-day would make homes there but cannot. Perhaps if Mayor Grant were to receive the representatives of the Manhattan Company to-morrow he would consider their proposition of more value to the city than he did some few weeks ago, and he would recognize that the press does not represent the common-sense view of the rapid transit difficulty. The Mayor would do the city a service if, while his bill is being played with by politicians at Albany, he would confer with the representatives of the Manhattan Company and assist them to improve the transportation facilities we have, so that the city may get along without too much loss until he can give us a complete system of rapid transit.

The majority of people may be numbered among those to whom a principle does not strongly appeal until it lights upon a fact. For some time past we have been trying to make clear in these columns the principle that there is a certain class of undertakings which it is to the pecuniary advantage of the community that the municipality should control. First among these is the supply of gas, electric light and water, as well as the management of street railroads and all other means of intermural transportation. Municipal control in these matters is of so recent date, in this country at least, and of so limited scope, that the principle has not yet the support of so wide a range of facts as to be overwhelmingly convincing to those who are accustomed to the old idea of giving the government as little to do as possible. Still these facts are accumulating fast, and are driving the principle home to the minds of people. Here is a new one. The Department of Public Works in Philadelphia has just published an account of the working of the Bureau of Gas in that city during the last year. The result is interesting to us here in New York, and points its own moral. During 1888 the city departments, the schools, public buildings and streets of the Quaker City were all lit free of cost to taxpayers, the gas lines were extended, and after deducting interest and sinking fund payments the net receipts amounted to $262,920.95. The total saving to the city may be put at $1,000,000. This calculation is, of course, based on the supposition that gas would not be sold by private companies at a lower price than that charged by the city, an assumption supported by the past experience of all works of a similar nature. There is no inducement for private companies to sell gas at a low figure which is not possessed by municipalities in a still greater degree, and the statement is assured that prices will not be voluntarily lowered by private corporations without some show of gain. The success of the Philadelphia gas works during the last year is attributed in the report to economical management and to the introduction of labor saving machinery and modern processes of making gas. Such examples as this contradict flatly the statements current that municipalities cannot administer gas works, and other works of a similar nature, economically, and do not take the interest in improvement and invention that is shown by private owners of works.

It would not be surprising if the International Congress of Labor, which is to convene at Paris next August, should prove to be a memorable meeting. It will be the first of the kind. It will be attended by representatives of the "workingmen" of the entire world—the Knights of Labor of this country, the Trades Unionist of England, the Socialists of Germany, the Communists of France; even the Anarchists and Revolutionists will not, it is said, be absent. It is impossible to say what will be the outcome of the meeting. Naturally it will depend in part upon the character of the men who will compose it, and this is, of course, at present unknown. The intellectual elements in the meeting, moreover, are so diverse that it is impossible to imagine what the result of the combination of all of them will be like. For instance, Socialism and Anarchism—"Individualism" and "Collectivism" in their extreme forms—upon what common ground can they stand? Upon what measure can they unite? But however diverse the elements may be, there is a central idea that binds all together—the belief that the condition of the laboring class needs bettering, and can be bettered through association. Rightly or wrongly the working man all over the world has pinned his faith upon the power of association. Beginning in the trades, it has spread, in this country at least, to labor throughout the nation, and now the step is to be taken to federate the workingmen of the world. It is worth noticing in this movement that labor has set a step that capital is only now beginning to follow, for what is the "Trust" but the trades-union applied to capital. And with this in mind the question naturally suggests itself: Will capital yet be obliged to follow labor still further towards yet larger federations. The answer is hard to give, but the question touches upon a great matter, and makes the development of the commercial world from day to day worth watching.

The balance of the New York City Park loan has been eagerly subscribed for, the highest bids being at 100¼ and the lowest at par. It was rather expected that somewhat better figures would be obtained. As it was, they must have averaged lower than they did at the former sale. Beside the success of New York in floating her bonds we may put Chicago's attempt to place some $225,000 water-loan bonds. Two sets of bids were called for in Chicago, one at 3 and one at 3½ per cent. The result was not encouraging. The bids at 3 per cent. were all below par, and only 102¾ were offered for the 3½ per cent. issue. There must be some reason for this difference, for in the nature of things there does not seem to be any reason why the credit of Chicago should be any worse than that of New York. The explanation lies in the nature of the bonds. Those of Chicago are not tax free; and they have only twenty years to run, against forty years for the issue of New York. It is probable that the length of time that the bonds have to run have more to do with the difference than the other condition, for the fact that bonds are free or not from city taxation affects so few of the possible purchasers that it cannot alter materially the value of the securities.

The Methodist Book Concern.

The new building of the Methodist Book Concern, at the southwest corner of 5th avenue and 20th street, is the largest and most important of the edifices that mark the transformation of the avenue below Madison square into a commercial thoroughfare. The new structure is indeed of very generous dimensions and brings to its designer a correspondingly unusual opportunity. The avenue front is about 105 feet long and the street front about 175, and as there are only eight stories the architect was not obliged to take thought in order to deprive his work of the appearance of spindling. Its main proportions are agreeable and effective, independently of his exertions.

The material chosen compelled or at least suggested a very simple treatment. The basement is of a dark reddish granite, and a lighter granite is used for the wrought work of the superstructure, except where red terra cotta is introduced sparingly in decorative panels. In conformity, apparently, to the light tint of the granite used in immediate connection with it, the brick is laid with white joints that gives the brick-work a prim and old-fashioned aspect that most designers have of late rather carefully avoided.

The main division of the building is triple, both vertically and horizontally, on each front. The lower division is the granite basement of two stories. The granite is appropriately rough-faced and the treatment of it appropriately simple and massive. The openings of the ground floor are undivided and covered by flat arches of considerable span, giving space for store fronts without unduly attenuating the piers. At the jambs corbels are projected from the piers to receive the arches. This is an excellent expedient to reduce the bearing of a lintel; but it seems unnecessary, and even a little awkward, when the construction supported is an arch and where there is, as here, an opportunity to give it as much depth as may be necessary in proportion to the span. The upper story of the basement is a mezzanine, with the openings on the avenue front aligned over those below, and, like them, five in number. The outermost are distinguished in treatment to continue a distinction that is maintained to the top. These are segmental, while the intermediate openings are round arches. The central entrance is the feature of the basement on the avenue front. Battering piers, recalling the pylons of Egyptian architecture except in scale, flank the doorway, and above it is an order of two pairs of pilasters with an exaggerated entasis supporting an entablature and flanking a narrow segmental arch. The voussoirs of the arches in the second story are throughout continued to the cornice above, although this arrangement explains and justifies itself only when there is not room to complete the arch with an extrados, as there is here. In spite of the questionable points of detail we have noted, the general aspect of the basement is very satisfactory by reason of the vigor and massiveness with which the material is treated.

The plane of the wall above the basement is withdrawn from that of the granite for the purpose of allowing of the construction of bay windows projecting beyond the plane of the adjoining wall, but not beyond the building line. There are three of these bays on the avenue front, inclosed in tall openings, running through four stories and crowned with round arches, of which the line is marked by an emphatic group of mouldings in brick. These three bays form a central group. On each side, at the end of the wall, the stories are distinguished by an isolated double opening in each. In the three lower stories this opening is framed in jambs and a lintel of light granite very simply treated with no ornament but a row of dentils on the lintel. The opening of the fourth story (the sixth of the building) is triple, a central arch with subordinate openings at the sides under the impost. This treatment of the angles is repeated on the longer front, and is, perhaps, the most effective point of design in the building. By uniting several stories at the centre which are distinguished at the ends, the weight and solidity of the corners are much enhanced, and this is a result eminently desirable in itself, and especially desirable from its rarity in our commercial architecture. There is no apparent sacrifice in the arrangement here, on the practical side, and it is to be hoped that its success may lead other architects to strive after the effect of vigor and repose attained by it, to do which it is, of course, not necessary to reproduce the forms. There is a brick building in Wall street in which the same thing is done; that is to say, small and separated openings are used on the flanks and continuous openings at the centre, and this effect is equally attained, although there is no specific resemblance in the forms employed.

This second division of the building is completed by an effective attic, entirely of granite. The solidity of the corners is maintained by coupling the lintelled openings, which are arranged by threes, over the central arches. The intervals between the openings are occupied by carved panels. As with the Bank of America, which we noticed last week, this attic really crowns the composition and might very properly have been treated as the third term of the proportion. Above the cornice, however, another attic occurs of arched instead of lintelled openings, not continuously arcaded, but grouped so as to continue the divisions below, which is further emphasized by coupled granite pilasters over the main piers. The arches are grouped by threes, the lateral groups entirely of granite and the central groups of granite with brick piers and spandrils.

As has been said, the excellent treatment of the corners on the avenue front is repeated on the longer street front. The lateral division here becomes fivefold by the emphasis given to the centre, in which another entrance occurs—which is here also a feature. Another feature is made by the exterior expression of an important apartment running through what are elsewhere two stories. It has very tall, double-transomed windows with panels in terra cotta bearing emblems that indicate it as the abode of the Methodist Book Concern itself.

The detail of the building is scholarly and refined and adds to the general expression of sobriety and decorum. The chief success of the composition is in the treatment of the corners, but there is nowhere any manifest failure, and the whole is dignified and impressive.

It must strike even free traders that papers like the Times and the Evening Post are carrying the cry against the tariff to the bounds of the ridiculous. It has become with them a sort of dementia that is not uncommon to people who brood too long over one idea. The usual treatment is rest and cool bandages. The latest statement they make about the tariff is that it is the cause of the present trouble among the manufacturers of spool cotton thread in this country. A few weeks ago four of the large companies combined to "fix" the price of six-cord 200 yard spool cotton; and a fifth, the Merrick Thread Co., was invited to join the combination. Upon their declining the two Clark concerns, the Willimantic and the Coates companies lowered prices 16 per cent. so as to force the Merrick people to terms—the ultimate intention, of course, being to raise prices, all of which it is declared would be impossible without the tariff. Now, in England, there is no tariff, as it is understood here, the importation of cotton thread is absolutely free; yet it so happens that only last year the English manufacturers, among whom by the way the two Clarks' and Coates' concerns are the largest, went through just such a fight as the one now being carried on in this country, and for exactly the same purpose—to force all manufacturers to combine to maintain prices. It is said that more than $1,000,000 was spent in the contest. The fact is the thread manufacturers of this country are only doing what has already been done, and thoroughly done, in free trade England, and as the Clark and Coates companies are English concerns they are merely applying to their business in the United States the principles they have employed on the other side. What nonsense it is, then, to talk of the tariff having anything to do with the matter.

In fact, the idea that the tariff is responsible for trusts in this country has been laid away to a long rest by all unprejudiced people, whatever their economic beliefs may be. There are trusts in free trade England just as in protectionist America, and it is more reasonable to suppose that in both countries they have a common cause than that they are due to the tariff in the United States and to something entirely different in Great Britain. The trust question has at last about run the entire length of public opinion. The Senate Committee on General Laws of this State has issued its report, and the net result of its investigations is that "trusts" are "harmless" institutions, that they have existed in some form in every commercial community from time immemorial, and that they are mainly the result of excessive competition. They need no checks but those which the present laws of the land and the conditions of commerce impose. All of this is what has been said over and over again in these columns. England at one time had penal laws against combinations in restraint of trade, but they were repealed as far back as 1844, clearly showing that long ago in England the true nature of these combinations was recognized.

Quarterly Payment of City Taxes.

Under our present tax laws the city of New York pays a large sum each year as interest on money borrowed on revenue bonds which it is obliged to issue in anticipation of the receipt of taxes. During the year 1887 revenue bonds were issued to the amount of $17,242,346 in anticipation of taxes, and in 1888 the sum of $14,302,825 was borrowed for this purpose. Placing the average amount annually borrowed on account of taxes at $15,000,000, and the rate of interest at 2 per cent.—a very low estimate—it is seen that $300,000 of the heavy taxes now borne by real estate and other classes of property is due to our existing plan of collecting taxes annually instead of distributing the payment through the year, so as to make it unnecessary to borrow this large sum of money. It is true that the city is often able to loan a considerable amount of the revenues which accumulates in the treasury toward the close of the year, and in this way recovers a part of the sum paid for the use of money borrowed, but the difference in interest paid and interest received is still always very great. This sum paid annually as interest on loans is felt more keenly by the taxpayers each succeeding year it is exacted. It takes no close observer of municipal affairs to perceive that the demand for extensive improvement continues each year to increase out of proportion to the growth of taxable property, as returned by the tax assessors, to meet this demand. Sometimes this increased demand for extension and improvement over the enlargement of the taxable basis to meet it is shown by a rise in the tax rate, as when in 1888 the city raised the tax rate to 2.22 per cent., as against 2.16 per cent. in 1887; but it does not follow that because in certain years the tax rate is not raised or is even lowered that this is an indication that there is no demand for larger proportionate revenues to meet the demands of proper extension and improvements. As a general thing it simply means that property-holders refuse to be taxed at a higher rate per cent., or that incumbent city officials are unwilling to risk their popularity with the taxpayers by increasing the rate. The truth plainly stated is that each year a much larger revenue is needed by the city to carry forward necessary improvements, and to insure efficient service in various of its departments, than the tax rate, placed at even a higher per cent. than it is at the present time, could bring into the treasury. It is hardly to be presumed that in the future our city authorities will be able to raise the tax rate much above the present figure, as it now falls oppressively heavy upon property-holders—especially upon the owners of real estate, who bear each year an increasing proportion of all taxes paid. At any rate, it is not a wise policy to attempt to increase the revenue in the treasury by this means, only as a last resort. Other less oppressive measures should be tried first. The payment of taxes quarterly—or possibly semi-annually—would enable the city to save the greater part, at least, of the large sums paid out each year on account of anticipated tax receipts. The city would, in this way, not only secure an actually greater revenue in proportion to expenditures, but at the same time render it easier and much more convenient for the ordinary taxpayer to meet his payments. The payment of taxes in installments during the year is a custom very generally adopted in cities throughout leading countries of Europe. In Saxony the tax on incomes is paid in semi-annual installments—on the 15th of April and the 15th of October. Hanover used to levy taxes monthly, and France requires monthly payments at the present time. In Prussia taxes on lands are paid monthly. The payment of taxes in quarterly installments is prevalent in German cities. This system is upheld in these countries on the ground that several payments during the year are in the interest of smaller property-holders, for whom it is difficult to pay a large sum on a certain fixed day. The payments are usually distributed according to the convenience of the classes of people taxed. For instance, municipal taxes on houses are levied at the time when the rent falls due; taxes on salaries at those times when the salary is received. This system answers in two important particulars Adam Smith's established canons of taxation which our present tax laws violate, viz.: that every tax ought to be levied at the time when it is most likely to be convenient for the contributor to pay it, and that every tax ought to be so contrived as both to take out and keep out of the pockets of the people as little as possible over and above what it brings into the public treasury. Under our present system of annual payment the tax cannot possibly be imposed at a time when it is convenient for all to pay, and many thousand dollars are taken out of the pockets of the people each year as interest on tax loans, which never find their way into the city treasury. In Quebec, Canada, the payment of taxes in small amounts at different times during the year is found to be a great convenience to the people of that city, especially to the poorer classes, and it is stated upon good authority that the holders of small property give the tax officials less trouble, and are less in arrears with their taxes than their wealthier fellow citizens. The payment of taxes in quarterly installments is allowed in Savannah, Ga., and the people of that city also find it a great convenience, and, what is more, the tax officials are occasioned no inconvenience and require no extra clerk hire, as the labor is distributed more evenly through the year. The argument often raised against the payment of taxes at intervals during the year, that it causes additional expense in collection, etc., is seen to have little foundation in actual experience. Insurance companies charge no more for quarterly payments than they do for yearly collections; why should it cost the city more? The yearly order of work of the tax department may be disturbed somewhat by a change to quarterly payment, but the comfort and convenience of paid tax officials is a matter of secondary importance as compared with the relief and convenience of heavily burdened taxpayers. Professor Ely, member of the Tax Commission of the State of Maryland, after investigating the working of this system in German cities and in cities in America which allow payments by installments, recommended, in a recent report to the General Assembly of that State, the adoption of the plan of quarterly payment of taxes in municipalities. In consideration of the increasing expenditures of the city of New York we urge a change in our tax law to the effect that payment of taxes in quarterly installments be allowed in order that taxpayers may be relieved.

A financial writer on one of the New York daily papers has remarked that anticipations respecting the beneficial effect of the large corn crop of this year on railway earnings have not been fulfilled. According to the statement of the railroad officials, very little corn has been moved by the lines running through the corn country, and if earnings have increased it has been due to other causes. Very likely; but when we consider that corn, like hay and unlike wheat, becomes marketable, rather after it has been changed in form than in its original shape, we need not despair as to the ultimately stimulating effect of a large corn crop on railway earnings. As a matter of fact, less than 10 per cent. of the corn crop is sent to market and sold. The rest is consumed on the spot, with the result, if the quantity is unusually large, of materially fattening existing live stock and of encouraging the farmers to increase their cattle. Thus, it is the railroad earnings of the next two years that will show increases due to the large corn crop of the present year.

The Late David G. Croly.

At a special meeting held at the Press Club on Thursday, the 2d inst., the following resolutions were passed:

"WHEREAS, The Creator of all things has, in His divine wisdom, called from our midst David G. Croly, who has thus exchanged the anxieties and trials of this life for that eternal repose we shall all enter at our appointed time. Therefore, be it

"Resolved, That, while humbly bowing to the decrees of the Almighty, the members of the New York Press Club deplore the loss that Mr. Croly's death has occasioned the profession of journalism, of which he has been so bright an ornament.

"Resolved, That the New York Press Club bears willing testimony to the courage of conviction, the independence of character, the sweetness of temperament and the rare personal modesty which so distinguished our deceased brother, and which qualities endeared him to all who knew him.

"Resolved, That this Club tenders its unfeigned sympathy with his family in their hour of affliction and extends its condolence to the widow and children he so devotedly loved and cherished.

"Resolved, That a copy of these resolutions be forwarded to the family."

FRED. J. HAMILTON, Recording Secretary. JOHN A. COCKERELL, President.

At the regular annual meeting of the directors of the Real Estate Exchange and Auction Room (Limited), the following resolutions were presented by George H. Scott, and adopted by a unanimous rising vote:

"WHEREAS, The Real Estate Exchange and Auction Room (Limited) has been informed of the death of David Goodman Croly, one of its original directors, the Board of Directors desire to testify to his worth. Therefore, be it

"Resolved, That in Mr. Croly the Exchange recognized a gentleman of ability and great sagacity, to whom almost more than any other person the existence of the Exchange is due, for it was in his office (that of THE RECORD AND GUIDE), that the meeting of the brokers was held to appoint the first committee on organization.

"Resolved, That we recognize the faithful performance of his duties as director, and his great efficiency as one of the Committee on Rules in thinking out and writing up the regulations and by-laws.

"Resolved, That his foresight should be remembered as the originator of the Legislative Committee, a body which has had the effect of making the Exchange prominent, not only in the city, but throughout the State.

"Resolved, That a copy of these resolutions, suitably engraved and signed by the officers of the Exchange, be sent to his family."

In conclusion, Mr. Scott said that he was so long and intimately associated with Mr. Croly in the organization of the Exchange, and in preparing its rules and regulations, that he could testify personally to the exact truth of everything contained in the resolutions.

Sanitary and Plumbing News.

The event of the moment in plumbing and sanitary circles is the recent appointment made by Mayor Grant to the presidency of the Health Department. To the mere machine politician who is an advocate of the "spoils system" it brings disgust and disappointment because of the fact that the new incumbent, Mr. Charles G. Wilson, is credited with not being prominent in party movements, while to those who advocate putting no one into an important position of that character but one who is specially fitted for it by training and education it bodes incompetent administration because of the fact that the nominal head will be in a great measure in the hands of the chiefs of the several bureaus. While the latter argument may apply with some force in a general way it is rather a delicate thing to undertake at this stage of the change in the presidency to say whether Mayor Grant's choice was a sensible one or not. It will be time enough when President Wilson has had an opportunity to demonstrate his fitness, or otherwise, to apply this general rule and see whether it works satisfactorily or the reverse.

The marked improvement in the plumbing work of to-day as compared with that of recent years is the strongest testimony which can be offered in favor of municipal plumbing regulations intelligently framed and properly carried out. We believe that the work now being done in new buildings in this city cannot be excelled, if indeed it is equalled, in any city in the New or Old World, and is so far in advance of that of even recent years that the difference can only become apparent on examining some of the so-called modern plumbing of the past with that shown even in the commonest tenements. There is more defective plumbing to-day in private houses of a few years standing than any one can be aware of, and possibly, if the truth were known, much of the sickness so often apparently unaccountable is due to defective arrangement of pipes by which what is known to the trade as "by passes" exist and afford ready entrance to sewer gas into rooms where the plumbing work is otherwise unexceptionable.

One of the first difficulties with which President Wilson, of the Health Department, will have to grapple is what may be put down as "unfinished business" that is left over from the preceding administration to be settled by this one. It is a long-standing dispute between the plumbers and the department on the subject of notices of violation of plumbing being served on the owners of buildings instead of on the plumbers, and it appears as though the plumbers have the best of the argument. They claim that if the inspector finds fault with certain work, and that they, the master plumbers, are promptly notified by postal-card, they will have the defects at once removed without the delay and the annoyance consequent on the roundabout method at present in vogue. Below here will be found a communication on the subject, and we will remark en passant that while the plumbing regulations of New York and Brooklyn are under authority of the law of 1881, the Brooklyn Health authorities deal exclusively with the plumber and find the plan to work well.

NEW YORK, May 6, 1889.

Editor RECORD AND GUIDE:

The change in the presidency of the Health Department is a good time to bring up a long-standing difference between the master plumbers and the department in the settlement of which the builders and owners of building properties in this city are very closely interested. I allude to the custom of the inspectors of the department in new buildings filing violations of plumbing work and having notice of same sent to the owner instead of the plumber who could have the defects removed before the sanitary policeman would have time to serve it on the owner aforesaid.

Before going any further in this matter I will give you an illustration of how the game is worked. A plan is filed in the department for the plumbing of a tenement or other building by the architect, and after its approval and the usual amount of estimating among a number of plumbers the job is given out and the plumber puts a force of men on the work. The "boss" plumber cannot always be around, and it may be that some little matter is found to be wrong with some of the work when the inspector comes around. Instead of having the plumber who is on the job remove the defect at once and make the work right, the inspector goes away and reports to the office that the work is in violation of law. Then a notice is prepared and served on the owner or the architect, and the usual delay occurs before the next inspection is made, when, of course, the defect no longer exists and the violation is lifted. All this time the plumber cannot go on with the work until some question is settled by the chief inspector, who must have the architect and the plumber come, bowing and scraping, to him to No. 42 Bleecker street, and after waiting their turn for half the day, if they are civil and do not raise a row over the loss of their time, they are let off. In the meantime the carpenter, the plasterer and the laborer in the cellar are kept back waiting for the plumber to get through, and the loss is pretty general all round.

The Master Plumbers' Association some little time ago took the matter up, and a committee was appointed to wait on President Bayles and arrange with him that where a defect was found in the plumbing work, a notice of same should be sent first to the plumber, giving him forty-eight hours to make good the defective work. Our committee reported that President Bayles was in favor of the plan, but that Chief Inspector Collins being sick the committee's request was sent to him and, of course, he (Collins) sat down on it. The president either wrote a long letter (or signed one prepared by Collins), in which the plumbers were refused what they asked. The association then kicked, and when they raised the row Mr. Bayles wrote another letter, offering to reconsider his action, which they ignored, and the matter now stands to be settled by President Wilson.

As one fact is worth a thousand assertions I will give you one illustration of how the violation rule is worked, and the injustice it does the plumber. There was recently a large fire-proof storage warehouse erected at the northwest corner of Great Jones street and Lafayette place. The plumbing work of the building was done by Mr. Joseph A. Macdonald, of 6th avenue, as a champion piece of plumbing work, with rust and lead joints, and everything of the very best. His workmen in putting in the fresh air inlet pipe in the sidewalk, however, used what is known as "light" pipe, and after all the splendid work done in the building Plumber Macdonald was reported to the owners as doing his work in violation of law. Here was a case that a postal-card sent to the plumber would have had the light pipe removed. The inspector, however, scored a point, and Chief Inspector Collins was happy, while the master plumber was humiliated without any necessity.

If President Wilson is man enough to take hold of this subject and give a common-sense ruling it will be good for the plumber and for the builder and owner also. It is all very fine for the Chief Inspector and his men to be made to appear very smart, but it would be much better if the building interests were spared this cause of loss and delay. The inspectors are not to be blamed; they are under orders, and if any among them attempts to use his own judgment and common sense he does so at his own risk. If found out, he is a "gone coon."

A DISGUSTED PLUMBER.

Men and Things.

Brooklyn is to have a new armory. It will not be of an expensive character, as only $150,000 has been granted for both site and building. Still it will be welcome news that the bill allowing even that sum to be appropriated for the purpose has become a law.

The sedate building which has stood on the site of Nos. 78 and 80 Broadway for many years is now being taken down by Hausling & Stonebridge preparatory to the erection of the handsome office structure to be built on the site by the Union Trust Company.

James Reiley is progressing with the houses and stores he is erecting at the northeast corner of 8th avenue and 131st street. The corner will be three stories with store on first floor, 25x96 feet, built of brick with brown stone trimmings, to cost about $25,000. The three others on 131st street will also be three stories with stores, 25x75 feet, built in the same manner, to cost about $15,000 each.

The most valuable corner on this continent is now in a sad condition. But it will not be for long, so Thomas E. Tripler says. He means to tear down the old building on the site in quick order, so that Matthew Wilks may be able to start in at once to build his ten-story office building on the spot. This property, the southwest corner of Wall and Broad streets, was purchased by Mr. Wilks in April, 1882, for $168,000, and it cost him $330.20 per square foot, by far the highest price ever paid for land on Manhattan Island.

One of the most marked features of the dealings in the New York Stock Exchange for the past few years has been the steady advances in the prices of railroad bonds. Old issues are obtainable only at premiums ranging at from 10 to 45 per cent. above par, affording a return of but 4 per cent on the investment. The Duluth, South Shore & Atlantic are advertised by Walston H. Brown & Bros. for sale at 95. It would appear that the value of the property which secures the mortgage is over three times greater than the amount of the mortgage itself. Hence a man who buys these bonds practically lends a sum equal to one-third the value of the property, gets 5 per cent. interest thereon and a 5 per cent. commission in the bargain. The bonds are to be listed on the New York Stock Exchange, and it is expected that the entire issue will be placed in another week, and that thereafter, as the bond begins to be appreciated, there will be a substantial increase in value.

The exterior street on the East River, between 64th and 86th streets, which has been in the throes of suspense for several years, has at last emerged complete. The law (chapter 697, Laws 1887) which laid out this street made it 150 feet wide, of which 100 feet was to be under the jurisdiction of the Department of Public Works, and 50 feet under the Department of Docks. A law was passed in 1888 reducing the width of the street to 115 feet, a most unwise and short-sighted measure, which looked a generation, rather than a century, ahead. The amendment introduced this session, which became a law a few days ago, provides that 65 feet, instead of 100, shall be under the jurisdiction of the Public Works Department, the Dock Department to do the balance of 50 feet, skirting on the river. A reporter of THE RECORD AND GUIDE called at both departments and at the Corporation Counsel's office, but at none of these bureaus was it known when the work would be started. Now the law is passed the street should be commenced as soon as possible.

The Clapp building, at Nos. 119 and 121 Nassau street, is being torn down in order to make room for a new ten-story fire-proof office building. The Clapp building adjoins Temple Court, and it is the owner of the latter, Banker Eugene Kelly, who is to erect the new structure. The two buildings are to be connected and are altogether different in material and design. The new one will have a touch in it of the Romanesque style of architecture; its front will consist entirely of limestone, and it will have its own apparatus for steam-heating, electric lighting and elevator and mail chute service. On the ground floor it runs from Nassau street through to Theatre alley, and is divided by a large central light court into a front and rear block of buildings. Mr. J. M. Farnsworth, the former architect of Temple Court, has the plans for this addition, which is expected to cost about $200,000. Only a few of the contracts, by the way, have been given out. The iron work, stone work and carpentering have already been provided for, but that is all.

The improvement of the upper part of Broadway seems to continue, and it is largely in the way of hotels. It is, indeed, the region of hotels. Robert and Ogden Goelet are now having torn down a large plot of buildings that have stood on the southeast corner of Broadway and 32d street for many years and are going to add another hotel to the great thoroughfare on that site. It is to be nine stories high, of which the first will be given over to stores, the second to offices and the rest to a family hotel, so McKim, Mead & White, the architects, say. The size of the building will be 91.9x133.10, and the first two stories of the front will be in Tuckahoe marble, while the balance will be in buff brick and light terra cotta, as in the Judge building. It will have two elevators, and there will be an interior court, thus giving outside light to all the rooms. The roof is to be of granolithic material and the appointments are to be "rich but not gaudy." The cost is estimated at $550,000. Michael Reid has already received the contract for the mason work.

The City of St. Louis, Mo., advertises for plans and specifications for a new City Hall. The competition is to close January 1, 1890. The building is to cost $1,000,000 or less, and a prize of $5,000 is to be given to the plan selected by a two-thirds vote of the commission appointed to decide upon the matter, while $1,000 each will be given to the five selected next best, who are not successful in carrying off first place. Now, $5,000 certainly seems a very small sum to give to an architect for plans and specifications on a $1,000,000 building. The custom is too frequent with municipalities of paying a niggardly sum to architects for meritorious work. An architect such as should be successful in such a competition ought to be a man of culture, of classic training, and of long and wide experience. He must have been abroad, studied the best examples of architectural work, and have given days and nights to the thought, study and working out of such a building as a $1,000,000 City Hall should be. Does the City of St. Louis expect to get all this for $5,000? If she does she will be the loser thereby, for the very announcement of this figure will deter first-class architects from competing.

A number of rich real estate owners have just got themselves incorporated as the Van Cortlandt Park Land and Improvement Co. Amongst others are Joel B. Erhardt, Augustus Van Cortlandt, Jr., Andros B. Stone, John R. Voorhis, Howard Carroll, George B. Lowerre and Wood D. Loudown. The object of the company is to improve, by laying out lots and building houses on property located in the City of Yonkers, adjoining the new Van Cortlandt Park. The Yonkers Rapid Transit Company, connecting with the Elevated road at 155th street and running half-hourly trains, has a station on the property. It consists of about 1,200 city lots, of which 90 overlook the park. Others are desirably situated on Broadway. But the company offers other inducements besides advantages of situation to purchasers who intend to build and reside on the premises: They are organizing a Building Loan Association to assist the buyers in improving the property, and they will give gratis tickets for one year's travel to New York to all who buy property on the line of its road. A liberal policy of this kind will be very certain to attract purchasers.

The sash, door and blind men of the Northwest have succeeded, or at least are said to have succeeded, in forming a combination "to advance prices" and "keep the market regulated." The public, of course, have no part in this "combination," though their interests are not inconsiderable.

The building prospects for the year in Duluth, Minn., are said to be excellent. Many large and costly structures have been projected. One hundred and fifty thousand dollars is to be expended on the new Union Depot, $200,000 on the Chamber of Commerce, $250,000 on the Henderson building, $100,000 on the Palladio building, in addition to a number of public and private structures costing from $25,000 to $100,000 each.

The following process comes from France for hardening plaster, so that it may be used for flooring as wood and tile are at present: About six parts of good quality plaster are intimately mixed with one part of freshly slaked white lime finely sifted. This mixture is then laid down as quickly as possible, care being taken that the trowel is not used on it for too long a time. The floor should then be allowed to become very dry and afterward be thoroughly saturated with sulphate of iron or zinc—the iron giving the strongest surface, the resistance to breaking being twenty times the strength of ordinary plaster. With sulphate of zinc the floor remains white, but when iron is used it becomes the color of rusted iron, but if linseed oil boiled with litharge be applied to the surface it becomes of a beautiful mahogany color, especially is this the case if a coat of copal varnish be added.

Professor I. O. Baker is of the opinion that the strength of brickwork in comparison with stone masonry is underestimated to-day, though, as he says, the belief may have been well founded when brick was poorly made and imperfectly burned in old-fashioned kilns. Structures of good brickwork laid in strong cement mortar are, he thinks, more nearly monolithic so far as strength goes than even if they are well constructed of large stones. In the towers of the Brooklyn Bridge, where stone masonry is subjected to perhaps as heavy a pressure as in any other structure, the pressure is about 28 tons to the square foot, while experiments made at Watertown showed that brick piers built with ordinary care by a common mason will stand 159 and 180 tons, the latter with Portland cement mortar.

The Building Board of Sweden has increased the stringency of the building laws by ordering that any builder who shall undertake the erection of a stone house of more than one story, unless he is qualified by certain Swedish institutes, shall be liable to a criminal prosecution.

The buildings are being torn down at the northwest corner of Centre and Worth streets. Notice of the new building which is to occupy this site was given in our issue of January 26th, 1889. The plans have been prepared by J. B. Snook & Sons and are for the Lorillard estate. It will be a six-story brick and stone factory building, 50x60 feet. The cornice will be of galvanized iron, the roof of tin, and the interior will be fitted with steam heat and a freight elevator.

George B. Post has completed the plans for the new building for the Union Trust Company, situated at Nos. 78 and 80 Broadway, below Wall street, with a frontage also on New street.

How New York Realty is Appreciated.

There is no better way to ascertain who is buying city realty than to study carefully the columns of conveyances published weekly in this journal. Anyone who had made it a point to do this, would be agreeably surprised to find that among the thousands of buyers are many out-of-town capitalists, men who have made money in other cities and send it on here for investment in properties, which they place in charge of responsible brokers, who see that their clients' interests are cared for and the profits promptly forwarded. Among such investors may be mentioned Wm. G. Weld, of Boston, who, during the past year and a-half has purchased nearly two million dollars' worth of choice property, all improved. The first purchase was a piece on Church street. Subsequently the northwest corner of Broadway and Duane street and the southwest corner of Broadway and Leonard street, belonging to the Hale estate, were acquired at over a million dollars, the last purchase being the southwest corner of Broadway and 12th street at $308,000. These purchases at different times indicate pretty strongly that such investments are paying ones, for if they were not it is very reasonable to suppose that the buying would have been discontinued. Other investments by out-of-town capitalists which are worthy of special mention are those given herewith. Henry May, of Washington, D. C., bought a plot of about four lots on the southwest corner of West 3d and Mercer streets for something like $83,000. This plot is in a section which is quite slow for business purposes, where few improvements have been made, and furthermore where some pretty tough characters carry on business of a very suspicious nature. Well, what does the purchaser do? Does he allow the plot with ramshackle old buildings to stand, an eyesore to decent people who may pass that way? No; the buyer consults his agents here, through whom the purchase was made, and the result is plans are drawn for a handsome business building to cover the site. Right here it seems in order to add that we hear other property adjoining would have been embraced but for the high figure at which it is held by a reverend gentleman, who gets high rentals from tenants of—well, we have already mentioned the fact that the business carried on thereabouts was not of a strictly reputable character. But to return to the purchase. What will be done with the new structure? Why, the owner's agents have attended to that, having secured as tenants for five or ten years at over $21,000 per annum a firm of clothiers now on Broadway. This certainly speaks well for city realty as an investment and real estate brokers' management. Again, a prominent Brooklyn merchant—well, there is no secrecy about the name, which is Frederick Loeser—buys a corner, not far from the May corner—the southeast corner of Greene street and Washington place; and what does he do? Why, just about what was done with the other corner—improve it. Well, what about leasing; does he intend to look for a tenant, or will he occupy the premises for his own business? Neither one nor the other, Mr. Loeser has already signed a lease for the building which is about being commenced, and his tenants are none other than Messrs. Harris & Russak, the well-known furriers, who will pay the handsome sum of $18,000 per annum for ten years. Well, this shows that all the enterprise is not possessed by New Yorkers, and the results already mentioned may lead some of our wealthy citizens to look around a bit, consult a reliable agent as to the best way of investing in real estate, and possibly lead to transactions which will improve our city and enrich the investor. Other leases of buildings before their erection could be cited, but only the above are mentioned because made by out-of-town investors.

The History of An Assessment.

Judge O'Brien, in Supreme Court Chambers, has reduced the assessment for regulating, grading, curbing and guttering 1st avenue, between 92d and 109th streets, by disallowing $54,609.13. The assessment is $243,407.26, of which only $12,725.96 is charged to the city at large. The property-owners assessed are therefore saved this very substantial sum.

The assessment has quite a little history. The work for which it was made was commenced under the Tweed regime. It was then let out to John L. Brown under a special contract, without being advertised. The city refused to pay Brown's bill, which was excessive. The Legislature was resorted to, and an act was passed in 1881 (chap. 648), under which commissioners were appointed to determine on the remuneration to be given to the contractor, and they decided upon $109,799.87. In the meantime the act was passed laying out the Eastern Boulevard, which put certain streets under a special law. Acting on the assumption that the avenue could be finished by day's work, the Department of Public Works spent $73,268.81 in that way, without advertising, and subsequently doubting the legality of this, Thos. E. Crimmins was employed, under contract, to finish the work for $23,523.62. This was the only contract about the legality of which there was no doubt. On May 8, 1884, and on March 7, 1885, sworn statements were made by the Comptroller, Corporation Counsel, Commissioner of Public Works, the Board of Assessors and the acting Mayor, in compliance with laws passed, showing that the expense "justly and actually incurred" by the city was $243,407.26, and against this assessment, which was confirmed on July 20, 1885, the property-owners appealed making the petition of John Cullen against it a test case. Judge O'Brien's decision is expected to be appealed against by the city. Should it be confirmed by the upper Court, the property-owners affected will only have to pay $176,072.17; the balance will have to be paid by the city at large. An official in the Corporation Counsel's office said: "The assessment was undoubtedly excessive, and Judge O'Brien's decision is an equitable one,"

New Members.

Richard L. Williams has been proposed as a stock member, and Frank L. Fisher as an annual member, of the Real Estate Exchange.

Real Estate Department.

This has been a comparatively dull week, both in the brokers' offices and on 'Change. The reports from the former show that the Centennial celebration seems to have cut in two the business of the spring, and that the market does not as yet seem to have revived from the effects. On the Exchange the number of parcels offered have been fairly numerous, but on the whole unimportant. Not for many a month have the auctioneers met with such discouragement at the stands as they have during the current week. A good part of the properties put up were under foreclosure, and a great many offered were withdrawn or bid in by parties interested. In many instances it was difficult for the auctioneer to obtain bids, and the feeling on 'Change is that property is not selling at auction so well as it did earlier in the season, neither as readily nor at as satisfactory figures. Next week a number of improved and vacant properties are announced to be offered.

The week opened with an inactive market. On Monday the parcels announced to be offered for sale were neither numerous nor important. Four tenements at Nos. 1518 to 1524 10th avenue were knocked down to the plaintiff, the corner at $28,000 and the three inside houses at from $19,000 to $19,600 each. Randolph Guggenheimer surprised some bystanders by purchasing a house and lot at No. 463 Hancock street, Brooklyn, for $7,600. It is a sign of the times, in favor of Brooklyn, that so shrewd and intelligent an operator should purchase, for his own account, a house in one of Brooklyn's favored residence locations. Several properties were withdrawn, and a leasehold dwelling at No. 407 East 56th street was knocked down to Stephen Van Nostrand at $4,100.

On Tuesday the offerings were fairly numerous, but they met, in some cases, with poor success. The best sales of the day were considered to be those of the Corporation lots, two of which, on 99th street, were purchased by Newman Cowen, the building loan operator, at $7,000 each; and four on 102d street at $6,750 and $6,500 each, two being taken at the former price by Jacob M. Newman and two at the latter figure by John C. Barth. The lots are all west of 9th avenue. The lots on 101st street were bid in for the city, two on the south side at $12,600 and two on the north side at $12,000. Deputy-Comptroller Storrs said yesterday that the upset price for the four lots was $6,750 each, and the bids were therefore $2,400 short of the $27,000 wanted by the city. The lots were all put up on May 15, 1888, but not a bid was forthcoming, and they were withdrawn. The upset prices then ranged from $6,000 to $6,500 each. In May, 1887, lots on the same streets sold at from $6,000 to $7,000 each. There is considerable rock on the property, and the old Aqueduct runs through all the lots. The prices paid by Messrs. Cowan and Barth, considering the tearing down and excavation to be done before the lots can be improved, are felt to be somewhat high. The 37-foot residence at No. 333 West 22d street was started at a bid of $20,000 and was knocked down at $27,100 to Douglas Taylor. Newman Cowen and L. Z. Bach made the principal purchase of the day, paying $40,500 for the five-story building at Nos. 134 and 136 Canal street, known as "Pythagoras Hall," the plot being 45.8x75x irregular. The property is only 75 feet east of the Bowery, and the price paid was considered low. A search of The Record and Guide shows that the property was transferred on February 18, 1869, by the Pythagoras Association to Jacob Davidson for $40,000. It was subsequently conveyed, on December 1, 1886, to the New York Protective Association for $35,000 cash, subject to a mortgage of $35,000 at 5 per cent., making the total consideration $70,000. The association held it for District Assembly No. 49 Knights of Labor, so a reporter of The Record and Guide was informed at the office of the plaintiff's attorney, J. W. C. Leveridge, and the Knights therefore lose $29,500 by the sale, exclusive of judgment expenses. The total amount due was $36,974, the mortgage being held by the East River Savings Bank. Wm. Kennelly, the auctioneer, said to a reporter of this paper that he had offered $45,000 to Attorney Leveridge for the property before the sale, which had been refused. He subsequently asked the parties who purchased at the auction if they would accept that figure, and they also declined. It is said that the consideration of $70,000 was not a bona fide value of the property. Seven five-story flats on the southwest corner of 8th avenue and 116th street became the property of the plaintiff, under a foreclosure suit, at $18,000 each, with the exception of the corner, which brought $28,000. A five-story tenement with two stores, at No. 2493 3d avenue, near 136th street, which the auctioneer said rented for $3,000, was knocked down to James Jones at $21,000, but not sold. Several 8th avenue properties, near 114th street, were withdrawn, and a number of parcels on Bleecker and Grove streets were adjourned. Among the sales of the day was that of the residence of the late R. M. Masterton, with sixteen acres of land, at Bronxville, Westchester County, which was secured by Hugh N. Camp at $33,250. Two lots on 75th street, east of Avenue A, with a mortgage of $6,000 on them, did not bring out a bid, and the auctioneer finally announced that they would be offered at private sale at $8,000 for the two.

The sales bulletined for Wednesday were nearly as numerous as those for the day previous, but they were almost entirely composed of vacant lots in the 23d and 24th Wards, Woodlawn Heights and Unionport. Howard Badgley bought three lots on Vermilyea avenue, near Emerson street, at from $515 to $535 each. The principal sale of the day was that of Nos. 2000 and 2002 3d avenue, on the southwest corner of 110th street, with Nos. 176 and 178 East 110th street, adjoining. It comprises four four-story brick tenements, the corner being 20.11x57.5, the inside avenue house being 20.1x50.2, and the street houses 17.8x20.4 and 20.0½x41 respec tively. They were knocked down to F. H. Smith at $66,000. Another sale was that of the northeast corner of Madison and James streets, comprising four irregular lots with full frontage. They were knocked down to F. S. Hedden for $35,800. No. 184 Water street was also knocked down to the same party at $26,000. A number of properties were withdrawn, while others were adjourned.

On Thursday the attendance on 'Change was small, and the parcels offered were few. Six houses put up under foreclosure, which have been advertised more than once, and situated on 94th street, east of 9th avenue, were knocked down at $22,500 each to the plaintiff, not a single bid from an outsider being forthcoming, though the auctioneer did his level best to provoke one. Henry Weiler bought No. 158 1st avenue, near 10th street, a four-story tenement, 23.1x90, for $15,850; a lot, about 25x65, at No. 175 Allen street, near Stanton, with a three-story brick front tenement on it, was purchased by C. Wolinsky for $12,000; two five-story tenements on Avenue A, south of 74th street, 25x70x100 each, were bought by John Niemann for $17,500 each. Five lots were secured by Newman Cowen, at $8,250 to $8,925 each, on 96th street, commencing 150 feet east of 5th avenue. These lots were held at very much higher figures a few years ago.

There were no sales of importance yesterday. The Emigrant Savings Bank secured two houses on 137th street, near Willis avenue, at $14,000, and the sales of six 10th avenue tenements and a vacant plot on West 98th street were adjourned.

On Monday, May 13th, Richard V. Harnett & Co. will offer the three story house at No. 339 West 46th street, decorated partly in cabinet trim, and including gas fixtures, and three vacant lots on 81st street, between 10th avenue and the Boulevard.

On Tuesday, May 14th, Richard V. Harnett & Co. will sell the two tenements and lot at No. 529 West 32d street, and, by order of the executors of the late Robert J. Douglass, the dwelling and stable, with the surrounding grounds, at No. 260 Warburton avenue, Yonkers. On Wednesday, May 15th, Mr. Harnett will offer ten lots on Kingsbridge road, Vermilyea avenue and Isham street, including two corners, and on Thursday, May 16th, the four-story and basement residence at No. 13 East 38th street, near 5th avenue, one of the finest sites on Murray Hill, by order of the estate of the late Rosena Pease.

On Wednesday, May 29, at one o'clock P. M., Smyth & Ryan will sell, in two parcels, by order of the Supreme Court, in partition, 77⅛ acres of land at Throgg's Neck, Westchester County, with about one-half mile water-front on East River or Long Island Sound. This property is known as the Francis A. Morris Place, and it includes a mansion, outbuildings and numerous fruit and shade trees. The land is beautifully situated on a high bluff overlooking the Sound, with a sandy beach, and facilities for all aquatic pleasures, while in the vicinity are to be found the houses of some very substantial people in New York. The property is well adapted for a gentleman's country seat.

On Tuesday, June 4th, Richard V. Harnett & Co. will sell, to close the estate of the late Gordon W. Burnham, by order of the executors, Nos. 124, 126 and 128 5th avenue, and No. 2 West 18th street. These lots, well adapted for a large business building, form a plot with 92 feet frontage on 5th avenue x 175 feet deep. Seventy per cent. may remain on mortgage for a term of years.

E. A. Cruikshank & Co. announce that they have thirty-two gilt-edged lots for sale during the next two weeks, situated on 10th avenue, 149th and 150th streets, and approachable by the cable and elevated roads. The terms are accommodating and the prices fair.

H. C. Van Dyke and several other New York real estate men have visited Bayonne and entered into negotiations for the purchase of 1,000 building lots on the Newark Bay side of the 3d Ward, near Currie's Woods. The proposition is to sell these lots on easy terms to parties who are desirous of owning their own homes, then at a slight cost monthly the buyers can erect houses. The building boom has taken root and will grow. Next winter will witness Bayonne a larger city by several thousand inhabitants. A propositlon is now being canvassed to organize the Bayonne Building and Improvement Association for the purpose of improving and extending the city.

HIGHLAND FALLS, N. Y.—Ernest Greene, of New York, is the architect for a two-and-a-half-story dwelling, size 45x55, that is to be erected at this place for C. F. Roe. The first story will be of stone and the rest of the building shingles, with a shingle roof. It will cost about $14,000.

JERSEY CITY.—The renting season just closed has been quite active. In the office of Frank A. Stevens it was found that owners had been stiffer this year and had generally obtained their figures. The feature of the market this spring has been an unusually large inquiry on the part of working people from New York and Brooklyn for small cottages renting from $20 to $45 per month. The motives which seem to have brought them over here are the nearness of Jersey City to the business sections of New York and the impossibility of obtaining homes in either of the two larger cities at rents suitable to their means.

F. G. Wolbert says that more property has changed hands this spring than for a number of years. He has held several auction sales recently and the parcels have all brought every cent they were worth, the prices obtained being very satisfactory. Vacant lots are advancing in value; improved property is well held, and rents have been stiff. A number of people have been over from New York, Long Island and other places for houses renting between $30 and $50. At the auction sales most of the buyers purchased to build.

The competition for the new building of the Provident Savings Institution has resulted in the selection of Geo. W. La Baw as architect. The building will only be two stories and basement high. It will be on the southeast corner of York and Washington streets, and will be about 92x50 in size. The front will be of Indiana limestone and brick, and steam heat, electrical fixtures, etc., will be provided. The cost is estimated at $50,000.

H. Kreitler has been selected as the architect for the Hudson County Bank. It will be almost similar in size and construction to the above building, which it will adjoin.

Geo. W. La Baw is preparing plans for two three-story and basement brick and stone front houses, 25x42 each, to be built by John D. Carscallen on the corner of Jersey avenue and 8th street, at a cost of $10,000.

Dittmar, cost, $4,800; one on Halliday street, near Bramhall avenue, for R. W. Phillips, cost $4,000; two four-story brick tenements, 25x78 each, corner of Jersey avenue and Mercer street, for Henry E. Niesy, cost $16,000; and one ditto at 201 15th street, 25x40, for Michael Sullivan, cost $8,000.

MIDDLETON, N. Y.—E. G. W. Dietrich has completed plans for a chapel to be erected for the State Insane Asylum. It will be in the Gothic style, 50x120 feet, built of blue stone and brick, with tower and spire. The roof will be constructed of iron and the interior finishing will be in whitewood. The body of the church will have a seating capacity of 500, and the gallery of 150. The organ will be placed over the pulpit. It will be lit with gas and heated by steam. A gymnasium, running track, ten-pin alley, ball pitching alley and apparatus, billiard, boxing, and lavatory rooms will be placed in the basement. The cost will be about $18,000.

NEWARK.—The activity in building in this city is not quite as noticeable as it was during the early months of the year, but it is still marked. During April there was a falling off in the number of plans filed as against the same month last year; but the number, 135, was above the average for the same month during the last three or four years. During the first four months the number of buildings projected were 480; in the same time last year they amounted only to 372. The new buildings are almost all small, erected singly by the person who intends to occupy them. Their cost cannot average much over two thousand dollars. A list of the plans filed since the 1st of May is given below. It will be seen that they are almost all two or three-story frame dwellings, and in only two cases are the houses erected in rows instead of singly:

Special Notices.

S. Hamilton, Jr., of Croton Landing, is the maker of the excellent Croton brick. These brick are made from mud tempered in circular pits, are uniform in composition, and hence are particularly suitable for heavy work where quality is an object. Well laid, they make surprisingly good face work. Several large mills in Fall River have been faced with them and the chimney stacks built of them. At the present time Mr. Hamilton is outdoing himself by furnishing the bricks for a chimney to be built 345 feet high. The sole agent for New York and the vicinity is P. W. Nickerson, at the foot of West 30th street.

By his prompt satisfaction of the wishes of his customers and his willingness to take trouble in their behalf John J. Cody has built up a large and increasing business. His spacious offices are kept open every evening until 9 o'clock so that down-town business men wishing to do business with him may have abundant opportunities to consult with him without inconvenience to themselves. BUILDING MATERIAL MARKET.

BRICKS.—While the market for Common Hards has undergone a decided and important change since our last, the situation is not one requiring any very extended information. In brief, it is simply a clear case of supply far exceeding present demand, and the consequent natural downward turn in value, which has finally amounted to about $1 per M without at the moment greatly inspiring buyers with the idea that there is necessity for any special hurry about investment. The heavy accumulation that bunched up at the end of last week has been followed by still further very free arrivals until receivers commenced to ask where in the world all the brick came from, the proportion of new being very small, and making it apparent that manufacturers have been carrying a great deal more stock than was generally supposed and are now trying to realize all at once. From the miscellaneous character of many of the cargoes it is evident that the yards have been cleaned up and last shipments made, but there was also some very good stock to be found, and any reasonable selection could be made without much difficulty. At the close some slight differences of opinion prevail regarding exact top rate, but on a basis of what stock would actually command a quotation at $7.00 per M seems to be quite full enough. It may be noted, however, that where it was not absolutely necessary to discharge cargo in order to send vessel or barge up the river there is an inclination to hold a few days, for while the outlet failed to afford relief rapidly some of the large dealers at the decline have proven better customers, and there is a hope that they may gradually absorb the surplus and give the market a steadier and possibly slightly higher position before new stock can be felt to any extent. As yet consumption has the appearance of being a little backward, but that may be accounted for by the large amount completed earlier than usual, and the delay in getting ground ready on some of the most important jobs, where possession was only reached on 1st inst., and old structures are in the course of demolition. Sales secure a very fair average degree of attention, but have also weakened in tone, with $3.50 about top, and some ordinary understood to have sold down to $2.75 per M.

LATH.—A larger amount of stock has come to hand and serve to demonstrate the strength of the market. Buyers, to be sure, were not so anxious as to indulge in useless and stimulating competition, but have taken the supply as fast as it came to hand, with an occasional investment made before arrival, and paid full former rates promptly, leaving the quotation still at $2.25 per M. The quantity of stock now afloat is not extensive and receivers are indifferent about offering. Of round wood stock receivers say they think the last is forward, except possibly now and then an odd parcel.

LIME.—The offering has been fuller since our last, and most of it sold, but the demand is by no means active or anxious, and receivers are just as well satisfied that they had no larger quantity to take care of. On prices the former line of quotations is retained, but there is a whisper floating around that some of last year's tricks are being repeated and that in a quiet way buyers secure small advantage. At primary points the production is said to be proceeding slowly, with shipments in this direction temporarily stopped, but manufacturers generally doing a first-rate business with localities along the Eastern coast.

LUMBER.—As business gradually comes back into normal condition the showings are favorable and the reports generally in more or less cheerful form Some operators say they are not adding many new orders to their list at the moment, but are delivering pretty freely on contracts, and calculate that before they "catch up" fresh custom will be in waiting. There is certainly an inclination to preserve the same hopeful view of the chances for distribution as shown at the commencement of the year, and that no positive boom exists is one of the best features of the situation. From such conditions the reflection upon the wholesale market is naturally beneficial and advices are as a rule cheerful. Since the opening of the canals the offerings from interior points have been rather more plentiful, yet made with a measure of caution that prevents any specially adverse influence, and as a whole the lumber trade is doing well.

Eastern Spruce in some instances is complained of as too costly this season, and occasionally some very good customers say they will have to seek substitutes. The defection in demand, however, has not yet proven sufficient to leave any desirable offering unsold, and furthermore it is claimed that many mills already have a sufficient number of orders on the books to make it reasonably certain that they can turn out no surplus calculated to cause annoyance. Receivers, too, adhere to the claim of a scant log supply and meet the claim in regard to cost with the assertion than it is no higher than a couple of seasons ago, with the additional advantage now of fuller ruling rates on yellow pine and other competing woods and decidedly better controlled offerings.

Piling has not an entirely even market, and matters seem to depend somewhat upon receivers. The "regulars" make more or less success in handling stocks, without greatly disturbing the line of value, but odd cargoes now and then come in to those who do not make a practice of handling them, and shrewd buyers manage to turn that to advantage. On the general range about former figures are correct.

Hemlock, it is said, and probably with some truth, does not find a very extensive local demand at the moment, but when the entire story is told, that condition may be traced to the fact that city buyers invested early and have stock still coming to them on contract. Manufacturers, too, are entirely free from any cause for apprehension, as the accumulation they have on hand is small, most of it thoroughly cured, and there is the best prospect for a good country trade. Some business is still claimed at $11.50 for joist and $12.00 more generally quoted.

White Pine operators do not, as a rule, appear to be indulging in many complaints. Export grades have sold well all the season, box boards are scarce enough to find buyers waiting for pretty much all desirable lots about as fast as offered, and other qualities have a demand that is satisfactory now with good promise of further increase. There is also a very fair trade doing in first-hand offerings, for while the selling side is represented somewhat more fully and there is a generally sharp look out for custom the competition does not prove as acute as had been predicted, and dealers who are not contracting with regular mills now and then give some very good orders.

Yellow Pine appears to be about steady and finding very good sale. For some little time past we have heard intimations of an easier undertone and even reduced cost, but as near as the matter can be sifted it looks as though some operators working on their own hook had entertained ideas beyond the really existing limit of the market, and upon being compelled to come down to regular rates called it a decline. The two organizations of shippers and dealers respectively adhere to the effort to keep the market about steady, and if successful in that are satisfied Large bills are exceptional, but the number of small orders sufficient to make a very good average business.

Carolina Pine changes in no essential particular, Timber has not as yet met with the demand hoped for, but for other stock the position is cheerful and promising, and few complaints come to the surface. Buyers insist upon having good quality, well dried and carefully dressed, and when assured of obtaining a supply of that character are not backward in placing their orders. The local call is fair and out-of-town orders very satisfactory.

Hardwoods are in some cases said to be doing a little better, but it is more common to hear complaints over the condition of the local trade in a wholesale way. One reason for the difficulty experienced in placing large bills of goods seems to exist in the fact that during the past two or three years dealers and manufacturers have been doing a little drumming themselves, and by visiting around in the interior secured an acquaintance with manufacturers, etc., to whom they can now send orders direct. On pretty much all domestic woods prices are steady, but especially so for desirable poplar, on which even higher rates are predicted. There is quite a hopeful view taken for mahogany, as in addition to the great favor in which the wood is held, local manufacturers are sparing no pains to afford a desirable and attractive offering.

The exports of lumber, exclusive of hardwoods from the port of New York during the month of April were as follows:

GENERAL LUMBER NOTES.

THE WEST.

The Timberman as follows:

The exceeding drought of two months duration in Michigan, during the spring months, when rains are usually plenteous, has not only hung up the log drives, but has so dried up everything in the woods that forest fires are threatened and dreaded. If the fire fiend, which has already shown itself in many places, should get a good hold, there is no estimating the destruction of timber and other property which would ensue. Hundreds of men have already been engaged in fighting fire and endeavoring to save property by staying the progress of the devouring element, Forest fires have broken out in some of the Huron shore, Michigan territory, in Bay, Gladwin, Crawford and many counties along the line of the Michigan Central and Flint & Pere Marquette railroads, and unless rains should put in an appearance, great destruction will undoubtedly ensue.

The day for the erection of large sawmills in Michigan has departed, for the reason that the demand for them has ceased to exist, and it is conceded that hereafter when one of these mammoth industrial establishments is destroyed by fire or otherwise its existence is a thing of the past, and will remain so, except, perhaps, in a very few instances, where the owner is also the possessor of a considerable tract of standing timber, and desires to convert it into lumber under his own supervision. But under present conditions it is conceded that there is no particular advantage even in that direction, for the reason that the mills at present in existence are most of them supplied with the very best machinery and governed by modern methods, making it possible to contract sawing at rates which precludes the necessity of pine land possessors being also interested in the ownership of a sawmill.

On the Chicago wholesale market:

Through all this prices have remained about the same. The commission men are doing more work than usual and are pretty well satisfied with the result of their extra efforts. More of the wholesalers are buying this week than last. One Twenty-second street firm secured four loads in one day that would aggregate 3,000,000 feet. Still the bulk of sales is to those firms doing a city business. Short dry piece stuff in small cargoes sold at $10.25—not more than that—and when offered in large blocks, it may have brought a shade less, but the price quoted gives a fair idea of the market value. A cargo of short hemlock piece stuff about half dry hung on the market for two or three days was offered at $8, but was still there at noon Thursday. This hemlock was not up to grade, however, and this fact, however magnified by the buyers as giving an idea of hemlock piece stuff values does not indicate the worth of this stock as a whole. Timbers 20 to 40 feet in length 6x6, 8x8 and 10x10 sold at $11. Several large lower lakers came in during the week and were disposed of. Extra shingles sold at $2.35 to $2.40, mostly at the latter figure. Standards brought $2.10 to $2.20. A mixed lot of 800,000 lath, white pine and Norway, sold for $1.85, but this was considered a remarkably good sale by the commission men to whom they were consigned.

There is a greater trade in walnut logs than has been known for some time in this market. Logs are being shipped in here from all parts of the country, and mills have been built, and are now in operation, making a high grade of lumber. As the rules of inspection and demand of consumers have become more and more exacting, the owners of walnut logs in out-of-the-way country places have sought to dispose of their logs in preference to cutting them into lumber. This idea has been fostered by several wholesalers and mills for doing this sort of custom work are found to be quite a profitable investment. The wholesalers do not seem to let the sluggish demand for walnut trouble them in the least, but are content to let the stock accumulate against the time when the export trade will consume the good and local demand find a place to put the common stuff.

The Northwestern Lumberman as follows:

During the week ended April 30, total receipts in Chicago amounted to 44,113,000 feet of lumber, as compared to 9,356,000 feet in a corresponding week last year. Up to April 30, receipts had amounted this year to a total of 263,475,000 feet, as compared to 145,337,000 last year or nearly double the amount this year, as compared to that for a corresponding period of 1888 Of course the heavy receipts thus far this season have been largely owing to the early opening of navigation. Still, if there were but a weak demand for lumber there would scarcely be such an enormous increase of receipts. The fact is that the local trade is absorbing a preponderating portion of the lumber arriving, but the shipping dealers do not take this into full account. For the past two or three years the lumber trade that has been induced by building in such cities as Chicago, Minneapolis, St. Paul, Omaha, Kansas City, Denver, Sioux City, Council Bluffs and numerous others of considerable magnitude, have absorbed an increasing amount of stock; but in estimating the size of demand this requirement is mostly left out of view by the wholesale dealers, who count on a car load shipping demand as a criterion of trade.

The talk this spring about lack of demand comes mainly from the jobbers, and is not wholly well based. Much of it is inspired by the usual desire to bear the market at the spring start. Some of it is prompted by the disappointment of the large shippers because they were not able to unload their stocks in March and April to the extent that they desired. There is a general inclination on the part of jobbers to insist on lower prices, on the ground that profits cannot be made, under existing restrictions of trade and prevalent competition, unless bulk stock can be bought cheaper.

By the cargo prices have not greatly varied from those mentioned last week. Piece stuff sells for $10.25 in the majority of instances. Slim jims go in for about the same figure, there being a tendency to make less distinction in favor of long stuff than in former years. The concession on dimension this year consists in putting in long pieces with the short at equivalent prices. Long 2x12, 3x12, 2x14 and 3x14 sells at better prices, ranging from $12 to $13.

Inch lumber, unless it contains something very desirable in width and quality, is rather slow selling. Prices have not materially changed, though it is likely that the commission man gives buyers advantages when it is necessary to a transfer. Flat common is priced at $11.50 to $12.50, and the lots with pickings range upward in price according to the list as it appears below. Norway strips sell for $12.50 and Norway edge boards at $10.50.

GREAT BRITAIN.

The Timber Trades Journal as follows:

LONDON.

American Black Walnut.—Lately there have been no important arrivals of logs, but lumber has again come over very freely, and in this we have reason to believe a good amount of business has been done by private contract. We notice several large parcels of squares are now landing, generally of good quality and useful sizes.

American Whitewood.—A large and increasing trade is reported to be doing in this, though cut stuff at all times sells the more freely. A short time since an unusually prime parcel of 3-inch planks, landed in the West India docks, came under our notice, and we were not at all surprised to learn that these goods were at once placed. We feel sure that shippers on the other side will do well to give more attention to this class of stock.

American Oak.—The consumption of lumber appears to have fallen off of late, and as there have been numerous arrivals, the stock at the docks has accumulated, and is how somewhat heavy. Logs are not much inquired for, and supplies should be moderate and the logs better manufactured than some we have lately seen.

LIVERPOOL.

From the import list it will be seen that from the United States, by the various liners, we have had a fair quantity of hardwoods, such as hickory, walnut-wood, &c., to hand during the week, and as most of this has been consigned to brokers, it has changed hands from the ship's side direct in most cases.

METALS.—COPPER—Ingot has sold to a considerable extent, it is believed, direct from the mining companies into consumers' hands, but both the quantity and price are kept very secret, and the market placed in a nominal condition. From the figures named on some of the outside lots, however, and the general prevailing tone regarding the metal, the advantages favor buyers, and about 14@14½c for Lake now seems to be all that can be depended upon. Manufactured Copper has moderately active demand, and values are said to be steady all around, though some cutting is occasionally intimated. We quote as follows: Sheets, not above 30x72 in., 16 oz. and over, 25c.; do, 14 to 16 oz, 26c.; do, 12 to 14 oz, 27c.; do, 10 to 12 oz, 28c.; do, 8 to 10 oz, 38c.; do, under 8 oz, 28@33c. Sheets longer than 72 inches add 1c. for 12@14 oz, 2c. for 10@12 oz, and 3c. for 8@10 oz. Sheets, not above 36x96 in., 16 oz and over, 25c.; do, 16 to 32 oz, 25c.; do, 14 to 16 oz, 27c.; do, 12 to 14 oz, 29c.; do, 10 to 12 oz, 33c.; do, 8 to 10 oz, 36c. Sheets longer than 96 inches add 1c. for under 16 oz; and 2c. for 8 to 10 oz. Sheets, not above 48x96, 32 to 64 oz, 25c.; do, 16 to 32 oz, 28c.; do, 14 to 16 oz, 30c.; do, 12 to 14 oz, 32c. Sheets 60x96 and over, 25@30c., for 32 to 64 oz. and over, and 31c. for 16 to 32 oz. All bath tub sheets, per lb., 16 oz, 28c.; 4 oz, 30c.; 12 oz, 32c.; and 10 oz, 35c. Bolt copper, ⅝ inch diameter and over, 25c. Circles, 60 diameter and less, 3c. above price of sheets of same thickness; circles, 60 to 96 do do, 5c. do; circles, 96 do and over, 6c. do. Segment and pattern sheets, 3c. above price of sheets required to cut them from. Cold or hard rolled copper, 1@2c. per lb. above the foregoing prices. Copper bottom, 28@31c. per lb. IRON—Scotch Pig has a small jobbing sort of trade, and the market reveals no feature of special significance at the moment. About former rates ruling and fairly steady. We quote at $19@21.50, according to brand, delivery, etc. American Pig continues dull, and on a great deal of the stock the tone is unquestionably weak. Certain of the leading and first-class brands are delivering on a basis of about former top rates, but there is a great deal of stock of more or less irregular character offering upon which considerable concessions are openly named and would probably be made greater on secret negotiations were the chance to place large invoices afforded. At the close one of the leading companies has suddenly dropped cost $1.50 per ton and this leaves matters uncertain as the full effect has not yet been tried. We quote nominally at $16.50@17.00 per ton for No. 1 X foundary; $15.50@15.75 for No. 2 X do.; and $14.00@$15.00 for Gray Forge. Old material has only a light unsatisfactory demand. Consumers are said to be buying quite a number of old rails from the railway companies direct, but make no effort to reach dealers' stocks, and scrap is also under more or less neglect. We quote at about $22.00@23.00 for old rails; $19.50@20.00 for No. 1 wrought scrap; $14.50@16.00 for cast scrap, and $18.00@18.50 for car wheels. Steel rails have been a little demoralized for some time by the war between the manufacturing companies and the advantage all went to the buyer. Exactly how deep the cut ran, however, is very uncertain, and there is still an absence of what may be called a regular market rate. We quote nominally at $25.00@27.00 per ton at the mills and $27.00@28.00 do., at tide water. Manufactured Iron meets with only the average demand and there is not much of a market for any description. Supplies are fair, and while former rates are named more or less cutting probably occurs. We quote Common Merchant Bar, ordinary sizes, at 1.90@2.10c. from store, and refined at 2.00@2.30c.; Rods, round and square 2.10@2.20c.; Bands, 2.20@2.30c.; Norway Nail Rods, 4@5c., and domestic sheet on the basis of 2.75@2.80c. for common Nos. 10@16. Other descriptions at corresponding prices, with 1-10c. less on large lots from cars. LEAD—Domestic Pig has been somewhat irregular, but on the whole inclined to be uppish in price, as a bull feeling has gained ground among speculators, and some investment is taking place. We quote at 3.63¾@3.95c., as to quality. The manufactures of lead are quoted: Bar, 5c.; pipe, 6c.; sheet, 6¾c., less the usual discount to the trade; and tin-lined pipe, 15c.; block tin pipe, 45c., on same terms. TIN—Pig has been rather slow under foreign advices of an adverse character and easier in price, closing somewhat unsettled. We quote at about 20@20½c. for round lots and 20⅛@20¼c. for jobbing parcels. Tin plates have also sold slowly and inclined in buyers' favor, with some ideas that on large orders holders would make quite a liberal allowance. We quote prices as follows: I. C. Charcoal, ½ cross assortment, Melyn grades, $5.45@5.50, each additional X add $1.50; I. C. Charcoal, ½ cross assortment, Allaway grade, $4.75@4.80, each additional X add $1; Charcoal terne, M. F. grade, 14x20, $6.60@6.65; M. F. grade, 20x28, $13.20@13.25; Worcester, 14x20, $4.60@4.62½; Worcester, 20x28, $9.25@9.30; Deane grade, 14x20, $4.20@4.30; Dean grade, 20x28, $8.37½@8.50. Allaway grade, 14x20, $4.05@4.07½; Allaway grade, 20x28, $8.10@8.20; I. C. Coke, B. V. grade, $4.30@4.32½; J. B. grade, 14x20, $4.35@4.37½; I. C. Bessemer steel, squares, $4.70 basis; I. C. Siemens steel, squares, $4.75. Spelter sells to consumers fairly as wanted, with generally ample offerings and easy rates. We quote at 4½@4.80c., according to quality and quantity.

NAILS.—Business has been irregular and on some outlets disappointing, with a tame expression now and then indulged in. Supplies, however, seem to be kept well enough in hand to prevent a free offering, and that insures reasonably steady rates all around. We quote at $1.80@1.85 for car lots, and $1.90@2.00 per keg for parcels from store.

PAINTS AND OILS.—A pretty healthy sort of market is extant according to most reports, and operators feel cheerful over the situation. The demand is conducted with a caution that prevents stocking up beyond early wants, but consumption is full enough to keep a good average volume of all standard grades in motion, and maintain steady rates. Linseed Oil sells fairly well, and is steady at 57@58c. for Western, and 59@59½c. for City. Spirits Turpentine has sold only in a jobbing way, and parcels are lower, closing somewhat unsettled at 40@41c. per gallon, according to quantity, delivery, etc.

TAR AND PITCH.—The movement of supplies not very free, but about up to the average on trade calls, and with market very well in hand prices rule steadily. We quote Pitch $1.35@1.50 per bbl.; Tar at $2.10@2.20, according to quantity, quality and delivery.

* Editor RECORD AND GUIDE:

The lien filed by J. Smith is unjust. I do not owe him $175, and what little is due him I have been stopped from paying him by his creditors. I am preparing papers to bond the lien. A. G. DEARING.

† Editor RECORD AND GUIDE:

This lien was filed by mistake, and will be withdrawn. J. H. HANKINSON, Treasurer.

Editor RECORD AND GUIDE:

In relation to a lien filed on April 27, 1889, by one Daniel T. Atwood against me on two houses north side of 115th street, 150 feet east of 5th avenue, I wish to say that I have employed the said Atwood in no capacity whatever, that he has furnished no materials and rendered no services whatever. He has presented no claims, and, further, I do not owe him anything. If I did, I am amply able to pay him, and he knows it.

VOL. XLIII. MAY 18, 1889. No. 1,105

In this number of THE RECORD AND GUIDE we pay our last tribute to the memory of David G. Croly. As announced last week we publish with this a memorial supplement which our readers should see is in every copy. It contains the testimony of old friends and associates—many of them now leaders in the literary life of this city—as to the mental and moral strength of him who worked so well and so untiringly for this journal and its readers until the hour of his death. No explanation is necessary for our thus turning aside a little from the every-day topics of a busy world to enter the sanctuary of deeper thoughts and purer emotions.

The public desire for a permanent memorial of the Centennial celebration certainly should and undoubtedly will be gratified. We have already pointed out that it should occupy a much more conspicuous site than that at the foot of 5th avenue, which is but a mere by-way with reference to the main highways of traffic. It is because the arch now erected at that place is so out of the way that, in order to see it, most people must go to see it, that the proposition to reproduce this arch in marble has gained currency. The arch is not at all suitable for such a purpose, and those persons who are competent judges and who have been induced by the proposition to inspect the arch must be considerably surprised that anybody should have thought it suitable. It is doubtful whether the arch would stand if it were built in marble. It is certain that it would look doubtful, and this appearance of weakness is fatal to the eligibility of the design for a monument. In all the monumental arches of the world, from the arch of Titus down, each pier is very nearly as wide as the arch itself. In the wooden arch of Washington square the piers and consequently the haunches are so painfully thin as to suggest their inadequacy to sustain the lateral thrust of the arch. In other words, this arch is without abutment, and requires a tie-beam to assure the eye of its stability. As it is not to be supposed that we mean to erect a monumental arch that needs to be supplemented by such an expedient it is evident that the design will need to be so entirely recast to adapt it to execution in masonry that the existing arch cannot be taken even as a suggestion. Of course this is not the designer's fault. That a construction of clapboards could not be built in stone is no more an objection to it for its own purpose than that a pièce montée executed in sugar candy for a dinner table should not be so built. But, though the designer cannot be blamed for this, it is impossible to regard without wonder the conduct of the enthusiastic persons who insist that his work should be literally reproduced in masonry.

There have been occasional protests from correspondents in the papers during the past week against the situation decided upon for the Stanford White memorial arch. A writer in the Evening Post thinks as we do, that it would be most effectively and conspicuously placed on Madison square, while another in the Times is rather of the opinion that the best situation would be on the square at the junction of the 59th street entrance to the Park and 5th avenue. As yet, however, the papers themselves have not taken up the matter, and as the committee seem to be pushing their preparations in a pretty lively way, it is not probable that these protests, scattered as they are, will induce them to alter their plans. But however oblivious the managers and the press are to the criticism, it will certainly be a sad mistake to bury a monument intended to commemorate a national event in a part of the city which is but little frequented, and which will tend to become less and less central all the time. It is very likely that the wholesale trade will, before many years are out, envelop that entire district, so that the arch would be as much out of place there as it would be in Wall street, or as the truss manufactory of Matthew Arnold fame was for obverse reasons out of place in Trafalgar square. It would be extremely difficult to find a situation in New York which is entirely unobjectionable. We have no open space such as the Champs Elysées in Paris, which is fed by a number of broad and beautiful avenues, and to which the citizens naturally flock on a holiday. But we have squares which are far more central and hence far more appropriate than Washington square. It is in one of them that the arch should be placed.

If a grand passenger and freight station were located in this city, of ten or more acres, about the centre, at the intersection of Houston and Macdougal streets, where the land has not yet been occupied by modern buildings; if from that station a bridge, similar to the Brooklyn Bridge, extended over the Hudson River; and if from this station over this bridge trains were constantly passing to and fro, and at its western outlet in Jersey City, a mile or two west of the river, diverging to the tracks of every New Jersey railroad, is it not obvious that it would be of great advantage to the city? more than the Brooklyn Bridge, for that connects different parts of one city, while the Hudson River bridge would connect the metropolis with the whole continent. Time and comfort would be saved for every one who seeks and returns from their homes in New Jersey, night and morning by such a bridge. The freight and travel from the whole West, which now is broken and stops across the river, would come directly to the centre of the city, with all the incidental business which follows it and its distribution. Eastern New Jersey has grown great in wealth and population, for twenty years past, by attracting the natural increase of New York. Our elevated roads, by making our own territory accessible, began and this bridge would complete our friendly reprisal. What can be the objections to such a bridge? Capitalists are ready, and engineers are eager to build it. Those most strongly urged are that it will obstruct the navigation of the river by one or two piers; but is not this obsolete? Travelers on the river have often noticed that now and then, for a little while, a big steamer hangs from her anchor in midstream; but it does not interrupt navigation very seriously. A pier would not cover more than one-half or one-quarter of the water area occupied by such a steamer, and would not present so great an obstruction. At night and in fogs a pier, by its lights and signals, could be made greatly to aid the ferry pilot and the voyager. Such obstacles to bridges have often disappeared after a bridge has been built, as in the case of the Brooklyn Bridge and the one at Poughkeepsie. This might be the case in the Hudson River. The objection looks disproportioned.

The decision of the trustees to increase the capacity of the Brooklyn Bridge is another indication to this city of the stupendous blunder it is making in the rapid transit matter. No one would have believed five years ago that in so short a time the bridge would be inadequate to accommodate the traffic; that it would be necessary to double the capacity of the structure. Indeed, why is it necessary? Is it because Brooklyn has grown so rapidly from within; because the upper wards in New York are now well built up and populated, and an "overflow" is inevitable? Nothing of the kind. The fact is, the people of New York are seeking elsewhere the rapid transit facilities which politicians at Albany, a demagogic press and a few selfish property-holders have so far kept from them. It has been made impossible to tens of thousands of people to live in New York. To reach the upper part of the city entails too serious inconveniences and the loss of too much time, while in the lower part rents are either too high or the locality too unattractive. The consequence is, that the crass stupidity that has cried out against any improvement of the facilities we have (the only quick way of dealing with the situation) and opposed Arcade road, Cable road and every other scheme proposed, has positively driven out of the city as effectually as any decree could, tens of thousands of people who should be here giving employment to builders and trades people, and adding to the wealth and solidity of New York, instead of Brooklyn, Staten Island, the Oranges, and at least a score of New Jersey towns. We shall all, even the rapid transit experts of the daily press, be so wise by-and-by on this subject of transportation; but it will be at the wrong end. It will be only a melancholy, not a fruitful, satisfaction, to recognize the blunder that has been made in ignoring the means at hand to give the city at once rapid transit, while searching heaven and earth for a scheme that will suit the municipal authorities, the politicians, engineers, all portions of the public and press, capitalists, property-holders, the needs of the present and the future. There is only one common-sense way out of our difficulties as they face us to-day—let the elevated roads build the third track to Harlem and the loop at the Battery. This will mean an increase of a third in the accommodations and a saving of nearly 50 per cent. in the time of travel. This isn't the ideal system we are hunting for. But the rapid transit has long ceased to be a matter of ideals or of preparing for the future; it is a hard necessity of the hour.

Not the least important among the municipal improvements in Berlin during the past ten years has been the successful construction and maintenance of an immense system of public markets. A decade ago the only places where the citizens of Berlin could buy their food at market rates were in the public squares. The prices were cheap; but the stands were dirty and traffic was hindered by their erection. Most of the booths sold nothing but meat and vegetables which were produced in the surrounding country. There were no railway connections, so that little variety and but few delicacies could be obtained. Efforts were made as early as 1872, both by private individuals and the municipal officers to remedy these evils; but the State had control of the streets and squares, and the State would do nothing. What Berlin needed was Home Rule, and some years later she got it. Very soon improvements were rapidly pushed forward. Cattle markets and abattoirs were built at a cost of about $4,000,000; and, what was better, they were placed in close and easy connection with the railroads running to and from and in and about the city, so that the markets were easily accessible both by producer and consumer. The success of these cattle markets induced the authorities to provide accommodations for the wholesale and retail dealers in provisions also. The market was built to open on the platforms of a freight depot, and a contract between the State and the city secured fairly good local service. The internal arrangements are excellent—inclosed stalls for meat, running water and marble counters for fresh-water fish, electric illumination and commodious cellars—while the charges for the stalls are moderate and are being continually reduced. The prices of the commodities have been lower and steadier since the opening of the markets. The management, as is usually the case in Berlin, is in the hands of a committee of fifteen—ten councillors and five magistrates. Thus, without the expenditure of a cent by the taxpayers—for the markets pay handsomely—the citizens have clean and neat accommodations, a greater variety and a better quality of foods, and thorough sanitary inspection. A more complete and satisfactory advantage of what can be done by the action of efficient and honest municipal authorities would be difficult to find.

A bill was introduced by Mr. Robert Ray Hamilton, providing for laying one assessment on streets embraced in grants from the city of land formerly under water, in lieu of the covenants contained in those grants, on the part of private owners to keep the streets in repair. This bill now awaits the signature of the Governor; if signed, it will remove an apparent cloud on the title of more than ten thousand lots, and provide the city with decent public streets along the North and East Rivers, in place of the present disgraceful pavements, which are supposed to be maintained at private expense under a system suitable only for a village.

"A Broader Outlook."

Twelve years ago the few scattered professors of political economy in this country appeared to have about as much influence on practical affairs as so many teachers of theology. For some time there had been in existence—the last infirmity of a noble cause—a standard of economic orthodoxy. The confession of faith was simple: "Do you believe that the free play of individual self-interest doeth all things well?" If you answered in the affirmative you were acknowledged to be a real "economist;" if not you were cast into an outer-darkness, supposed to be peopled only by sciolists, cranks and demagogues. All economic wisdom seemed to be summed up in the command to let things alone. It was supposed to be demonstrated that rent, profits and wages were all determined by "natural," immutable laws, and if the State, the Church, the philanthropists or the labor organizations tried to improve matters they were sure to play the mischief.

Books were published in which, as the writers boastfully stated, there was nothing new—only a restatement of the old conclusions, which were assumed to be all-sufficient. Political economy seemed to have said its last word, and what it had said was indeed "dismal." The early English economists, in the days before the repeal of the corn laws or the reform of the poor laws, had frequently said "Don't" with excellent results. The later economists refused to see that it was ever necessary to say anything else, and discredited themselves accordingly. In spite of their opposition, however, protectionism flourished, factory legislation increased, labor organizations perfected themselves, public education was pushed, banking and insurance were regulated, railroads were compelled to submit to stringent legislation, and that panacea for all economic diseases, "the free play of individual self-interest," began to lead men to combine rather than to compete. While the orthodox economists were still dogmatically insisting that government should do as little as possible, the doctrine of laissez-faire was, for all practical purposes, "as dead as the cult of Osiris."

But as our industrial and political problems became more pressing, there was a growing demand for men who would honestly and patiently study them, not in the light of orthodox economic dogmas, but in the light of history, experience and observed facts. A number of enthusiastic workers, many of them young, some of them trained for their work in German universities under professors who are adherents of the "historical school" in economics, raised in this country the standard of "the new political economy." A gathering of those interested in the new movement was called to meet in Saratoga in September, 1885, at which time the American Historical Association was also in session there. Among the twenty or thirty men interested in this meeting may be especially mentioned Prof. Ely, of the John Hopkins University; Prof. James, of the University of Pennsylvania; Prof. H. C. Adams, of Cornell and Ann Arbor; Prof. Seligman, of Columbia College, and Prof. Clark, of Smith College. Francis A. Walker, of the Boston Institute of Technology, was made President of the American Economic Association there organized, an office that he still holds.

The original statement of principles incorporated in the constitution was as follows:

1. "We regard the State as an agency whose positive assistance is one of the indispensable conditions of human progress.

2. "We believe that political economy as a science is still in an early stage of its development. While we appreciate the work of former economists, we look not so much to speculation as to the historical and statistical study of actual conditions of economic life for the satisfactory accomplishment of that development.

3. "We hold that the conflict of labor and capital has brought into prominence a vast number of social problems, whose solution requires the united efforts, each in its own sphere, of the Church, of the State, and of Science.

4. "In the study of the industrial and commercial policy of governments we take no particular attitude. We believe in a progressive development of economic conditions, which must be met by a corresponding development of legislative policy."

This statement was proposed and accepted as a general indication of the views and purposes of those who founded the association, and was not regarded as binding upon individual members. During the early days of the association the attitude of its members was rather belligerent—that of men who expect to have to fight for their faith. But they steadily avoided all partisanship, welcomed all honest workers, and now they number in their ranks nearly every active economist in the country. This change in the attitude of economists as a class comes not so much from German influence, to which it is frequently traced; nor from the arguments formally made in its favor, as from the logic of events. The men of the new school are doing work that obviously needs doing. For instance, the first scientific paper published by the American Economic Association was Prof. James' monograph on the "Relation of the Modern Municipality to the Gas Supply." He did not talk about the "economic man" or "immutable laws," or evolve conclusions from his inner consciousness. Instead he patiently collected the facts in the case from the cities of this country and of Europe, and so marshalled them, and the conclusions inductively derived from them "that a wayfaring man, though a fool," may understand the practical situation better for reading the monograph. It is probable that this valuable paper saved Philadelphia from turning over her gas works to a private company.

The new school, among its other services, has helped to popularize political economy as it was never popularized before. Men trained in economic investigations are in demand not only in our colleges, but in bureaus of labor statistics, boards of transportation, tax commissioners, chambers of commerce, leading periodicals, and in the management of the practical philanthropics of our large cities. The publications of the American Economic Association are now in the fourth volume; besides these, the Political Science Quarterly is now published at Columbia College, the Quarterly Journal of Economics at Harvard, and the American Statistical Association has also awakened from long sleep into vigorous life.

Already the term "new political economy" is nearly or quite outgrown. The fight for new methods is practically won. The science is becoming more popular because more human and more useful. The economists have consented to take "a broader outlook." These words are quoted from the vignette motto on the title-page of a fourthcoming text-book of political economy by Professor Ely, and they well epitomize the happy change that has taken place in the methods and purposes of the science.

We often hear it said nowadays that the United States Treasury has altogether too much power for good and evil in our money market. The enormous funds under the control of the Secretary of the Treasury makes it possible for him by their misapplication in panicky times to do an incredible amount of damage. To this it may be replied that, while it is certainly true that a dishonest or incapable official may do an immense amount of evil, he may also be of great service to the public financially, and that, as a matter of fact, officials in the past have exercised their powers for the benefit rather than the detriment of the public. In the panic of 1873 the Secretary did all he could to alleviate the money market. If he did not succeed it was not because he did not have the will, but because he did not have the power. A more recent example of what a public official can do in a trying emergency comes from France. According to the liquidators of the Comptoir d'Escompte, it was due solely to the timely and patriotic intervention of M. Rouvier that the failure of the Société des Metaux did become national in its importance and destructiveness. Nor is this the first time that France has been saved from dire calamity by the prompt and able intervention of the government. In the early "fifties" the financial policy of the Third Napoleon—the construction of the railways with governmental aid, and the creation of the Credit Mobilier and the Credit Foucier—had given France what outsiders thought to be a fictitious prosperity which would end in a terrible disaster. Yet the same power which was responsible for the period of over-activity was able by its intimate relations with the great banks and bankers slowly and cautiously to moderate the excitement until the business of the country was once more on a firm basis and greatly enriched by the operations. Thus she escaped the panic of 1857, which caused such great distress in England and America. There may come a time when we, too, shall see the advantage of having some great regulative power at hand which can mitigate the evil effects of a panic and turn stagnation into activity.

Men and Things.

Hereafter all school buildings erected south of the Harlem River will be built entirely of fireproof material, and school houses built in the 23d and 24th Wards north of the Harlem will be made semi-fireproof—stairways, light shafts and ceilings being fireproof. The school houses built in North New York will have an advantage over city buildings by being erected in the centre of large plots of ground with no buildings of any kind directly adjoining.

Chicago is about to steal a march upon Brooklyn in the race for third place among the cities of the Union. The rapid way in which the population of our offspring and neighbor across the river has been piling up of late stirred the hearts of the inhabitants with the belief that soon they would distance Chicago and be second only to Philadelphia and New York. But here is where Western shrewdness comes in. "Not if the court knows herself," says Chicago, and forthwith goes and tacks on the trimmings which lie scattered about the great body of the city, thus increasing her population to nearly a million. Moreover, she immediately begins to scorn outgeneraled Brooklyn and esteems herself big enough to take New York itself down a peg. Surely every metropolitan must blush at the terrible contempt of the Chicago Tribune, which says that Bishop Potter's denunciation was no doubt overdrawn as applied to the whole country, but "every word of it was true of the stock-jobbing aristocrats, trust monopolists, political rogues, vote buyers and sellers, and plug uglies, native-born and naturalized, of the rotten Democratic metropolis."

It is somewhat peculiar that hitherto much of the tearing down of old buildings, to be replaced by new ones, has taken place east of Broadway. Perhaps the beginning of a movement to reconstruct the city on the west side of Broadway is to be found in the five-story store, 25x57, to be erected by the George W. Welsh estate on the northeast corner of Barclay and Church streets. This new structure will be built in the Byzantine style, of iron, Dorchester stone, and yellow brick. James E. Ware, by the bye, has the plans.

Further particulars have transpired about Christ Church, which is to be erected on the northwest corner of 71st street and the Boulevard. According to Charles C. Haight, the architect, the dimensions are to be 65x117 feet, and it is to be built of stone, in the Romanesque style, with the upper portion of mottled brick and terra cotta. It will contain a nave, chancel, transept and two aisles. The organ loft and the vestry rooms are to be placed on the north side of the chancel, and the Sunday-school room in the basement. The seating capacity will be about 600, and there will be both gas and electric lights, all of which will be had for the sum of $85,000.

***

Bishop Loughlin, who has long been desiring to have established a college for the training of candidates for the priesthood, has at last been able to get his plans into a definite shape. At a meeting of the pastors of the diocese, recently, the Bishop explained his intentions, and showed that each church in the district would be expected to subscribe from $50 to $1,800. In spite of some grumbling about the proposition, there is but little doubt that the college will be organized.

***

Before long Brooklyn's conspicuous lack of artistic monuments will be remedied to a certain extent. The Governor has signed the bill providing for the erection and completion of a soldiers' and sailors' monument.

***

During the past week Ashley A. Vantine took title to the premises No. 361 6th avenue, two doors north of 22d street, size 24x65, the consideration or purchase money being $100,000. Simultaneously with the passing of title appears a lease of the same premises by Mr. Vantine to Samuel Cohn, the late owner, for a period of twenty-one years, at $8,000 per annum. Mr. Vantine used to be a dealer in Japanese goods, and he has within the past year bought nearly half a million dollars' worth of property on the same avenue south of 23d street. Among other pieces bought by him was the northwest corner of 16th street, which has been improved by the erection of a substantial store. These purchases by Mr. Vantine, taken in connection with other improvements under way and prospective, indicate that this busy avenue between 14th and 23d streets will be greatly changed for the better within a short period. The mammoth store being erected by the Ehrich's between 22d and 23d streets, with entrances on both streets, has already been noted in these columns, as was the fact that the Greenwich Savings Bank, which prosperous institution recently purchased the southeast corner of 16th street, would, as soon as existing leases expire, erect a handsome banking building on the site. Then the church property on the southeast corner of 15th street is in the market for sale and will likely be secured by some enterprising firm on the lookout for a desirable site. Two weeks ago we chronicled the lease of the southwest corner of the same street, the property being known as the West Side Hotel, for a term of twenty-one years at $12,000 per annum and taxes. The lessees, Messrs. Coogan Bros., furniture dealers, announce that they will erect a handsome store on the plot, which is 50x120 in size, as soon as existing leases run out.

Amid the hurry and scurry of the last few days of the session many bills were rushed through which are of interest to property-owners. Among them is the bill providing for the construction and maintenance of an exterior street long a portion of the East River, the bill for indexing instruments affecting real estate according to the block system, for allowing the construction of light passenger bridges over the New York streets, for the improvement of streets in the 23d Ward, for repaving the streets of New York, to complete the enclosure of Morningside Park, and opening 116th street through the Bloomingdale Asylum in 1894. Senators Vedder, Erwin, Arnold, Stadler and Murphy were appointed a committee to report on the streets in the annexed district.

Hunt & Houghton report that Francis Crawford, who paid $200,000 for the plot of ground 100 feet west of 9th avenue on 72d street, is breaking ground for the foundations for eight residences. The plans will not be ready until next week.

***

There seems to be considerable doubt as to whom the parties are whose initials appear upon the four plans selected from among the numerous designs for the Protestant Cathedral sent in from all parts of the world. Architects W. A. Potter and R. H. Robertson, C. C. Haight, R. M. Hunt, and others have been named, but there is no absolute certainty about the matter. The next few weeks will, no doubt, bring us nearer to the first choice in this very important competition. Ten of the architects selected, it appears, have been paid by the committee for their designs. Messrs. Potter, Robertson, Haight and Hunt represent the very strongest ecclesiastical and social influences that could be brought to bear upon the choice, as well as some of the highest talent.

The time of the Board of Street Opening and Improvement, in its meeting on Friday, was taken up principally with a discussion of the principle upon which the streets in the annexed district should be finally opened. It seems that residents on a street cannot get water, drainage, gas, or any of the city conveniences until that street is declared first-class. Mayor Grant was in favor of granting the permission to open such streets whenever the property-holders asked for it, provided that the street, when opened, should not run in an arbitrary direction. He wanted a quadrilateral series of streets, just as they are west of the park. Unfortunately for this plan, however, it was conclusively proved that the topography of the vicinity would not permit of quadrilateral streets except at immense expense. And it was further stated that in the original laying out of the district the lines were arranged as regularly as possible. Then Mayor Grant wanted all the streets of the annexed district opened at once, but did not push the matter when he learned that in certain sections there existed property owners, but not residents, and that very likely the property owners would object to paying the assessments where they had no intention of improving. It is very certain from the discussion that realty owners in that vicinity will have little or no trouble in having their streets opened when they ask for the privilege. The Board decided in the Bethune street matter that the blue lines should be observed, making the street 50 feet wide.

Rapid Transit Not Yet Killed.

THE MAYOR'S ALTERNATIVE.

The efforts of members of the Legislature to defeat Mayor Grant's Rapid Transit bill seem, at first sight, to postpone for one session, if not indefinitely, a comprehensive plan to give the people of New York a more permanent and better system of rapid transit than they now have. But these members, and any interests that may be behind them, have overshot the mark, for in place of defeating a bill which would have enabled them to have some show of existence, they have created a condition of things which may be fatal to their interests.

A representative of THE RECORD AND GUIDE called upon Mayor Grant to ascertain his position on the matter.

"What course of action do you propose taking, Mr. Mayor, now that your measure has been killed at Albany?" asked the writer.

"I shall have to fall back upon the power which the law at present gives me," was the reply. "I can, on the application of fifty property owners, appoint a commission to determine upon the solution of the rapid transit question, without waiting till another session. It would only be a waste of time to wait till next year and endeavor to push through another bill. By that time we can have the problem pretty well advanced towards solution."

"You will no doubt have observed, Mr. Mayor, that the Real Estate Exchange has asked Governor Hill to convene an extra session of the Legislature to deal with the question."

"I shall welcome any measure which will tend to solve the problem, said the Mayor. "I am not confident, however, that the parties who antagonized the bill during the regular session will cease to do so during an extra session."

"There is a feeling in some quarters, Mr. Mayor, that some temporary measure of relief should be undertaken, seeing that it will take some years before a more permanent plan can be carried out. Would you feel disposed to appoint engineers to inquire into the ability of the elevated roads to carry more passengers with less overcrowding, provided the loop they ask for in the Battery Park is granted to them?"

"We have no right, nor would the Legislature have any authority, to allow them to utilize any parks taken by the right of eminent domain for the use of the public. It would be unconstitutional. The elevated roads are only in Battery Park now on sufferance."

"Would you, then, favor the construction of third tracks along the 2d, 3d and 9th avenues?" asked the writer.

"No, because that would darken the streets too much," said the Mayor.

In reference to the Rapid Transit bill, the Mayor further said: "I asked for a limitation, not an extension, of my powers in that bill. At present I can give the franchise of any road which may be decided upon by the Commissioners to any railway company who may be selected to build it, whereas under the bill I would have had to make it a matter of agreement between the city and the company. I was not opposed to any amendments to the bill that were to the advantage of the city."

"Will you issue a special message on the matter Mr. Mayor?"

"I have not yet decided upon that," was the reply.

Real Estate Department.

The week has been a comparatively inactive one. In the brokers offices there has been a slightly increased inquiry here and there, but the end of the season is clearly at hand, for business has, on the whole, evidently panned out. A great many flats were retained by old tenants over the month of June wherever they could be secured, owing to a desire on the part of tenants to retain their quarters over the Centennial celebrations. This has been a curious feature of flat renting this year. Few sales of importance seem to have been transacted. Lots in the upper wards have sold well on the Exchange during the past week, while in other directions prices have not been as good as might have been desired. A number of parcels have been sold under foreclosure, while others have been withdrawn or their sale postponed. The statistics of conveyances and projected buildings for this week show a handsome increase over the corresponding week last year.

On Monday the properties offered at auction were not numerous. The four-story residence at No. 117 East 57th street, 20 feet wide, brought $38,900, W. F. Graaf being the purchaser. Ten three-story brick dwellings on a plot of four lots at Nos. 336 to 342 West 26th street were knocked down to Daniel Connolly at $54,000. Five of the houses are on the front of the lots and five on the rear. Four three-story dwellings on 112th street, east of Manhattan avenue, were sold under foreclosure and became the property of the plaintiff in the suit at $42,300. Five dwellings on the northeast corner of Manhattan avenue and 112th street were also knocked down to the plaintiff at $56,000. The sale of the Bijou Opera House was adjourned till the 27th inst. The disposal of the 205 lots of the Punnett estate at private sale, just before the auctioneer took the stand, created considerable excitement among the large crowd who had gathered around his stand to bid on them. The auctioneer was not sure whether the sale had been consummated. The Exchange bell had rung, and the auction room resounded with the voices of the sellers in all parts of the room. A message was handed to Mr. Wells, and he announced that the entire property had been sold privately and was therefore withdrawn. The purchaser was Henry R. Phillips, of Plainfield, N. J., and the price paid was $6,000 per acre. The total figure will not be settled upon until an accurate survey is made. It is said that there are between 14½ and 16 acres. The sale was made by Miss Agnes K. Murphy, the young broker who has created such interest recently by her large sales of 24th Ward property. The sale was made through H. C. Von Post, who represents the estate. The contract was signed at about two minutes before noon, and great disappointment was expressed by the people who had come from over the Harlem to buy. The price paid is said to be a good one. At the office of Auctioneer Wells, who assisted in the sale, it is said that the lots would probably not have sold as well at auction as they did privately. The average price paid was about $500 per lot, taking out the ground required for streets. At auction some would have brought more and others less. The property will be held by the purchaser as an investment. It is situated on Morris, Burnside and Jerome avenues, Mount Hope, in the 24th Ward.

On the same day H. C. Mapes & Co. sold at Bronxdale, on the premises, seventy-three lots belonging to the estate of Joseph Thwaites, on Bronx and Pelham Parkways, at prices ranging from $130 to $600 per lot, the total amount realized being $28,060, which is over 33 per cent. more than the heirs expected from the sale. The meadow land, comprising an acre and a-half, on West Farms Creek, Westchester, brought $245, and it is said was bought for John Jacob Astor, as it adjoins his late purchase of the Trask estate.

On Tuesday the sales that attracted most attention were those of the South street properties. Nos. 223, 223½ and 224, near Market slip, containing some three-story buildings on a plot 60x160, running through to Water street, were bought by Ambrose K. Ely at $41,750, the first bid having been $25,000. The same party purchased Nos. 234 and 235 South street, west of Peck slip, containing some two-story buildings on a plot 40x160, for $25,000. The sale of No. 14 East 40th street, a four-story residence 21 feet wide, was watched with some interest. The contest was between three bidders, two of whom ran the property up to over $55,000, when the third man unexpectedly appeared upon the scene and secured the house at $57,000. The purchaser was H. M. Smith. A four-story dwelling, with a lot 26x106, at No. 317 East 17th street, 186 feet east of 2d avenue, was secured by E. J. Granger at $27,250.

On Wednesday several small crowds gathered around the seven auctioneers who had property to offer. One of the sales of the day was that of Hamilton Place lots, taking in the entire front on the east side between 139th and 140th streets, and four lots on the southeast corner of 139th street. Hamilton Place is 75 feet wide and it will be remembered as being part of the Old Bloomingdale road. It is near the handsome improvements on the Grange. The short lot on the northeast corner of 140th street was contested for between two bidders, and the auctioneer used quite a little finesse in running one against the other. He succeeded in drawing out $4,125, at which price it became the property of Thos. Loughlin. The lot is 27.0⅜ and 24.11x59 and 69.8½ in size, and therefore contains 1,672 square feet, which is equal to nearly 67 per cent. of a full lot. In this proportion 25x100 on the spot would be worth $6,156. Three lots adjoining south, each about 10⅜ feet deeper than the other, brought $2,800, $4,000 and $4,100 each, respectively, the last being 27.1⅜ and 25x91.1 1-10 and 101.10⅝. The two latter were bought by John A. Sempter, and the first, which adjoins the corner, by Thos. Loughlin. Mr. Sempter also secured the southeast corner of 139th street, which is the same width as the other corner, but 69.8⅜ and 80.4 in depth, at $3,500, and three lots adjoining south for $2,500, $2,800 and $3,200 each, respectively. The last is 27.1⅜ and 25x101.6⅝ and 112.1½ in size. The lower half of the lots between 139th and 140th streets were withdrawn from sale, though the prices obtained for the upper half were considered fair. The sale was announced as peremptory. Four lots on the southeast corner of Kingsbridge road and Isham street brought from $1,400 to $2,175 each, the latter for the corner and the former for the inside lots. No. 728 Hancock street was withdrawn at a bid of $5,300, and other parcels were adjourned.

On Thursday the sale of the four-story residence at No. 13 East 38th street attracted some attention. It belongs to the estate of Rosena Pease, and was bought in by the heirs at $59,500. A four-story tenement and store at No. 28 Broome street, near Goerck street, 25 x about 50x75, was knocked down to Wm. Morris at $10,250. Of the thirty-four lots announced to be offered at West Morrisania only three were disposed of, the balance being withdrawn. The flat on the northeast corner of St. Nicholas avenue and 117th street, and the flat on the northeast corner of Manhattan avenue and 106th street, were bought in by parties in interest at $42,000 and $52,000 respectively, the amount due on the former being $40,201 and on the latter $43,227.

On Friday no business of importance was transacted.

On Monday, May 20th, James L. Wells will sell fifty-one vacant lots, formerly a portion of the well-known Bathgate estate, on 3d avenue, Fulton avenue and 171st street. The sale will be without reserve and the titles are guaranteed by the Lawyers' Title Insurance Company. On the same day he will sell two extra deep lots on 3d avenue, at its junction with Brook avenue, in the 23d Ward. On Monday, May 27th, James L. Wells will sell, to close the estate of Theodore Wilkins, deceased, the very handsome and desirably situated villa site on the westerly side of the Eastchester road, just north of the railroad crossing, containing 6,392 acres. The plot is about five minutes' walk from the Westchester station of the Harlem River Branch road, connecting with the Second Avenue Elevated Railroad. Ten per cent. and the auction fees must be paid at the time of sale, and the balance on delivery of the deed. On Tuesday, May 28th, he will sell five extra large lots on Tremont and Daly avenues. Out Among the Builders.

Daniel Hennessy intends to build four four-story high stoop residences on a plot 102.2x95 in size, on the northwest corner of Madison avenue and 71st street. They will have brick and stone fronts and will contain all the modern improvements. The sizes will be about 25x60 each, exclusive of two-story dining-room extensions. Their cost is estimated by the architects, Messrs. Thom & Wilson, at abcut $120,000.

Edward Canda, the well-known dealer in building material, is about to erect six first-class houses on the north side of 57th street, on a plot to the east of the residence which adjoins Dr. McArthur's handsome church, about 300 feet west of 6th avenue. They will each be about 20x60 in size, exclusive of two-story butlers' pantry extensions. They will have all the improvements, and will cost about $135,000. The plans are being prepared by Thom & Wilson.

The Children's Aid Society are about to add two fine buildings to the number which they have already erected in various parts of the city. One is to be built on the north side of 73d street, 113 feet east of 1st avenue. The society owns a plot of four lots on the site, but the building will only cover 64x100. It will be four stories high, exclusive of basement, and will be fire-proof. The front will be of brick and stone. The balance of the land, some 36 feet, will be used as a playground for the children. The second building will be put up at Nos. 215 and 217 East 21st street, between 2d and 3d avenues, and will be similar in character to those built further south. The total cost of these improvements has not yet been estimated. Plans are being prepared by Messrs. Vaux & Radford. Mr. Vaux, Jr., who was in charge of the office in the absence of Mr. Radford, who was unwell, declined to give any information about the matter, though Mr. Radford has always cheerfully volunteered news in reference to the society's buildings in the past. The reason given was that they would be overrun with contractors if the items got in THE RECORD AND GUIDE.

There will be two entrances on Lexington avenue, and the apartments of each family will be separated by brick partitions, so that the tenants will be as private as if each apartment was in a different building. There will be no inside light shafts, as all the rooms connect directly with the outer air. The building will be fitted with all modern improvements, including drying rooms in the cellar, with a separate drying apparatus for each family. This apartment house will cost $70,000.

Brooklyn.

Chas. P. H. Gilbert has furnished plans for a four-story residence, 22x70 feet, for Thos. Van Loan, who will begin building on the south side of Montgomery street, 100 feet west of 9th avenue. The style of architecture will be free Romanesque. The first story is to be constructed of stone and the other stories of brick with stone trimmings. In the front of the building will be a gable, and the mansard roof will be covered with corrugated Dutch tiles. The building will be lit with gas, and all modern improvements introduced. The cost has not been estimated.

P. J. Lauritzen, the designer of the Smith & Gray building at Flatbush and Fulton avenues, Brooklyn, and of the Manhattan Athletic Club building in New York City, has been chosen as the architect for the additions to the Union League club house in Brooklyn. It has been decided to enlarge the present building site of the club by the purchase of two adjacent lots, giving a frontage on Bedford avenue of 122 feet and on Dean street of 115 feet. The building to be placed on this plot will be four stories in height and will have a frontage of 96 feet on Bedford avenue. It will extend along Dean street for a distance of 50 feet, and from that end a four-story L of 45 feet will run out parrallel with Bedford avenue. The main front will be on this avenue, and the general character of the design is Romanesque. Granite will be the material used to the first story window sills, and above this a light shade of chocolate brick with stone trimmings. On the Bedford avenue side will be the main entrance, which will be approached by a double flight of steps leading to a portico 30x7 feet; on the right side of this will be placed the café. The front of this portion of the building will be treated as a gable end with an ornamentally carved bay window extending to the roof, which forms the ceiling of the gymnasium on the fourth floor. The corner at the left hand of the entrance is treated as an octagon from the first story up, and carried beyond the main roof as a lantern, surmounted with a pointed tower roof, which forms the base of the club's flag pole. The portico and front window in the parlor, which is in the corner, form three prominent arches, supported on short columns in the Romanesque order, the two spandrils between the windows being ornamented with carved work within which will be set two medallions in heroic size of Lincoln and Grant. The ladies' entrance has been placed on the Dean street side, and its construction will be carried out with the same general design and material as the main front. The main entrance on the first floor leads to a large hallway with fire-place and office. Opposite the entrance door, on the right, is a lobby connecting with the hat and coat room, with seats for attendants, etc. Toward the front is the café overlooking the avenue, while the large dining hall is entered on the opposite side and extends the entire depth af the rear building, with an abundance of light on the court and overlooking Dean street. The two cross partitions separating these two rooms with the lobby between are made movable, with bolts at top and bottom, and thus three parts can be thrown into one large dining hall or ball room. On the left of the main hall is the main stairway, well lighted from above and of easy ascent. Opposite the stairs is the reception room, and to the right of this is the men's parlor, overlooking Bedford avenue and Dean street, with extensive window space. The basement is reached directly under the main stairs by a broad platform sraircase, and here on the left are four bowling alleys. The space under the Bedford avenue front, forming the various projections and veranda, is utilized as a shooting gallery, with a good-sized parlor for men in front under the Dean street sidewalk. The second floor has a large lobby over the hall, from which one enters the large billiard hall, with café adjoining, the latter being raised some twenty-one inches over the former. Back of the café is a board of managers' room, which also can be used as a card room or a general meeting room when not required by the board. The library is located directly over the men's parlor, and back of this is a large card room. There is another card room over the office, and two committee rooms over the reception room and vestibule. On the third floor are several sleeping rooms, with toilet and bath rooms accessible from any room. The gymnasium is over the billiard room, with large dressing and locker rooms adjoining, also two needle baths. Back of the lockers are the servants' rooms, with bath and toilet room adjoining. Among the possible interesting features of the club house which has been suggested is a roof garden over the Bedford avenue front to the height of the tie beams in the gymnasium, thus giving a clear view of the room from the garden, which can be inclosed in winter time, and will form an excellent room for all kinds of games. The cost of the addition will be about $100,000.

Special Notice.

Builders of flats who want architectural woodwork, mantels, etc., cannot do better than go to Kilian Bros., of Nos. 157 and 159 West 32d street, New York. Their goods are remarkable for nicety of finish, neatness of design and other artistic qualities. Designs and estimates are furnished by them on demand. We give an illustration in another column of a handsome mantel, which they furnish for only $13.

One always feels a certain amount of regret to see intelligence and money wasted on a task which is hopeless from its very nature. It was with something of this feeling that the critic watched the first performance of the much-heralded "Oolah." Undoubtedly it was a great personal triumph for Mr. Francis Wilson. The audience were heartily, almost absurdly appreciative of the stray drops of humor that trickled now and then over the surface of the story; and they sat in that theatre amid heat and vapors without a single groan for three and a-half mortal hours. This was a triumph, but the triumph was the result of Mr. Wilson's previous reputation, not his present success. In all essentials the opera is common-place. The music is not dramatic, and, except in a few instances, not even interesting. The plot is original, but its originality is obscured by a hazy stupidity of treatment. In all accessories the production is admirable. The company is good, the costumes and the scenery all that could be desired; and the stage pictures and business have in them something of the completeness of a representation by Irving. But Mr. Wilson should learn that no finish of detail can make a bad thing good. He may succeed for a while; but, his legs shackled, he cannot run for long.

BUILDING MATERIAL MARKET.

BRICKS.—On the market for Common Hards the tendency has continued downward, and another shading has to be made in quotations all along the line. It seems to be very much the same old story, the supply coming to hand rather faster than it is wanted and the effort to sell finding no success until terms are placed upon a more attractive level. Receivers say the arrivals are not what would be called extraordinarily heavy at the moment, yet with the break made during the Centennial celebration period, which practically knocked out one entire week of consumption, the larger amount of old stock brought out than was thought to exist, and the season for fresh production well forward, there is a certain disadvantage to sellers leading up to present results. Demand is on the whole really fair, and may rather be expected to increase if anything from this time forward, yet dealers are in a position to permit the assumption of a great deal of independence and enable them to refuse the payment of anything in excess of $6.75 per M, except possibly now and then for something in the way of very choice and exceptional cargoes, that can hardly be accepted as a basis for quotations. Pretty much all of the present offering is composed of new stock, and it is averaging very good in quality, as the first work was done under favorable conditions of weather, and it is not expected that many washed brick will appear until shipments commence from the second and third kilns. The accumulation of low-grade old stock was worked off for what it would bring, and some sold as low as $4.00@4.50 per M. Pales seem to be somewhat irregular in tone, within the range, however, of about former figures, and business is quoted from $3.50 per M for the best stock down to $2.75 per M for poorer grades.

CEMENT.—Over domestic grades there is considerable contradictory statement, but the summary seems to be that general business is not remarkably active. Everything still points to an ultimate good consumption and some of the companies occasionally book a very fair-sized contract, but for the present dealers are slow customers and investment principally for early wants. There is nothing to warrant a change in general quotations. Foreign stock has been coming in pretty freely this month and while held very well close up to former quotations the demand was slow. Importers in some cases especially complain of the want of interest on the part of interior customers who claim to have stock enough for present use.

HARDWARE.—There is more or less disappointment over the condition of trade for all kinds of stock, even builders' hardware as yet falling behind the amount calculated upon. Buyers appear very cautious and unwilling to go beyond the wants of the moment in the matter of investments. No official changes of value are recorded, but there is some evidences of weakness in response to the recent declines in the price of iron and copper.

LATH.—Although a large amount of stock was exhausted last week and demand has since continued very good, supplies were just a trifle fuller than the market could again absorb, and some weakening in value resulted. Sales were made as low as $2.15 per M, but in the main it is claimed at $2.20 for Eastern, and now with no supply of importance to bother them receivers are talking about $2.25 per M again, though it will require fresh business to substantiate claims to the latter figure. There has been some arrival of State stock, and that has added slightly to the depressed tone of late.

LIME.—It seems to be simply a steady market, about exhausting the supplies as they come to hand, but wanting no more stock at the moment. Manufacturers at the Eastward evidently understand the conditions, as they remain practically non-shippers in this direction and are making, for the present, a material curtailment in the amount of production. It is evidently understood that the association of manufacturers will go right along upon just about the same plan and scope as last year.

LUMBER.—Our genera local market is of a somewhat monotonous character, though without detriment to healthy and promising conditions before suggested. Consumption is good and on the increase, with a somewhat more varied assortment now required to meet the calls made, and dealers have no difficulty in sustaining the line of value for some time ruling. As usual, however, much latitude has to be given for yard rates owing to the numerous minor influences governing local trade and there is an absence of good solid basis for quotations. In a wholesale way matters move along upon an improving scale and reports of an adverse character are no more than ordinarily to be found upon so extensive a market. Pretty much every kind of stock is now receiving attention, and buyers, having discovered that the resumption brings them no other benefit than an improved opportunity for selection, are evidently better inclined to place their orders when wants have been decided upon.

Eastern Spruce appears to be in just about the former general situation and operators go over old ground in commenting upon the market. The possibilities of fluctuation in value are, of course, admitted, but always with the reservation that any downward dip will only be temporary, and through the local influence of an unexpected full accumulation of cargoes as the general features of a comparatively moderate supply for some time to come, and a good demand, are considered as remaining intact. Some few of the trade who have been studying the situation closely seem to think the improvement in demand is shown only by comparison with last year and is not as full as the preceding season but it has certainly been good enough to hold the market in healthy shape thus far and receivers are entitled to credit for the confidence they feel in ability to hold their own. Within a week or ten days there has been another one of those bunchy arrivals of cargoes with which it is difficult for even the best of salesmen to cope without some loss of advantage, and on the poorer randoms as low as $14.50 was accepted with some very small stuff reported even lower. Choice schedules, however, did very well, and on specials manufacturers' ideas are reported to be as full as ever.

Piling undergoes no radical change. Now and then there is a murmur about stock selling "a little off," but as a rule receivers who have been unable to dispose of cargoes promptly upon arrival have put the stock in chains and hold it there with confidence growing out of anticipated later demand and scant receipts.

Hemlock remains in a firm position and most of the principal operators exhibit about as much cheerfulness now as early in the season, some of them rather more of it, and are talking about an advance in value to even a higher plane for both joist and boards. Steps in the direction of higher prices, however, will be taken with a great deal of circumspection, if at all, for while the general production and stocks are under very good control, competitive supplies are not altogether wanting, and some of the custom is sufficiently well stocked to do a little standing off if necessary.

White Pine is filling a great many holes in the local stock, and while some of the parcels as they come to hand and move toward destination confirm previously entertained suspicions that dealers have been secret buyers to a considerable extent, there is still a good general inquiry for additional supplies. Full prices are asked and said to be obtained without difficulty on all thoroughly standard grades, such as box and shippers, and there is a continued effort to give uppers a lift and place them in a better relative position than last season. Offerings from sources of supply continue fair, but are carefully made and show no direct pressure to realize.

Yellow Pine offers nothing very new or calling for extended remark. Supplies can be reached to the full extent of current wants, and there is little or no difficulty in securing reasonably prompt deliveries, yet the position appears to be so well under control that no surplus comes upon sale, and the line of bids must range right up to the former plane in order to secure attention. Demand is of a general character, and requires about all kinds of standard stock to meet it. A very excellent and growing outlet is for railroad ties, a great many cargoes of which have already arrived this season.

Carolina Pine keeps step with other woods so far as carefully prepared stock is concerned, and as the production continues under very good management, there seems to be a good deal of success in preventing objectional offerings. Values, too, are preserved upon a steady basis, and if buyers desire to hurry their orders it is apt to cost them a little more money.

Hardwoods of all kinds are steady at least, and in exceptional cases, but more especially upon poplar, there seems to be a determination to obtain more money. Many buyers still insist that the upward turn on poplar is due more to combination among sellers than to natural influences; but that does not bring them any benefit, as full regular rates are insisted upon. Walnut is slow as usual on home account, but choice carefully selected stock meets with fair attention from exporters and commands full rates. Other woods are all more or less in favor on the regular line of demand from the consumptive trade.

Shingles are steadily held, and not as a rule offered with much liberality. The demand varies somewhat on all outlets, home buyers confining themselves to immediate necessities of the hour, and exporters moving on direct and positive orders.

GENERAL LUMBER NOTES.

THE WEST.

From Northwestern Lumberman we make the following clippings:

Forest fires are again doing their destructive work in the Northwest, and up to a late date there had not been enough rain anywhere to check them. These annual and inevitable losses emphasize the fact that the best thing that can be done with much of the exposed timber is to run it through a saw mill, the learned and sagacious denudatics to the contrary notwithstanding.

The law passed at the last session of the Wisconsin Legislature concerning log marking provides that all logs put into the water shall be marked, and that a diagram and complete description of each private mark, duly signed, must be recorded in the office of the lumber inspector of the district in which the logs are floated. Notice that a certain mark is to be adopted by a log owner must also be furnished in writing to every log owner or boom company in every district. Every mark newly adopted must be different from any other recorded mark. The marking of prize logs is prohibited. A violation of the law is punishable by a $10 forefeit, one-half going to the prosecutor. Anybody who counterfeits a log mark with intent to defraud can be sent to the penitentiary not to exceed five years, or fined not less than $500 nor more than $2,00(.

The condition of the market in respect to prices has not materially changed during the week. Prices of lumber in the hands of holders at the mill points in Michigan are inclined to insist on steady prices, without any relaxation. In case there is a marked tendency to weakness, holders are inclined to restrain offerings. This is particularly noticeable in the Chicago cargo market. The manufacturers appear to have fixed it in their minds that prices must not recede, and they evidently prefer to defer sales rather than to yield to the pressure of buyers.

Without doubt the dry weather and low stage of the streams, which prevent the running of logs, have induced a firm feeling in mill circles. At least manufacturers have determined to wait a little longer to see what the weather will do for or against them. The buyers are in about the same state of mind. Each side is partly resting in a spirit of uncertainty.

Yet there is a large amount of lumber moving on the lakes. Thus far this year forwarding from mills to lake markets aggregates an excess over the amount transported at this time last year. Dry stock has been nearly cleared off the mill docks.

In reference to the log supply, it is well to notice that operators have filled the land with complaints before the usual beginning of the sawing season. There is still time enough before the fall freeze-up to cut out a heavy stock of lumber, and there cannot be much doubt but that enough logs will be secured to meet the requirement.

A favorable condition for the white pine trade is the scarcity of poplar in Tennessee, Kentucky and the Virginias, and the late advance in prices of that kind of lumber. This will especially ease the competition in the higher grades at the East.

On the other hand, an unfavorable influence on the white pine demand in the East is the growing consumption of North Carolina and yellow pine.

On the whole, the general lumber trade can be called steady, with prices tending neither up or down materially, except in the case of poplar, which is diminishing in supply, while the demand is active and prices rising.

At Chicago, by the cargo.—A distinctive feature of the week's supply has been the arrival of several cargoes from the Huron shore, and a tow from Lake Superior. Menominee lumber has also begun to put in an appearance. The Lake Huron fleet contained a large proportion of piece stuff, and there was an expectation that the weight would depress the market. The first few loads sold at last week's prices, namely, $10.25 to $10.50, but two or three of the last went at $10. The concession thus given was not considered a decline in the market, since the better cargoes had been purchased first. The sale of this Lake Huron lumber was considered a fair test of the strength of the market—a tight place through which it has successfully squeezed without much loss.

Though long joist are selling at relatively lower prices than last year, at a like time, fair prices are realized on wide stuff. A commission house this week sold a quantity of 2x14—18 at $14.

A tow of Chequamegon Bay log run boards, with the culls inspected separately, was on the market during the week. It was reported that $13.25 was the price at which this lumber was sold. The market for inch lumber is holding fairly steady.

GREAT BRITAIN.

The Timber Trades Journal as follows:

LIVERPOOL.

The prices of pitch pine still keep up to their recent figures, 66s. c. i. f. being still the rate for 35 feet average. Whatever may be the case in other trades, the freight market for pitch pine cargoes shows little or no signs of declining, for we hear the same old rate, viz., £6 10s. per standard, has been paid for a sailing vessel in a distant position.

GLASGOW.

Pitch pine timber, arrivals of which to Clyde for this year, so far, are represented by a carrying tonnage of 14,633 tons, may be said to have been moderately imported, considering the extent of the demand; the stock held at the end of March, when last made up, did not vary much from what it stood at when the year began, and prices have been fully maintained.

NAILS.—The movement of supplies about as before and nothing very new on the general market. Stocks are not urged, it is claimed, but are always ready when called for and available at about the former general range of values, the drop in iron placing an advantage in buyers' favor. We quote at $1.80@1.85 per keg for car lots, and $1.90@1.95 per keg for parcels from store.

PAINTS AND OILS.—Business runs along at about former general average. Some days finds the market pretty active and then will come a bull, but of all standard goods the movement is about equal to calculations and prices steady. Offerings are not urged for sale, but prove ample in quantity and assortment. Linseed Oil meets with very good demand at 57@58c. for Western, and 59@59½c. for City. Spirits Turpentine has shown considerable irregularity, but of late rather favored buyers, closing at about 39½@40½c. per gallon, according to quantity, delivery, etc.

TAR AND PITCH.—The demand has been moderate and principally of the regular trade order with no change of importance in values. We quote Pitch $1.35@1.50 per bbl.; Tar at $2.10@2.20, according to quantity, quality and delivery.

For tables of Building Material prices see pages v., x., xi and xiii.
